The La Follette Name
Oakland's Fine Idea
Paul Block Buys Another
Angels That Watch Us

—By Arthur Brisbane—

THE NAME LA FOLLETTE remains a power in Wisconsin. Its voters have not forgotten the courage and the integrity of Robert La Follette, and apparently find in his sons the same characteristics.

What happiness it would give the father to know that his son, Robert La Follette, occupies a seat in the United States Senate, and that another son, Philip, has just been nominated governor of Wisconsin.

With one son in the Senate and another governor of his State, the old senator can feel that his family is well represented in American life. Perhaps he knows all about it, and if he doesn't, no matter. We live on, in our children, enjoying an immortality that agnosticism cannot take from us.

Chicago's attendance at night schools has increased 62 per cent, attributed to lack of employment.

Wise is the man, out of work temporarily, who puts his brain to acquiring knowledge. He will not remain unemployed.

Oakland, one of the most progressive cities in progressive California, establishes, thanks to the University of California, the country's first "adult educational center." R. A. Carrington, Jr., publisher of the Oakland Post Enquirer, sends the news.

The adult, rather than the child, craves information, eagerly seeking to repair lack or neglect of opportunity in childhood.

No man should feel that he is "too old to learn." DESIRE to learn proves of itself that you still CAN learn.

One of the greatest British scientists conquered Greek after he was sixty.

On the opening day of the University for Adults, students admitted included a banker, a day laborer, school teachers, two doctors, a dentist, a photographer, clerks, bookkeepers, insurance agents, a successful merchant and two truck drivers.

Well might the ancient Chinese say:

"He that knows not, and KNOWS that he knows not, is wise. Encourage him."

Paul Block's newspaper buying campaign goes marching on. Having already a successful and powerful evening newspaper in Detroit, he bought the Toledo Morning Times and, in less than a month, has greatly increased its circulation.

This article appearing on the front page each day seems not to have held back circulation.

Better than any living man, with one exception, Paul Block understands the value of publicity, which means advertising in its different branches.

Angels that watch us, and, perhaps, talk about us, must have been amused when they saw Henry Ford sleeping at Nancy, in a bed once occupied by the Sultan of Morocco.

That bed could not well have held two individuals further apart than the Sultan of Morocco and the Sultan of Detroit.

But to the angels we may seem as much alike as ants seem to us.

In a secret test, Captain Orlebar, squadron leader in the British air force, beat his own new world's record for speed, made when he won the Schneider cup, 355 miles and a fraction per hour.

He has recently several times exceeded 400 miles per hour, a speed that would bring him across the Atlantic in less than a day, across the Pacific by the daylight of one day.

We are not far from real flying.

Congressman Hamilton Fish, Jr., able, earnest young man, head of the committee appointed to investigate the "Reds," says investigation should cover the United States. He is right.

The United States should know about all important activities, including those of "Reds," and, if possible, some others, including national grafters, racketeers, bootleg organizations and wholesale criminals.

The "Red" menace, which worries some of our "best minds," seems to be spreading.

In Australia, where government by labor unions has been accepted, overdone and public finances are badly strained, there has been organized "a worker's defense army," called by others "an organization of Reds."

This "army" tells its lords that they must not evict the unemployed, whether they pay rent or not. What they mean was illustrated when a landlord's home in the suburbs was wrecked.

In France, 15,000 jobs go begging. No men are idle. Work-

Narragansett Police Confiscate 600 Cases Liquor; Link Boston Ring to the Landing

Providence, Sept. 18—More than 600 cases of choice liquors, valued at $50,000 were sneaked ashore during the night on rum boats which used the great fleet attending the international yacht races as a screen, and were seized today. Sixteen men were arrested by state police and officers of Narragansett and Warwick.

Three trucks, fully loaded and about to start away, led by a high powered touring car, were captured [illegible] Warwick Pier, isolated spot, three miles from Narragansett Pier, one of society's favorite summer playgrounds.

Another truck, going at 60 miles an hour, was fired on by Warwick police and halted after a chase of 11 miles when one of its front tires was shot away. One man was captured, another, believed wounded, escaped through the woods.

The seizure was the largest in months. Boston bootleg ring is believed to have seen the opportunity of smuggling liquor ashore from Rum Row, with the Coast Guards relaxing their vigilance, due to the presence off Newport of the yachting fleet.

At dawn the four trucks were fully loaded and one was on its way, when Police Chief Frank Smith of Narragansett and three of his officers reached Watson's Pier.

Approaching with drawn guns, the police had no trouble making the arrests, as their visit was a complete surprise. The fourth truck was overhauled by a state trooper and two Warwick policemen.

The boat which landed the liquor evidently was a large one and Coast Guards operating in the Newport area were given instructions today to be on the lookout for it.

The trucks, liquor and men were taken to the Narragansett Pier police station and held for the arrival of federal agents from this city.

RECOUNT IN BIG CITIES ASKED FOR DRAPER

Papers Taken Out and Will Be Rushed for Signatures; Time Limit Short

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY.

In a counter attack on the victory of William M. Butler, supporters of Eben S. Draper, defeated candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination, today took out papers for a recount in Boston.

Similar action, it was understood, is under way in other key cities, particularly Newton, Worcester, Fall River and Springfield, where Draper did not fare so well as expected.

Anyone [illegible] registered voter in each city must be filed with the election commissioners by 5 p. m. tomorrow.

SEE CHANCE FOR UPSET

It is contended that Butler's margin of victory in the state was so slim—but 6662 votes—that it could easily be overturned if an error had been made in the count of Boston's ballots or those in other large cities where Draper forces were strong.

The Hopedale crusader carried Boston by only 145 votes in the official returns, a far smaller plurality than was expected.

Maj. Roland H. Choate, in charge of the Draper "dugout" near Hotel Bellevue made the move for the recount in Boston. He was found coming from the election commissioner's office at City Hall with recount blanks under his arm.

Asked if Draper was demanding a recount he smiled and said:

"You've caught me here. But

U. S. S. Kane, Off America's Cup Course, Sept. 18—The New York syndicate's white-hulled schooner Enterprise today won her fourth straight race from Sir Thomas Lipton's green Shamrock V and retained for the United States the historic America's Cup, won from England in 1851.

The American boat won by about six minutes.

The American boat gave Sir Thomas Lipton's pride a sound licking in three of the four races and won the other in a sailover when the Shamrock parted her main halyard while leading 45 minutes after the start.

The Enterprise crossed the finish line at 2:50:05 p. m. and the Shamrock V, at 2:58:56.

It was a triumph for American design and ingenuity as well as a personal triumph for Commodore Harold S. Vanderbilt, greatest of Corinthians on this side of the water, who headed the New York syndicate and ably skippered his boat through the series of races.

SUPERIOR IN EVERY RACE.

The Enterprise drew considerable criticism from yachtsmen on both sides of the water for the mechanical contrivances which were placed in her hold for the manipulation of her sail. The committee in charge of the races, however, held that she had violated no rules of the contest.

She showed her superiority in every race, winning the first contest Saturday by a margin of 2 minutes 52 seconds, Monday's race by a margin of 9 minutes 34 seconds and today's contest by a margin of 5 minutes 30 seconds.

In only two phases of the four contests, during the early stages of yesterday's ill-starred race and during the first 20 minutes of today's contest, did the Shamrock lead. At all other times Capt. Ned Heard of the Shamrock and his hard-bitten British crew were gazing sadly at the Enterprise's stern.

NEVER IN DOUBT

Enterprise received only a mild scratching as she crossed the finish line today to clinch the cup for America. There were only a few pleasure yachts and excursion steamers at the finish.

The race committee was so little

DONOVAN FOR DRY REPEAL

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Advocating repeal of the 18th Amendment, Col. William J. Donovan, former assistant United States attorney-general, likened the position of the Republican party today to the plight of the Whig Party before the Civil War.

Speaking before the Young Men's Republican Club, he said:

"The Whigs did not meet the logic of events. Guided by shortsighted expediency and timidity, they persisted in a policy of evasion, and because of this the party failed.

"Today the Republican party is confronted with the issue of prohibition. Although primarily a social problem, it must now be dealt with by governmental action."

GIRL FLIER DIES IN HILL CRASH

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 18 (AP)—Ruth Alexander, 24-year-old San Diego aviatrix, plunged to death in here airplane here today shortly after taking off on a projected one-stop transcontinental flight to Newark, N. J.

Miss Alexander left Lindbergh Field at 3:28 a. m. in a fog and flew but four miles when death stopped her undertaking. With a terrific crash her light, low-winged monoplane plowed into a hill four miles north of the field. Her broken body was found in the wreckage.

As she took off Miss Alexander jokingly said: "If I crack up send me purple pansies—I like them best."

Miss Alexander's flight officially began at Agua Caliente, Mexico, shortly after 1 a. m. She landed her plane, christened the Agua Caliente, at Lindbergh Field for checking.

The aviatrix had planned to stop only at Wichita, Kan., which she had expected to reach tonight.

Miss Alexander was born at Irving, Kas., in 1906. It was there, in 1919, when she first rode as a passenger with an itinerant flier, that she decided to become an aviatrix.

Less than three weeks ago Miss Alexander added another feat to her achievements by making a nonstop flight from Vancouver, B. C., to Agua Caliente, Mexico, in 16 hours.

Auto tag stubs must be turned in to the bureau of traffic by police within 60 hours of the car having been tagged instead of within 72 hours as at present, it was ordered today by Police Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman.

Also, all information asked for on the ticket must be given, the commissioner ruled.

In cases where the car driver does not turn in the string part of the tag, the remaining portion must be turned over to the traffic bureau regardless, and the view will be taken that the ticket was ignored—and action taken against the owner.

WOMEN DRYS THREATEN TO SPLIT G. O. P. ON PROHIBITION

FIGHT PLANK FOR REPEAL OF LAW

Antis Cite Draper-Gillis Vote as Proof Party Is Not Arid; Burrill Plans Contest

Organized women drys with the backing of the state machine will resist attempts of the anti-prohibition wing of the party to insert an anti-prohibition plank in the G. O. P. platform at the convention in Symphony Hall, Saturday, Sept. 27.

Anticipating such a movement, the dry forces saw to it that the candidates for delegate to the convention in Tuesday's primary were friendly to the prohibition cause.

The anti-prohibition assault, it was predicted today, will be defeated, despite the tremendous vote cast for Eben S. Draper, anti-prohibitionist, for senator. Draper's vote, together with the vote given to "Bossy" Gillis, moderate anti, was in excess of that obtained by William M. Butler, the senatorial nominee, a dry. This result is the basis of the argument that the party is not bone dry.

BURRELL IS WINNER

Butler received a total of 167,308 votes, Draper 160,636 and Gillis 23,111. These are the unofficial figures.

Re-verberations of the primary extended today to the victory of Fred J. Burrell of Medford, for the Republican nomination for State treasurer. Burrell, in the complete returns, has a plurality of 2256 votes over his nearest opponent, Charles L. Burrill of Boston. Indications today were that Burrill would demand a recount in various parts of the State.

The nomination of Burrell was a shock to the Republican chieftains, who were backing the candidacy of Russell D. Chase of Longmeadow.

Throughout the campaign Burrill charged Burrell with trading on his name. Burrell's reply was that the similarity was his greatest handicap. Burrell retired as treasurer under fire during the Coolidge administration.

DEMOCRATS EXHIBIT STRIFE.

Democratic political circles were quiet today after the amazing result of Tuesday. Instead of "all green" ticket as was feared by some of the leaders during the Worcester conference, the voters chose Ely for governor, Coolidge for U. S. senator and Claggett for lieutenant-governor.

While the Ely candidacy threatened success from the time of his entrance, the presence of two such outstanding candidates as former Congressman Joseph F. O'Connell and former Dist. Atty. Thomas C. O'Brien, both from Boston, in the senatorial fight, gave Coolidge his opening.

On the same day that the Republicans held their convention, the Democrats meet in Tremont Temple.

G. O. P. convention plans were discussed today at a state committee meeting here. The presiding officer, chairman of resolutions committee and other committee officers were to be chosen. Prior to the committee meeting the executive committee met.

Shouse Confident of Success in Bay State

Washington, Sept. 18—In many respects the triumph of La Follette Progressives in Wisconsin over the Republican regulars was regarded by party managers today as the most significant development of the entire primary campaign.

In defeating Governor Walter J. Kohler, stalwart Republican, for the gubernatorial nomination in Wisconsin by an indicated majority of 120,000, the youthful Philip La Follette made his fight largely upon national issues involving the Hoover administration.

Results in Massachusetts and Delaware set the stage for four-square battles over the liquor question, with Republicans taking the dry side and the Democrats the anti-prohibition end in the senatorial contests, and significantly enough, Joseph Shouse, chairman of the Democratic executive committee, in commenting said:

"We will sweep both Massachusetts and Delaware in the elections this fall.

Likewise, the outcome of the Democratic senatorial primary indicated that the Democrats of the Bay State were by no means unanimously in favor of Marcus A. Coolidge.

City's Official Riders Asked to Look Up One Black Horse

If the city officials of Boston will kindly search their persons, one of them may find a black horse.

The F. J. McNeeley riding school of Chestnut Hill, provided 25 horses for city officials to ride in the parade yesterday.

Imagine their embarrassment when the riding school got only 24 horses back.

The missing steed is a thin, black animal, with a white spot on his nose and when last seen was clad in a saddle and bridle.

interested in the result that several of its members could be seen finishing from the opposite rail of the tug, which formed only of the markers for the finish line, when the Enterprise went across.

After the first 10 minutes today, during which Shamrock went out in front, the contest was never in doubt.

Sailing close to the wind and right on the course, Commodore Vanderbilt took advantage of the tactical error Capt. Heard made in going too far off the course inshore and piled up a commanding lead. He rounded the first marker at the end of the 10-mile beat to windward nine minutes and a mile and a half ahead of the Shamrock.

From there on nine Enterprise was merely coasting along, taking no chances on carrying away her sails or rigging. Shamrock drew up on her slowly, but at the finish Enterprise still lead by over a mile.

The green-hulled boat had given up the unequal contest several minutes before, not even breaking out her spinnaker when the wind hauled around more of her beam, being content to finish out the course, sails the winner and head for home.

RECOUNT ASKED FOR DRAPER

It's Draper's friends who are asking for the recount.

He would not admit that Fred Butler, the defeated candidate's manager, was behind the movement but that is said to be the case.

WORK IN THE LARGE CITIES.

"Will the recount be statewide?" Choate was asked.

"I don't think so," he said, "but it will probably be in the key cities."

While he would not specify which these are known to include Worcester, which Draper won by only a small margin; Fall River, which he lost, while expecting to win New Bedford and Newton, where he expected a large plurality.

TO RUSH THEIR PLANS

In those cities and in Boston his workers believe he polled a much larger vote than was recorded.

They have been insistent that a move for recount be launched and are prepared to carry the blanks into every ward of the cities where the count has been questioned in a race against the little time remaining.

ROOSEVELT HIT BY BROOKHART

Washington, Sept. 18 (AP)—Senator Smith W. Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, issued a statement today assailing Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic governor of New York, in connection with his recent advocacy of repeal of federal control of liquor.

The senator said the governor had failed to give prohibition a fair trial in his state. He added that under the circumstances no fair-minded person could say that prohibition had been a failure "even in New York."

"The West and the South are united in opposition to the issue raised by Governor Roosevelt for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment," Brookhart continued.

"Since this issue has been put forward by the son of Wall Street also, it furnishes an additional and powerful reason for co-operative action between the West and the South."

Police Chief Fined as Drunken Driver

Salem, Sept. 18 (AP)—Chief of Police William H. Walsh of Topsfield was found guilty of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor and of drunkenness, in court here today. He was fined $100 on the first count. The second charge was filed. He was arrested in Hamilton August 30 last.

ENGLISH MAYOR OPENS FIELD DAY FETE

Mayor Salter and Guests of City Attend North Shore Dinner; Go Cruising

With its great parade joined with the memories of 300 years, Boston continued today a less elaborate program in commemoration of its Tercentenary and in entertainment of its guests.

After motoring to Franklin Park to inaugurate an all-day program of field and sport events, Mayor Reuben Salter of Boston, England, and his party were taken on a motor trip along the North Shore and to dinner at the Magnolia home of City Greeter Thomas J. A. Johnson.

In the dinner party, besides the English guests and the host, were Mayor Curley, Mary Curley, James M. Curley, Jr., and Leo Curley, City Treasurer Edmund L. Dolan, Nancy Bremner of Chicago, Dr. Martin English, Walter Quinn, Maj. Gen. Hugh Havelock McLean, lieutenant governor of New Brunswick; Mayor Gaston Guay of Halifax, N. S.; Justice Oswald Crockett of the New Brunswick Supreme Court, his son, Oswald Crockett, Jr., and wife.

"I shall never forget the hospitality of Boston, Massachusetts," said the Mayor of Boston, England, at dinner.

HEAR BROADCAST

The party listened to the radio broadcast of the America's Cup race and then went on a yachting cruise of their own on Johnson's Carib.

They were scheduled to return to the Ritz-Carlton about 4 p. m. for a short rest period and informal reception.

Tonight, at 7:30 at the Copley-Plaza, Mayor Curley will tender an official banquet to all the official visitors from England, Canada and various sections of this country.

Today's light program was in a sense a "tapering off" from demands which yesterday's six-hour parade in observance of the city's 300th birthday made upon all who participated.

The pageantry left a profound impression upon more than a million persons who banked the narrow streets to watch it pass.

OVER 100 CASUALTIES

Music of 100 bands and the tramp of 40,000 marchers through a blizzard of corn paper merged in what was undoubtedly New England's greatest spectacle and one which impressed not only New England citizens but a host of dignitaries of this and other nations.

The Court of Honor, principal reviewing stand in Tremont st., attracted as much attention as the parade itself for there were gathered William Randolph Hearst, the city's special guest, Mayor Salter in his scarlet robe of office, governors, mayors and consuls.

The day was warm and humid, and it was inevitable that the weather should exact some toll from the crowd. One man, unidentified, about 55, dropped dead in the crowd at Tremont and West sts., and more than 100 men, women and children were treated at the various hospitals or emergency relief stations for prostration or slight injuries.

ARREST YOUTH FORCING SAFE

Drawing his gun and nightstick, Patrolman Joseph Curley early today climbed in a window after a youth he saw kneeling before the safe in the office of the East Boston Coal Company at 480 Orleans st.

"Throw up your hands or I'll shoot," was the greeting he received as the boy, his face masked with a handkerchief, faced him.

Curley fired at the floor and rushed forward. He was forced to use his club in the struggle that followed, and after he had subdued the boy took him to the East Boston Relief Hospital for treatment.

The youth gave his name as Alexander Maison, 19, of Paris st. He was held in $500 bail on a charge of breaking and entering and the case was continued for investigation.

X-Ray Coakley's Jaw; Can't Open Mouth

Gael Coakley, son of Daniel H. Coakley, was X-rayed today for a jaw injury which he claims he received from a blow behind the left ear in the clash between Mayor Curley and Democratic Chairman Frank J. Donahue at the broadcasting station of WNAC Monday night.

Difficulty in separating his jaws more than a half inch, he said, caused him to consult Dr. A. S. McMillan of Beacon st.

"The other effects which my son suffered have almost all cleared up," said Gael's father today.

MAN KILLED IN BOOTLEG FEUD, BOY DYING

Police Hunt 2 in Rhode Island Car for Brockton Murder; 8 Suspects Freed

Brockton, Sept. 18—Skulls crushed by blows from a heavy steel drill, Benjamin Khoury, 24, was found dead and his brother, George, 16, dying in the rear room of a North Montello at. store early today.

Robbery or a feud among bootleg factions is believed to have been the motive for the murder.

Eight local suspects were rounded up, questioned and released and police began a search for two men in a car bearing Rhode Island registration plates.

FOCKETS TURNED OUT

The brothers closed the store last night and lay on the floor of the rear room to sleep. They were evidently attacked while they slept the room giving no evidence of a struggle. The murder weapon, a steel drill used in rock work, was found outside the store.

Patrolman Harry Cook discovered the crime when he found the store door open. Benjamin Khoury was dead and his brother was unconscious. Doctors believe two hours had elapsed between the crime and its discovery.

There were bloodstains in the pockets of the dead youth and two pockets were turned inside out. Six blood-stained dollar bills were found on the floor and a blood-stained key, evidently taken from one pockets was in the lock on the inside of the open door.

Elias Khoury, father of the victims, said Benjamin had $25 when he left home for work.

KEY BAFFLES POLICE

At Brockton hospital George told police, during a period of consciousness that he did not know his assailant. Police said they believed he could help them if he would. Little hope is held for his recovery.

The finding of the key in the lock indicates the slayer may have been in the store when the youths went to sleep, there with or without their knowledge.

If the brothers locked the door then he must have been already in the store, unless he had a key, a theory inconsistent with the finding of the key on the outside.

The younger brother's reluctance to talk bore out the first official suspicions that the crime resulted from a bootleg feud.

Miss Sadie Harb, who lives above the store, told police she heard no sounds during the night.

There is anxiety in the prohibition camp, although, with an amendment in the Constitution that can't be taken out, they d the whip hand.

It is feared by drys in Massachusetts that William M. Butler, who beat a wet in the Republican's senatorial primaries by a narrow margin, of less than 9000 votes, will lose to a wet on election day.

The unexpected showing of the wets, almost retiring Mr. Butler, gives them courage for the attack, in November.

OLD AND NEW BOSTON EXCHANGE GREETINGS IN RADIO HOOKUP

CURLEY AND SALTER SPEAK

S. K. Ratcliffe, Publisher, Broadcasts Eng'and's Felicitations

Old Boston and New Boston exchanged greetings over the air yesterday on the latter s 300th birthday.

Mayor Curley and Mayor Reuben Salter of Boston, England, broadcast greetings and brief descriptions of the Tercentenary parade over a hookup of 75 land stations and the short wave station of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

HEARD CLEARLY

Within 30 minutes of the end of the address of Mayor Salter he was handed a radiogram of congratulation from Blackpool, England. The message revealed that the voices of both mayors were clearly heard.

The talk by Mayor Curley was introduced by Samuel K. Ratcliffe, British journalist, who expressed the greetings of England over the air hookup from Manchester.

WNAC, the key American station, reported the Ratcliffe address was plainly audible. He had not left the microphone in England when Linus Travers, announcer at WNAC speaking into a "mike" on the Court of Honor on Tremont st., introduced Mayor Curley, who said:

"It is exceedingly appropriate on this, the Tercentenary observances of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, to send a message of cheer and good will and brotherhood to our friends on the other side of the Atlantic.

"Yesterday we in Boston unveiled a permanent memorial of enduring granite and bronze to the men and women who, by their fortitude and courage, founded the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

"Today every element of our citizenship is contributing to the success of the greatest parade in the history of Boston. In the line of march are the men who served in the great war; representatives of every arm of our military and naval forces and every channel of our industry and commerce."

TELLS OF HOSPITALITY

Mayor Salter, presented as "the dutiful father who had crossed the ocean to look after the lusty son," said:

"Hello, England! The mayor of old Boston in Lincolnshire is the guest here in new Boston at the most wonderful spectacle that I believe is possible. The little old man from the provincial town in Lincolnshire has been the recipient of the most lavish hospitality that has been extended on every hand. I am proud to see the little old mayor of old Boston and proud to have had the opportunity to come to new Boston, with my cocked hat, my scarlet robe and my chain to pay tribute to the child of the old town.

"We have been received like royalty. I hope we have cemented the bonds of friendship forever between old Boston and the new Boston.

"This Boston grew out of the little old town in Lincolnshire. It was the cradle of the people of the great American nation and today it is the most wonderful community in the world."

Three Outstanding Figures in 'Boston Day' Tercentenary Festivities

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST MAYOR JAMES M. CURLEY MAYOR REUBEN SALTER

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST IS SHOWN with Mayor Curley and Mayor Salter of Boston, England, in the Boston Day Tercentenary parade as guests of honor of the city. Mayor Curley presented the publisher with a cane made from an elm that stood on the Lexington battle green, and said: "The city of Boston welcomes this opportunity to present this 'Constitutional Big Stick' to a real, worthwhile defender of American principles which he exemplified in France. An indignity was committed by the French nation against a great publisher, and we consider it an honor for the city of Boston to show in this manner how greatly we regard him." In reply, Mr. Hearst said: "I realize the greatness of the honor which Mayor Curley has conferred on me. Personally I do not know whether I fully deserve it. I shall always regard it highly. The liberty born at Lexington was not only for America, but for all the world."

RADIO BROUGHT PARADE TO MILLIONS

Shutins and Others Write Appreciation to Advertiser-American for Broadcast

Several million men, women and children "saw" Boston's Tercentenary parade yesterday through the eyes of Boston American-Boston Sunday Advertiser broadcasters over station WLEX, "The Voice of the Minuteman."

Beginning yesterday afternoon with telegrams delivered to the broadcasters at the Court of Honor and continuing today with a flood of congratulatory letters delivered at the American-Advertiser studio, hundreds voiced their appreciation for the parade picture flashed through the air to shut-ins and others who could not be along the route.

HEARD MAYOR CURLEY

Over the seven-hour period from 11:40 a. m. to 6:40 p. m. Newcomb F. Thompson and Arthur S. Roberts, the newspaper studio announcers, broadcast the picture of the crowd and the pageantry over three WLEX microphones at the Court of Honor on Tremont st.

Listeners heard also Mayor Curley's presentation speech when William Randolph Hearst, special Tercentenary guest, received the city's gift of a cane termed the "Constitutional Big Stick." They heard also Mr. Hearst's response, special greetings from the mayor and from Rear-Admiral Lewis N. Nulton, commandant of the First Naval District, and a brief talk by City Greeter Johnson.

One of the telegrams delivered at the Court of Honor was the following from Frank A. McKinnon, national vice-president of the postal employes:

"On behalf of all postal employes and especially the employes of the motor vehicle service of the postoffice department who by illness or other causes are confined to their homes, I desire to thank you for your very efficient descriptions of Boston's big parade."

A few of today's written appreciations attesting the widespread popularity of the broadcast and the manner in which it was conducted, follow:

ILL WOMAN THANKS.

Mrs. J. J. Howe, 115 Eastern ave., Lynn:

"A few lines to inform you how much I enjoyed it. You announcers were so gracious in their descriptions that I felt as if I was sitting right on Tremont st."

Mrs. Marie White, 26 Cook ter., Mattapan:

"Though ill health I was unable to be present, but thanks to your broadcast I felt I was sitting in the grandstand beside the announcers. I could picture every group that went by and I certainly hope you will broadcast the Legion parade."

Betty V. Allison, 212 Pleasant st., Malden:

"Your parade broadcasting program was delightful."

Percy W. Reynolds, 1696 Massachusetts ave., Cambridge:

"The reception from WLEX was excellent and I extend my thanks for this added service to what your paper gives to Boston and neighboring cities."

2 OCEAN HOPS ABANDONED

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Sept 18.—Two ocean flight projects were abandoned yesterday.

Roger Williams, who has pilots one plane to Rome and another to Bermuda and back without stopping, and Ted Lundgren, Hollywood aviator, gave up the idea of flying eastward around the world.

Williams, who left for Los Angeles, announced he had a cablegram from Charles A. Levine, owner of the plane Columbia, saying he had cancelled the projected flight of that plane from Newfoundland to London.

Long Can't Collect Tax on Bequest Made Out of State

A trust fund created by a testator who died in another state is not subject to income tax in Massachusetts, according to a decision by the State Supreme Judicial Court today.

The case arose out of a petition of Edward W. Hutchins of Boston and Walter L Van Gleek of Brookline, trustees under the will of Francis D. Lecompte of New York, for abatement of an income tax assessed by Henry F. Long, commissioner of corporations and taxations, on $3723.77 incomes received by trustees in 1926.

The only living beneficiary named in the trust is Francis Lecompte Spalding of Brookline.

The gains and profits upon which the tax was levied, the court said, represent accretions of capital and not in income, as the trust does not terminate upon the death of Mr. Spalding.

Chief Justice Arthur P. Rugg wrote the opinion. In it he said:

"The trust on which the property is held was created by a judicial decree of a court in another jurisdiction (New York). Its terms cannot be enforced except by courts of that jurisdiction. They cannot be enforced by courts of this commonwealth, even though the trustees may reside here."

FIFTY HURT BY EXPLOSION

Everett, Wash., Sept. 18 (AP)—Fifty persons were injured and property for miles around damaged by explosion of 5000 pounds of dynamite that destroyed the $500,000 Puget Sound and Alaska powder plant yesterday.

Mrs. Harold Boushey's jugular vein was nearly severed when her three-room cottage was demolished. Bernice Lamb, 14, lost an eye. Archie Gongia, a half mile from the scene suffered several broken ribs when thrown across a room.

Cuba Defies League and Wins Her Point

Geneva, Sept. 18 (AP)—In a heated encounter before the assembly of the League of Nations today Cuba defended her sovereign rights as an independent state within the League—and won.

Cuba's critic who met defeat was Nicholas Politis of Greece. He sharply censured the West Indian state for blocking entry into force of the protocol for revision of the world court statute.

"Cuba," declared Orestes Ferrara, the island's ambassador at Washington, "will not submit to dictation by Mr. Politis, or by Greece, or by any member of the League of Nations."

Then he announced Cuba's reasons for objecting to the coming into force of the protocol must be neither challenged nor discussed.

"We entered the League regarding it as a society of nations and not as a super state able to override the sovereignty of any member," he declared.

The discussion was closed by Chairman Scialoja of Italy after spectators and delegates had risen to their feet in excitement and persons from outside had rushed in to see what the commotion was about.

Dr. C. G. Wu of China took the role of peacemaker. He said that China regretted the protocol could not be brought into force but nobody, he added, could challenge Cuba's rights to her objections which, indeed, were provided for in the protocol itself.

M. Politis had said Cuba was the only member of the league not having made "an effort of good will," to bring the protocol into force.

Senor Ferrara replied with vigor that Cuba could not submit to a discussion of her reasons by the committee.

"These reasons are an expression of Cuba's sovereignty," he asserted, "and must not be challenged. Her reason must be accepted."

MARION TALLEY QUITS FARMING

New York, Sept 18 (AP)—Marion Talley, girl prima donna, who abandoned grand opera for a Kansas wheat farm in 1928, has turned her back on farming and is studying singing in New York again.

Miss Talley said her wheat crop was good and her corn crop a failure. She came here in August to make some records.

Opinion in musical circles is that she expects to return to the singing career begun auspiciously at the Metropolitan Opera House in 1926, when she was 18. In four seasons she is said to have earned from $300,000 to $500,000.

Vera Gets Divorce; Alimony Pending

Cleveland, Sept. 18 (AP)—Vera King Lederer, former Earl Carroll's "Vanities" beauty, whose marriage to Morris T. Lederer, wealthy Cleveland business man, once was looked upon by Broadway as "ideal," was granted a divorce in common pleas court after a brief hearing today. It was not announced whether she had obtained her requested $25,000 alimony.

Mistakes Maine for Newton Highlands

Bangor, Me., Sept. 18 (AP)—A man giving his name as Neal Smith of Newton Highlands, Mass., was committed to the State hospital here today after police said he had been apprehended in the act of breaking into a house. Police said Smith told them he believed he was entering his own house at Newton Highlands.

Radio Beam Waves May Solve Secrets of Universe—Marconi

GUGLIELMO MARCONI (insert), father of radio, who declared in an address in Italy that he believed radio waves—of the "beam" type—traveled far beyond the layer of air surrounding the earth. Thus the beam may aid in solving the secrets of the universe. The diagram on the left shows the two kinds of radio waves that are purely terrestrial. First, the ground wave that follows the surface of the earth and second, the "echo" wave, that leaps to the "heaviside layer" 100 miles above the earth. The diagram on the right shows how the beam wave can travel in a straight line and penetrate the heaviside layer of ironized air to continue on into space. Just how far they go is largely conjecture, but it is estimated between 25,000,000 and 48,000,000 miles. Even with this comparatively short range, a good many heavenly bodies could be reached, thus making possible "exploration" of the nearby heavenly bodies while future developments open the door for a new vista by science. Acosta Arrested; May Face U. S. Charge

Washington, Sept. 18 (AP)—A federal proceeding against Bert Acosta, pilot who won fame with Byrd in a trans-Atlantic flight, was in prospect today as a result of his arrest in Connecticut for flying without a license.

While the Connecticut charge is based on state regulations, the Federal Aeronautical establishment [illegible] interest in the matter [illegible] is without flying [illegible] as a pilot.

His federal license was suspended for improper flying and a fine imposed. He failed to pay, the original license period for which his permit was issued expired, and he now has no pilot status.

Synagogue Wine Thief Gets 3 Years

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 18 (INS)—Norman Zweibel, 20, of New York, who in July broke into a Stamford synagogue and stole three bottles of sacramental wine and the poor box, was sent to prison today for two to three years after pleading guilty.

DENIES ARTIST IS HARASSED

Miami, Fla., Sept. 1 (AP)—A cabled denial of charges made here recently by Mrs. Richard Struyf that her husband, a Belgian sculptor, has been threatened with imprisonment unless he ceased trying to collect money allegedly due him from the Cuban Government, was made public here today by Dr. Florencio Guerra, Cuban consul.

The cablegram was signed by Senor Martinez Ortiz, Secretary of State for Cuba, who said Struyf's claims would be paid in due time. The claims of the Belgian are receiving the same attention as those of others employed in the construction of the $17,000,000 Capitol, the cablegram said, and must follow the regular procedure of paymen'

Failure to Provide for Dog Costs $15

Found guilty of failure to provide proper food and drink for his German shepherd dog, George Hodgdon of Chandler rd., West Medford, was fined $15 today by Judge Davis in Malden district court. Fred Vickers, S. P. C. A. agent, said Hodgdon locked the dog in a garage without food or water and then left town for five days.

First Polish Judge in State Inducted

Holyoke, Sept. 18 (AP)—Judge Joseph W. Lewandowski, said to be the first lawyer of Polish extraction to preside in a Massachusetts District Court, sat upon the bench here today for the first time. The event was made notable by the presence of a large delegation of attorneys and court officials.

WIFE OF BEERY BACK; HINTS AT DIVORCE

Los Angeles, Sept. 18 (AP)—Mrs. Marguerite Beery, reported missing by her husband, Noah Beery, film actor, is at the home of friends in Hollywood today. She said she had been to Las Vegas to establish a residence and might return to make it permanent.

"Mr. Beery said I had $750 on my person at the time I disappeared," she remarked. "May I add that during my married life with Mr. Beery of 21 years, I have never seen $750."

Beery had said he learned Mrs. Beery had received her monthly income from the $250,000 trust fund which he established some time ago.

MARRIED IN BOSTON

Two years ago Mrs. Beery started divorce proceedings, but dropped them. She and Beery were married at Boston in 1910 and have one son, Noah Beery, 11.

Beery reported to police Monday his wife had disappeared September 8 without explanation, and asked aid in locating her. He said she had been ill and he feared harm had befallen her.

He learned his wife had left Las Vegas and driven across the desert to Los Angeles alone.

Emil Wickman, a rancher living near Las Vegas, reported Mrs. Beery and Raymond Wells, a former film director, had been his guests for nearly a week. He said Mrs. Beery brought Wells to Las Vegas from Los Angeles in her automobile.

WAS HELPING WELLS.

Wickman said he and wells were trying to finance a motion picture company and that Mrs. Beery was interested enough to help in some of the preliminary financing.

Court records here revealed Raymond Wells sued Beery several months ago for $50,000 damage for alleged assault. Wells asserted Beery knocked him down and injured his skull. Beery made a denial and the case never was pressed.

Gasoline War Cuts Price to 12½ Cents

Detroit, Sept. 18 (AP)—A price war today brought the cost of gasoline in some sections of Detroit down to 12½ cents a gallon, a drop of approximately 3 cents in four days. Larger refineries announced they were forced into the reductions by "independent" stations.

Hold-Up Man Killed Trying to Break Jail

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 18 (INS)—Frank Dubit, about 30, held here under indictment for numerous hold-ups, was killed today by Deputy Sheriff O'Brien while attempting to escape jail.

She's Hinting at Divorce

MRS. NOAH BEERY, wife of the film star, isn't missing at all. She is with friends at Hollywood and has been to Las Vegas, Nevada, making plans for a permanent residence in that "easy divorce" town. Also she has been in the company of a man named Wells, very much disliked by Beery. (I. N. R. photo.)

COLLECTION OF INCOME TAXES TAKES DROP

Washington, Sept. 18 (AP)—Income tax collections for the third quarter, which were due Monday, are falling below those of a year ago. However, treasury officials said today they were not disturbed over these returns and still hoped the low tax schedule could be continued next year.

Several days will pass before the final returns for the third quarterly payments are received at the treasury. Income tax payments so far this month totaled $107,821,.28, compared with $206,537,436 for the same period last year, when the higher rates were in effect.

Proving World's Flat May Cost Voliva Job

Chicago, Sept. 18 (AP)—Today's Herald and Examiner quoted independent leaders in Zion City, Ill., as predicting revolt against the leadership of Overseer Wilbur Glenn Voliva following his departure Monday on another world tour to prove the earth is flat.

Voliva's departure, the newspaper was told, is actuated "more by growing pressure of opposition than by scientific eagerness."

Mrs. John Alexander Dowie, widow of the founder of the Zionist sect, is leading the opposition to Voliva, the newspaper said.

All buttons, minor repairs and tears are fixed at no extra charge. A great deal of hand work is done in this process, which gives it a personal touch as compared with big volume production, which must be done by machine.

Howes QUALITY De LUXE Cleansing

A Workmanship Guarantee goes with every de Luxe Cleansing order.

Our contribution to greater convenience. This service is for that group of men and women who prefer to use a less expensive cleansing process for their medium priced garments. The work in this process will be done at our No. 2 plant with equipment especially designed. Less time will be taken with each operation and contrary to our Quality de Luxe Cleansing method practically all "MID-WAY" finishing will be done by machine on a greater volume basis.

Howes MID-WAY Cleansing

This is a cooperative cleaning process. We do the actual cleaning. You do the pressing at home. For years many cleaners have given this kind of service to tailors and others who have no cleaning plant. We offer this service directly to you. We suggest that you send only simple garments, unless you are an expert presser yourself.

ANDREE BODY REMOVED FOR NEW STUDY

By SVEN HEDMAN
Universal Service Special Cable

Tromsoe, Norway, Sept. 18—The body of Salomon Auguste Andree, removed from the church crypt, now lies in the Tromsoe Hospital to be compared with the remains brought back from White Island, death place of Andree and his comrades, by the Ekstrat-Dagen another expedition.

By comparing Andree's skeleton with his skull and the body and skull of Knut Fraenkel, found by the newspaper expedition, the commission of experts hope to make interesting findings.

So scattered were the remains brought back by the Isbjoern that the scientists are anticipating a great deal of trouble in putting them together properly.

Professor Hedren, of the commission, is expected to issue a communique dealing with the commission's deductions today.

DEBT EDITORIAL LAUDED

Universal Service Special Cable.

Berlin, Sept. 18—The triumphant receptions accorded William Randolph Hearst in Boston and New York, after his return from Europe, and especially his editorial demanding changes in the Versailles treaty, have created a sensation in Germany, and are fully detailed in the German press today.

Tempo, a Berlin newspaper, of the Ullstein group, says:

"The warnings of the Hearst newspapers would have more value if they had not opposed every sensible solution of the war debt question, demanding repayment of the last cent."

But the Vossische Zeitung, also of the Ullstein concern, declares:

"Mr. W. R. Hearst's opinion conforms with that of the American 'man in the streets,' who rightly believes that the Allies would use the money remitted them to increase armaments and fortresses.

"So long as Europe is governed by this mentality, the American sees no reason why he should relinquish the sums which he can use to the better advantage of his own country."

Peggy's 1st Divorced; Liked Her Too Well

San Francisco, Sept. 18 (AP)—Allen Archibald, importer, first husband of Peggy Hopkins Joyce, was divorced today by Mrs. Alice Archibald, who said her husband told her Miss Joyce was better than she was in a hundred ways. Archibald married Peggy when she was 17.

Boy, 3, Killed by Poisoned Grapes

East Hempstead, N. Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—Poison sprayed on grape vines from which fruit had been pilfered was charged by police today to have killed three-year-old Thomas Mooney, Jr. Grapes from the arbor of John H. Reiser, a neighbor, were taken by police for analysis.

53 Students Ill From Poison Food

Portland, Ore., Sept. 18 (AP)—Fifty-three Reed College students were ill today with what physicians said was ptomaine poisoning resulting from food eaten in the college dining room.

Husband Had to Do Her Work

"When my baby was a month old, I took a heavy cold and after that I felt miserable. Could not lift anything. My husband had to help me with the housework. I was so weak I could not do a washing. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the Kitchening paper and I gave it a good trial. Before I had taken half a bottle, I found the difference. I do all my own work now and I have told others how much this medicine helped me."—Mrs. Alice Bassett, Cadogan, Pennsylvania.

GOLFER TO SUE OVER 'INSULT'

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—The New York American says Dale Bourn, British amateur golfer, has threatened to sue Sidney Solomon, lessee of the Central Park Casino, because Solomon refused to serve nine guests of Bourn when he saw Joseph B. Whitehead, coco cola magnate, among them.

The American says Whitehead recently replied to a $500,000 breach of promise suit brought by Annette S. Bracy by giving the initials of a number of men with whom he charged she had been friendly. Among the initials were "S. S."

Bourn is in this country to play in the national amateur championship at Merion Cricket Club.

'YALE MAN' IN THEFT RING

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—A ring that specialized in stealing expensive automobiles "to order" was disclosed by the police today with the arrest of a high-power "salesman."

The "salesman" described himself as William Stanley Hayes, 44, Yale graduate and member of a well-to-do New Haven family. A victim, Wilson Baden, New York newspaper employe, caused the arrest.

Baden said he purchased a car from Hayes which he later learned had been stolen. The police quoted Hayes as saying he and two other men, who constituted the ring, had stolen more than a score of cars in four months.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 18 (AP)—William Stanley Hayes, arrested in New York in the sales of stolen automobiles, is not known here. Neither the city directory nor the record of Yale University contains his name.

To Open 550-Acre Wild Life Preserve

Springfield, Sept. 18 (AP)—Club women of the State will attend the dedication on Oct. 9 of a forest and wild-life reservation just purchased by the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's clubs. The reservation is a 550-acre tract near Petersham, and likely to include 1000 acres eventually.

$131,137 Tax Refund for F. D. Stout Estate

Washington, Sept. 18 (AP)—Approval by the internal revenue bureau of a tax refund of $131,137 to the estate of Frank D. Stout of Chicago, for overassessments in 1925 was made public today through the office of Rep. Garner, Democrat, Texas.

Rome, Sept. 18 (AP)—Guglielmo Marconi, radio inventor, was elected president of the Italian Royal Academy by acclamation today. He succeeds Senator Tittoni, who resigned because of poor health.

Flies at 104, Predicts Death, and It Comes

Glendale, Cal., Sept. 18 (AP)—Dr. Mirza Assad U. Fareed, 104, former professor of history at the Ispahan (Persia) University, and a Persian diplomat, was found dead in bed at his home here yesterday. Dr. Fareed took his first airplane ride a week ago and said it "fulfilled the last wish of my life." Later he predicted he would die while asleep.

General of Chinese Army to Be a Monk

Peiping, Sept. 18 (AP)—Gen. V. I. Karpoff, one-time commander of the Chinese military forces at Tientsin under the late Marshal Chang Tso-Lin has abandoned his military career to become a monk. Seven years ago he was one of the leaders of the Anti-Communist movement in Siberia.

Germany Gets More Time on War Claims

The Hague, Netherlands, Sept. 18 (AP)—The German agent of the Mixed Claims Commission fixing damages for United States and German citizens for losses suffered in the Great War, today asked for an adjournment to further examine certain claims against Germany. The meeting was put over to tomorrow.

King Zog Reported in Dying Condition

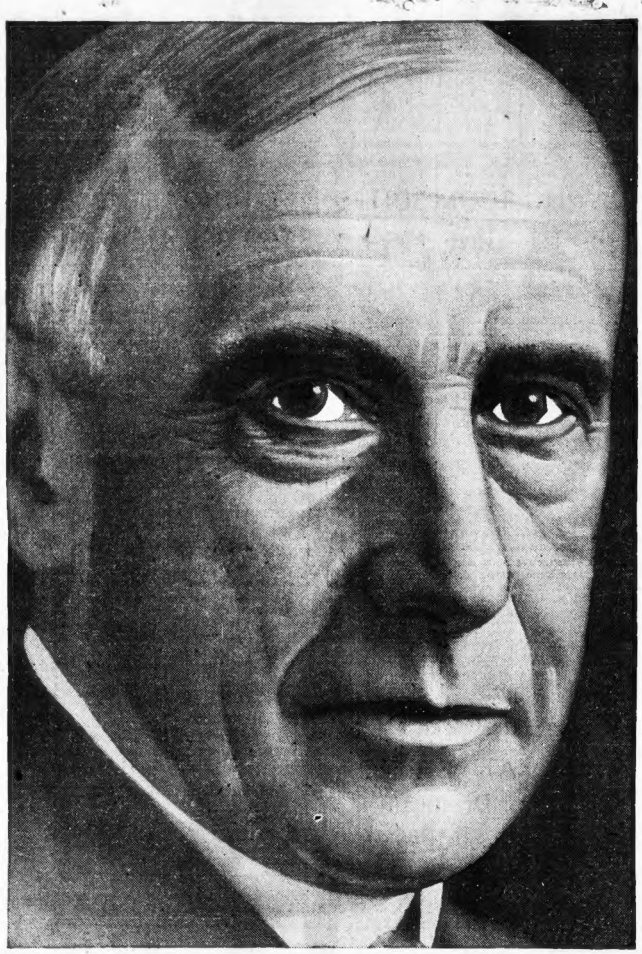
"A Significant Example"



Says

SAMUEL HARDEN CHURCH

President of the Carnegie Institute

—that great enterprise founded by Andrew Carnegie at Pittsburgh for the promotion of art, science and literature. Known throughout the world as a student of current problems.

Chairman of the Board Carnegie Institute of Technology, Director American National Theatre.

Member American Mission to Morocco 1923, Officer of Legion of Honor (France).

"Perhaps the most vital influence in the American business world in recent years has been the tendency of industrial leaders to join hands with science. No more significant example of this trend exists than your modern use of the Ultra Violet Ray in the 'Toasting' of the LUCKY STRIKE tobaccos. The great success of your experiments demonstrates the wisdom of this union between business and science."

Samuel Harden Church

Consistent with its policy of laying the facts before the public, The American Tobacco Company has invited Mr. Samuel Harden Church to review the reports of the distinguished men who have witnessed LUCKY STRIKE'S famous Toasting Process. The statement of Mr. Church appears on this page.

LUCKY STRIKE—the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so TOASTING removes harmful irritants that cause throat irritation and coughing. No wonder 20,679 physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating! Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why TOASTING includes the use of the Ultra Violet Ray.

DUST NUISANCE ABATED AT AIRPORT

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

After years of inconvenience caused by the black, cindery dust raised by plane propellers at the Boston Airport, the park department, through William P. Long, commissioner, and Albert L. Edson, airport superintendent, has eliminated the nuisance.

The space between the fronts of the buildings and the fences, and for 75 feet farther out has been covered with a crushed stone and tar compound, which permits ships to taxi in and out of the hangars.

After witnessing a busy day at the airport, Commissioner Long decided that the strip of oiled surface should be extended immediately, and not wait to see how it works out.

Superintendent Edson being wholly in agreement with Long, oil trucks have completed spreading a strip of 400 feet out onto the field. This additional oil will prevent ships turning around or starting a take-off from blowing dust back at th hangars.

In the future, visitors at the airport and attaches stationed at the field will not have their eyes filled with cinders, nor their clothes made shades darker by the flying cloud of fine particles.

"Sooner or later," said Edson today, "the Boston Municipal Airport will be looked on by flying men all over the country as the ideal flying field. The present city administration will spare no effort to bring about the realization of this idea."

WARNS LEAGUE OF DRUG HARM

Geneva, Sept. 18 (US)—Warning that the League do-nothing opium policy means ruin to "hundreds of thousands of human beings" is given to delegates of the League Assembly in an advertisement in Geneva newspapers.

The warning comes from the Anti-Opium Information Bureau, a private organization with offices facing the League building. The warning reads:

"Delegations attending the 11th assembly of the League of Nations have the moral obligation to do everything in their power to bring about effective direct quantitative limitation of manufacture of narcotics with the least delay possible.

"Delay in limiting manufacture of narcotics means physical and moral ruin for hundreds of thousands of human beings."

KNOX, CONNOR FOR COUNCIL

Lowell, Sept. 18 (AP)—The complete tabulation of votes for governor's councillor in the Sixth District showed today Joseph O. Knox of Medford had won the Republican nomination by 1208 votes, while the Democratic nomination fell to John H. Connor of Lowell by 3385 votes.

Knox had 15,990 votes; George E Marshand, Lowell, 6679; Walter Perham, Chelmsford, 14,782; George W. Pratt, Somerville, 7966.

Connor had 9260, Edward J. Coughlin, Somerville, 4787; Perina J. Delory, Everett, 1939, and Jeremiah F. McGrath, Somerville, 5875.

11-Ft. Hollyhock Put Up for a Record by Boy in Beverly

The tallest sunflower and tallest dahlia are credited to Massachusetts. Now comes Attilio Santini of 251 Rantoul st., Beverly, who believes he has the tallest hollyhock.

It stands more than 11 feet high in his garden, and he challenges anybody to "beat that."

Attilio is a boy, but he thinks the grown-up gardeners will have to push things to take the record away from him.

Many Parties to Precede Horse Show

HOSTS AND HOSTESSES are already beginning to plan their parties to precede the Boston Garden Horse Show, which is the big social event for October, opening on the 28th and closing November 1. Many boxes have been reserved for the occasion at this early date, and Mr. Louis K. Liggett as president, is working with his committee to make this the most brilliant and entertaining show ever put on in Boston. A number of foreign countries have been invited to enter their jumping teams, among them England, the Irish Free State, Canada, Poland, Italy, Sweden and Germany. An able executive committee is composed of high-lights in the equestrian world, namely, Sumner Pingree, Adnah Neyhart, William E. Chamberlain, Walter Channing, Fred F. Field, Jr., George S. West, J. Macy Willets, Sidney Winslow, Jr. and Mr. Liggett.

THE DIRECTORS INCLUDE Messrs. Charles Francis Adams, William Almy, Jr., James W. Appleton, Frederick Ayer, Hugh Bancroft, Charles S. Bird, Jr., Reginald W. Bird, Benjamin L. Cook, Charles V. B. Cushman, Richard Ely Danielson, Augustus F. Goodwin, B. Nason Hamlin, Edward M. Hamlin and A. Henry Higginson. Others are Frank B. Hopewell, Pierre Lorillard, Jr., Homer Loring, John R. Macomber, George S. Mandell, W. Eugene McGregor, C. Harvey Moore, Charles A. Nash, Samuel Parker, Francis Peabody, Harry Worcester Smith, Phineas W. Sprague, John E. Thayer, Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., William H. Vanderbilt, Harold Tolman, Bayard Warren, Edwin S. Webster, Major George S. Patton, who will be one of the judges and Major Henry Lee Scott of Washington. Entries close October 4 and there will be 114 classes.

Announce Engagement of Dorothy Kinnicutt to Henry Parish

MR. AND MRS. G. HERMANN KINNICUTT (May A. Tuckerman) of New York and Far Hills, N. J., are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Miss Dorothy May Kinnicutt, to Henry Parish, 2d, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Codman Parish of New York and Cold Spring Harbor, L. I. Miss Kinnicutt is a granddaughter of Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman of Ipswich. She is a graduate of Foxcroft School and made her debut two years ago, and was elected to the Junior League. Mr. Parish graduated from St. Paul's School and from Harvard in the class of 1926. Miss Kinnicutt has many friends along the North Shore and Boston, where she was frequently visited by her relatives.

MISS ELIZABETH S. HUNGERFORD, daughter of Maj. Victor W. Hungerford of New York, was married to Dr. Langdon Parsons of Beacon st., son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney A. Parsons of Boston, on September 6, at Colorado Springs. Miss Hungerford attended Westover School, one of the most expensive and exclusive girls' schools in the East, and belongs to the Junior League of Colorado Springs and New York, and also of the Aviation Country Clubs, Inc. Dr. Parsons was graduated from Yale in 1921, and entered Harvard Medical School, from which he was graduated in 1926. The engagement was announced in July.

MR. AND MRS. SEWALL H. FESSENDEN, with their family, have opened their winter home at Chestnut Hill.

MISS DEBORAH HALL, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Hall of West Medford and Land's End, Rockport, will be presented at a tea dance on October 20 at the Women's Republican Club.

Studies Call Three North Shore Girls to Foxcroft School

THE MISSES ANNE SORTWELL, Lee McKean and Natalie Folsom, young daughters of prominent North Shore families, left yesterday for Foxcroft school, Connecticut, to take up their studies for the fall term.

MRS. WILLIAM H. COOLIDGE, JR., was enjoying a brief vacation before a busy social season with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Benjamin Cole at Rangeley Lakes, when she was called home to attend her young daughter's bedside. Miss Eleanor fell from her horse and broke a collar-bone and was otherwise shaken up. She is recovering nicely from the accident.

MRS. DANIEL SORTWELL and Mrs. A. Winsor Weld are among the visitors for the month at the Convalescent Home of the Children's Hospital at Wellesley. Members of the visiting committee for October will be Miss Dorothy Lawrence and Mrs. J. Murray Forbes; for November, Mrs. Frederick W. Thayer and Mrs. William Stanwood and in December, Mrs. Stanwood and Miss Harriet Morse assume the duties.

THE GARDEN CLUBS OF Beacon Hill, Chestnut Hill, Cohasset, Duxbury, Scituate and Milton are joining with the Hingham Garden Club in the fall exhibition of flowers, fruits and vegetables to be held at the Hingham Agricultural and Horticultural Society on Saturday, September 20, and Sunday the 21st. Mrs. Oliver Hall, Miss Mary P. Barnes and Mrs. Harold Plimpton are the committee arranging the details assisted by members of the visiting clubs.

SOCIAL LEADERS of Salem and North Shore who have been earnest workers to make the Tercentenary events a success are Mrs. E. F. Southwick, Miss Florence Barrett, Miss E. B. Laight, Mrs. Otis D. Gray, Miss Sarah Franks and Mrs. H. P. Benson.

Salter to Be Guest of Curley at Banquet

Mayor Reuben Salter, of Boston, Eng., will be guest at an official banquet tendered by Mayor Curley in the Copley-Plaza tonight.

Among the speakers will be Mayor Curley and Mayor Salter, Maj.-Gen. Hugh Havelock MacLean, lieutenant-governor of the Province of New Brunswick; Deputy Mayor and Deputy Mayoress Mrs. Arthur Bailey and City Councilors James Tait and James Holland. Mountain of Boston, England.

This morning Mayor Salter is expected to visit Franklin Field where a program, including baseball by the Boston Braves and football between Boston College High and Dorchester High will be featured.

The mayor and his suite will journey to Plymouth tomorrow. At night they will attend a pageant on Boston Common and afterward a performance of "Twelfth Night" in the Wilbur Theater.

On Saturday afternoon he will be a guest at the gymnastic exhibition of German societies on the Common, and at night will be the banquet guest of the Sons of St. George at the Hotel Brunswick.

At 10 o'clock Saturday night the tercentenary celebration will end with two displays of fireworks, one on the Strandway and one on the Charles river basin.

Assert Juliana Will Wed Swedish Prince

Stockholm, Sept. 18 (AP)—Rumors have been revived of the engagement of Prince Sigward, son of Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf, to his first marriage, with Princess Juliana of Holland. The reports have been printed in the Swedish press and have not been denied.

Leighton Funeral in Boston Friday

Funeral services will be held at Waterman Chapel, Back Bay, Friday, at 1 p. m., for Oscar Enoch Leighton, president and general manager of the Ajax Spring Stabilizer Co. and widely known in Boston automobile circles, who died of heart disease at the Winchester Hospital.

He is survived by his wife, Helen Sargent Leighton, formerly of Methuen. Mr. Leighton was a 32d degree Mason, and a member of the Gate of the Temple Lodge and of Aleppo Temple. Burial will be at Methuen.

Clubs Name Leaders of Juniors

By NANCY BXEWSTER

Members of the junior membership department of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs are announced today by the State chairman, Mrs. Joseph Lelyveld of Rockland.

They are: Mrs. J. W. Crowell, Winthrop; Mrs. A. J. Berselli, Springfield; Mrs. S. Holbrook, Cambridge; Mrs. M. F. Morrill, Swampscott; Mrs. P. G. Power, Boston; Mrs. J. Lewis, West Roxbury; Mrs. S. Resnick, Reading and Mrs. C. C. Willson, Auburndale.

This department is one of the fastest growing of the State Federation and one in which every Bay State clubwoman is vitally interested. Attracting hundreds of young women aspiring to senior club membership, it serves as a competent training school in Federation policies and principles.

Similar social, civic, community and charitable pursuits are followed by the junior clubwomen, their activities outlined on principles similar to those of the parent groups. Each junior group is affiliated with a senior club and one of the club membership acts as advisor to the girls.

Legion Auxiliary to Welcome Delegates to Annual Conclave

Delegates to the American Legion Auxiliary national convention next month will be met by a corps of workers from the Massachusetts department with "welcome" written all over their beaming countenances.

Mrs. Katherine Kelley of Roslindale and Margaret Morris of Fall River are the chairmen of the two divisions, terminals and hotels, and under them a large corps of auxiliary members will escort the out-of-town visitors to their destinations.

At the hotels, where Miss Morris and her corps of able workers will be on hand, delegates will be assisted in checking in with assurances that no baggage will go astray. The reception committee will fill in throughout the day, serving as information aides, shopper guides, history guides and friends.

Y.W.C.A. Will Open Autumn Season With Program Tomorrow

The Boston Young Women's Christian Association officially opens its fall program tomorrow night with a comprehensive offering of business and entertainment. Held at the Clarendon st. building, the evening is to begin with a supper at the Pioneer Cafeteria followed by badminton in the gymnasium and diving and watergames in the Y's swimming pool.

Exhibitions of bowling and roller skating, educational activities, and hand-wrought jewelry displays will be offered the spectators. The variety show, always a popular feature, is an annual event and this year, the program is to include many stunts.

There will be Helen Alto of the Young Girls' Residence of the Y. W. C. A. in a song or two; Hiram McGuire in a demonstration with balloons; Cedilia Cass, Ruth Wolfe and Gertrude Graham in specialty dances; the musical vagabonds under the direction of Alma Muscante; the Tou Symphony by the Silver Bay and Berkeley Street Girls under the supervision of Lillian Van de Vere of Brookline.

St. Vincent's Orphan Guild to Sponsor Series of Bridges

The St. Vincent's Orphan Guild resumes its weekly bridge for the fall next Monday at the home, 45 Guyette rd., North Cambridge.

However, the first real social event of the allegedly cold winter months takes place September 26 and 27 on the grounds of the home when the guild will sponsor field day events of no mean proportions.

Mrs. Joseph Eichorn, president of the guild, is executive chairman of the affair. These women will supervise the miscellaneous booths: Mrs. Henry Arnold, first vice-president; Mrs. James E. O'Connell, treasurer of the board of directors; Mrs. Robert Meffan, recording secretary; Mrs. Francis L. Trainor, Mrs. John H. F. Connor, Mrs. John Ohrenberger, Miss Katherine F. Crimmin, Mrs. Martin H. Fannon, Mrs. Douglas McPhee, Mrs. O. H. Bryant, Mrs. Patrick J. Mullin; Mrs. Stephen Courtney, Mrs. Jeremiah J. Foley, Mrs. Edward Cramer, Mrs. William Lewis, Mrs. Robert Hurley, Mrs. S. C. Brodie, Mrs. Fred Wayne, Mrs. John Clancy, Mrs. David Gentles, Mrs. Mary Comerford, Mrs. Sylvester Hilton, Mrs. Anthony Burkard.

In charge of the cake table will be Mrs. Thomas Hicks, Mrs. John J. Sullivan, Miss Elizabeth Weston, Mrs. Ambrose Woode, Mrs. Thomas Normile, Mrs. J. J. Desmond, Mrs. Edward Calkins, Mrs. Julia Geary; refreshments, Mrs. James F. Sullivan, Mrs. Frank Spang, Mrs. Daniel Brickley, Mrs. Mary Glynn, Mrs. Patrick J. Burke, Mrs. Lewis G. Cote, Mrs. William Artesani, Mrs. Edward Carroll, Mrs. John Early, Mrs. Joseph Herlihy, Mrs. Martin Kenney, Mrs. George Merrill and Mrs. Fred Wohltman.

Over the Children of Mary Boot's, Mrs. Patrick H. Cannon, chairman; Mrs. B. J. A'Hearn, Mrs. Francis Garvin, Mrs. Jeremiah J. Murphy, Mrs. Arthur Donahue and Mrs. Edward Ryan, Katherine Cannon, Mary Phelan, Dorothy Phelan, Louise Artesani, Willehemia Artesani, Nora Kelley, Mary Cartigan.

On the opening day of the bridge and whist party Mrs. James McDevitt and Mrs. Dennis F. Desmond will act as hostesses. At the Saturday occasion, the board of directors will supervise with Mrs. Henry Arnold in charge. Friends and members of the guild are urged to give their whole-hearted support to the cause.

Wool Lace Newest Fall Fashion

By ANN ARDEN

MODEL FROM R. H. WHITE & CO.

THE NEWEST fall fashion is wool lace and, because of its many uses, it promises to be an outstanding success this autumn. It caters to misses and matrons alike—it is used in three distinct types of dress—formalized sport, the bolero dress and the afternoon dress—it is used for separate blouses or jackets worn with velvet or woolen skirts. It is very smart as collar and cuffs on dark dresses.

• • •

SUITABLE FOR street wear without a coat in the fall, and equally suitable for wear under a cloth or fur coat later in the season—we suggest the use of wool lace in dresses, blouses and lingerie touches, as one of the smartest of autumn's fashion dresses.

• • •

THE EVER-POPULAR bolero dress for the miss will make its debut at many a football game this season. And also on young women, not so collegiate, who want the most chic in a sheer wool dress.

• • •

THE WOOL lace frock pictured has a background of georgette, and in color is the smart green. Its suppleness and texture "take" to the newest fashion points of circular fullness low on the skirt, self belt, with green buckle, at normal waistline, and bolero fronts, accented by green velvet ribbon, run through slits of the material about the neckline. The hat is of black soleil, a band and bow of white galyak fur at side accenting its front flare and drapery to a low back line.

• • •

IF YOU have wondered whether wool lace, originally reported for spectator sports wear, would invade any other mode, you will be interested to hear of afternoon frocks of this new fabric. A marquisette foundation is accented with a flat pattern of the wool. This effect is sheer enough to be smart in the dressier type of frock.

• • •

THE WEARING of green gloves this fall will not be a mark of one's nationality, but an indication of her fashion alertness.

ANN ARDEN will answer questions concerning clothes, social customs and fashions generally. Address your questions to the Boston Evening American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser or to Station WHDH.

AREN'T YOU DOING YOUR WASHING THIS MORNING?
SURE—BUT NOT YOUR ENDLESS SCRUBBING WAY. I'M FINISHING THIS STORY WHILE MY CLOTHES ARE SOAKING
SO ALL YOU DO IS SOAK THEM IN RINSO SUDS? MY, HOW WHITE THEY ARE
YES—THEY'LL BE ON THE LINE IN A JIFFY. I'M ALWAYS AHEAD OF MY NEIGHBORS
LATER
MOTHER, THIS IS THE SOAP MARY TOLD ME ABOUT. IT MAKES WASHING EASY
I'VE HEARD MANY FRIENDS PRAISE RINSO LATELY. THEY SAY IT'S FINE FOR DISHES, TOO AND Rinso

(Millions use Rinso. Thousands write us letters like this.)

"Gets clothes whiter," says Mrs. Florence Young of Cambridge

"I can't imagine using anything but Rinso in my washer. It whips into rich, safe suds so quickly—loosens every particle of dirt—and rinses out again in a flash. It saves lots of work, and gets the clothes much whiter, too. No wonder the man who sold me my washing machine told me to use Rinso always! I like it for dishes, too."

MRS. FLORENCE A. YOUNG.
11 Walden St., Cambridge, Mass.

Now clothes last longer

Rinso is safe for the finest linens. They actually last longer when washed this gentle way.

The makers of 38 leading washers recommend Rinso. Cup for cup, it gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up, soaps. It's all you need—no bar soaps, chips, powders. Get the BIG package.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston Evening American:

Arthur Brisbane says that former President Coolidge wakes up every morning smiling.

This is a great gift, if you can pave the way for it. It largely depends upon your condition and prospects. If the rent of the apartment is overdue and the gas bill is twice the size that it should be for one month and your installment payments are behind, you can't create a smile facing these conditions.

Many of us would like to smile more. We have read Victor Hugo's book, "The Man Who Laughs," with this smile in mind. But you cannot be read into a smile. Before prohibition days we were given a smile in liquid form and it did give good promise in this shape. But even here it was a stimulant, not a preservative. If former President Coolidge would only tell us how to cultivate a smile apart from our conditions, he would render a valuable service to unemployed persons.

Traveling Man Sees Great Benefit in 5-Cent Local Fare

Editor Boston Evening American:

I think the Public Trustees of the Boston Elevated Railway should receive the co-operation of the riding public in their reducing local rides outside the rapid transit lines from 6½c. to 5c. straight.

I am a traveling salesman going to different parts of the city, Spring st. West Roxbury to Forest Hills, Geneva ave and Blue Hill ave to Dudley st., Franklin Park to Egleston sq., also Charlestown, Arlington, Cambridge, Watertown, etc., and I am greatly indebted to the "L."

Instead of being effective for a trial of 30 days from September 1, I hope the limit is extended.

CHARLES HASKINS.

Says Autoists Are Hogging Signals, Blocking Pedestrians

Editor Boston Evening American:

Your readers must be tired of hearing about the rights of pedestrians on Boston streets; but this is a very important matter to those who depend upon their feet to carry them along.

On September 15 I crossed at 12:34 p. m. from Beacon st. across Tremont st. to School st. The traffic light was in my favor to cross. While in the middle of Tremont st., the lights flashed for autos to go. I was, with others, attempting to cross on my right, as I had started with the proper traffic signal light to cross.

That did not mean anything to the drivers of autos. They left me standing in the middle of the street, when, according to your version published in your paper, I had right of way till I reached my crossing which I started for on the proper light. This is happening daily. Why is it that our patience must be abused before this is corrected?

MYRON S. KEELEY.

Sets Forth Actual Needs Instead of One's Wants

Editor Boston Evening American:

In these times of unemployment the masses should be governed, to a great extent, by their needs, rather than by their wants. There is a difference here. Over 100 years ago, we are told, there were 72 human wants of which 17 were rated as actual needs.

Today we are told by economic experts that the modern man has 484 wants of which 94 are regarded as needs. From the same source we are told that 100 years ago there was offered to the average person for purchase 210 different items. Today the number is 30,000.

It is hard today to know your needs when you rush your wants beyond them.

N. L. LEWIS.

Feels Educators Should Be Ranked With Great

Editor Boston American:

If you readers were asked to name three of the most interesting and successful self-made men of today, who would arise in your mind?

The list that we have mainly agreed upon is this: Thomas A. Edison, Henry Ford and Harvey S. Firestone. These men all advise a guide in life.

But why not apply this to educators. It is in my humble opinion a mistake to pass over this distinction when we come to professors and teachers in our schools and colleges of today.

Preachers and teachers are hammered more than any one else in this world. They seldom are patted on the back and they do a tremendous amount of good work in this whirligig world.

There are a few world renowned educators in this part of the world but they are seldom praised.

N. H. HORTON.

Terms Installment Plan a Growing Necessity

Editor Boston Evening American:

This is the instalment age. We deal, we get credit, we progress on this plan. We must always have it in mind. We cannot dodge it for any long time. It pops up again and again.

A mother was recently asked: "When was your baby born?" "Let me think," she answered. "Oh, let me think! Oh, yes, the baby came between the third payment on the radio and the fifth on the automobile. Now, I can reckon from these and tell you exactly." She did.

The instalment plan plays the part of an excellent reminder and calendar. It is a growing necessity.

British Isles Swept by Terrific Storm

London, Sept. 18 (AP)—At least one life was lost in a heavy yesternight wind and rain storm which caused great damage in the British Isles. When a wall collapsed in Glasgow a night watchman was buried in the debris.

Seven Lose Lives in Coal Mine Blast

River Hebert, N. S., Sept 18 (AP)—Seven men were killed by an explosion of fire-damp in the 1200-foot level of the old Victoria coal mine late yesterday. Several men who escaped were severely burned.

Football Is Just Too Strenuous for a Lady 86 to Play

Prattville, Ala., Sept. 18 (AP)—Mrs. Ella Herbert, 86, in a hospital here with a broken hip, admits that the playing of football is a bit too rough for one of her years and her sex.

Yesterday a group of children were playing in her yard. They decided to play football but needed one more to complete the team.

"Please fill in for us," they pleaded, grouping around her.

Certainly. Anything to please the children.

She lasted until the third quarter. Then a play was run and Mrs. Herbert went down in the scramble. The hip bone snapped and she didn't get up.

MANVILLE HEIR IN LOVE SUIT

New York, Sept. 18—Mrs. Lois Manville, former typist who became the second bride of Thomas F. Manville, $30,000,000 asbestos heir, has gone to Reno, object divorce, it was revealed today.

Her departure occasioned little surprise, however, as there had been differences between the couple for some time. These differences became manifest when Manville advertised that he would no longer be responsible for her debts.

At that time it was rumored, and denied, that Manville intended to wed Sylvia Gordon Cohn, divorced wife of Victor H. Cohn, wealthy chain store man.

Mrs. Manville, formerly Lois Arline McColn of Lawrence, Kan., met Manville when she was a secretary-stenographer for his father. They were married in 1925.

Previous to that Manville had been divorced by his first wife, Florence Huber, queen of the Ziegfeld "Follies" in 1911.

Reports that Manville had settled $1,000,000 on Mrs. Manville were denied today.

Dr. True's Elixir is pleasant to take for CONSTIPATION and as a WORM EXPELLER

AIDS young and old to be fit, regular, buoyant . . . and free from round worms. Not a "candied drug," but a dependable home medicine made from rare and costly imported herbs of high quality . . . Nature's own laxative properties.

"I JUST heard about Dr. True's Elixir through the recommendation of a friend. I used it with great success on my little boy when he suffered from an attack of stomach worms. I used less than a bottle with the much desired results. He recovered almost immediately and has been free from this illness ever since. I really have great confidence in True's Elixir and gladly recommend it to all mothers."—Mrs. George Ritchie, (Brighton), Mass.

Alden Descendant Dies in Binghamton

Binghamton, N. Y., Sept. 18—Jerome L. Twitchell, 87, commander of Watrous Post, G. A. R., and president of the 109th Regiment, N. Y. V. Survivors' Association, is dead here.

His parents were the seventh in descent from John and Priscilla Alden.

149,000 Vets Ask War Compensation

Washington, Sept. 18—More than 149,000 World War veterans have applied for compensation for non-service-connected disabilities, under the provision made for them in the last session of Congress.

Film Actress in Love Suit

CHARGING that Edwina Booth, above, leading lady in the film, "Trader Horn," alienated the affections of her former husband, Duncan Rinaldo, while the picture was being filmed in Africa, Mrs. Suzette Rinaldo has filed suit for $50,000. (Int'l photo.)

Town Split on Celebrating Capture of Maj. Andre

Tuckahoe, N. Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—Whether the capture of Maj. John Andre, British spy, is something to celebrate is a subject of dispute among the village fathers.

An invitation from Tarrytown to participate in a sesqui-centennial celebration of Maj. Andre's capture Sept. 25-27 caused seven members of the village board to protest.

"I don't see," said Ray W. Thompson, "where there is any need for a celebration just because Andre unfortunately was captured in Tarrytown. He was a gallant gentleman. Every one always has been sorry for him."

William F. Horan, village attorney, said:

"No one is celebrating the capture of Nathan Hale, who was guilty of the same thing. I can see no reason for celebrating such a tragic affair."

Major Andre, acting for the British in negotiations with Benedict Arnold for the betrayal of West Point, was captured by three American militiamen near Tarrytown on Sept. 23, 1780, and was hanged on the following Oct. 2 at Tappan, N. Y.

34 Women Seek Seat in N. H. House

Concord, N. H., Sept. 18—Thirty-four women were nominated in last week's primary for membership in the State House of representatives, the official list of nominees today revealed.

This number is believed by State officials to be the highest on record. Twenty-three of the women were Republicans and 11 Democrats.

EDWINA BOOTH FILM STAR, IN LOVE SUIT

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 18—Moonlight on an African river, with the beat of tom toms accompanying native love rites, will play a part in a $50,000 alienation of affections suit brought against Edwina Booth, blonde, leading woman of "Trader Horn."

Mrs. Suzette Duncan, former wife of Duncan Rinaldo, whose real name is Renault Duncan, has accused the 18-year-old star of stealing her former husband's love in the heart of the African jungle.

According to papers filed here the alleged love larceny occurred when Duncan and Miss Booth were with a company engaged in filming scenes for "Trader Horn."

The complaint accused Miss Booth of causing Rinaldo or Duncan to divorce his wife last January, a month after the film players returned from the African trip.

Mrs. Rinaldo said her husband threatened to put her in an asylum and take their 6-year-old son, Renault, Jr., from her if she resisted his divorce action.

HOPKINS HITS COLLEGE CRITIC

Hanover, N. H., Sept. 18—Decrying the partial pictures of college life painted by novelists, playwrights, scenarists and others, President Ernest Martin Hopkins, in an address today opening the 162d year of Dartmouth College, defended student life.

"The genial cynicism of editorial comment in journals of opinion, descriptions in novels dealing with college life, burlesques on the stage, maudlin balderdash of the motion pictures, humor of college publications, extremes of athletic fervor—all these offer pictures of the American college," he said.

"But no one of them is adequate as a portrait, nor are all of them together adequate.

"The true portrait of the American College would show a community in which generosity of spirit and culture are predominant, where eagerness for wisdom and truth pervades the atmosphere, and the co-operative enterprise which we call education is carried on with mutual esteem and respect between faculty and students.

"It would likewise show, to be sure, some degrees of self-seeking and self-indulgence, some effort to arrogate special privilege to individuals, intellectual arrogance and close mindedness.

"But these would appear, as they are, merely blemishes upon the portrait."

Alex. Harrison, Noted Artist, Is Ill in Paris

Paris, Sept. 18 (AP)—Alexander Harrison of Philadelphia, one of the most widely known painters of the last generation, is seriously ill at his Paris studio. He is 77 years old and physicians hold little hope for his recovery.

Germany's "teacherless" school has aroused the interest of educators all over the world. The children in this school learn to count, memorize the alphabet, and become familiar with the rudiments of music though their own efforts to teach themselves. Read about this in the American Weekly section of next Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Fights for Child

ALLEGING THE CHILD'S FATHER, James H. R. Cromwell, failed to comply with an agreement made at the time of their divorce, Mrs. Raymond T. Baker has obtained a writ of habeas corpus in Newport to gain possession of the little girl. Hearing has been set for October 6. (I. N. R.)

250 CLUBBED AT BOMBAY POLLS

Bombay, Sept. 18 (AP)—More than 250 persons, including many women, were injured in police attacks on mobs swarming about the town hall voting place where the Bombay legislative election was held today. The police arrested 228 women and 17 men. The women were released later.

DIVORCEE GETS WRIT FOR CHILD

Newport, R. I., Sept. 18—In an effort to regain custody of her minor child, Mrs. Raymond T. Baker has served a habeas corpus upon the custodians, Mr. and Mrs. O. Eaton Cromwell at the Harriman cottage, but Judge Hugh Baker of the Superior Court has issued a restraining order, preventing the removal of the girl from Rhode Island jurisdiction, until a hearing is granted on the case, October 6.

An alleged agreement stipulates in the divorce of Mr. and Mrs. James H. R. Cromwell, the latter now Mrs. Baker, the child was to be turned over to her mother, September 5, 1930. It was also a decision of the Superior Court of the State of New York.

When her father failed to fulfill the obligation, Mrs. Baker instituted action. Mrs. Baker in the absence of James H. R. Cromwell, father of the child, has served the writ of habeas upon the uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. O. Eaton Cromwell.

TROLLEY CASE IS HEARD

The Public Utilities Commission gave a hearing yesterday to Chairman William Cornell of the Weymouth board of selectmen and other town officials who urged the commission to uphold the action of the town in revoking the location of trolley tracks of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. in Broad st., between Jackson and Johnson sqs.

It was pointed out that traffic congestion has occurred because of the tracks in this section. Representatives of the fire and police departments testified their equipment has been held up while answering calls because they were unable to pass the trolley cars.

Philip G. Carleton, attorney for the public trustees of the road, requested the commission to make a ruling of law that the order of the town revoking the company's location is illegal and invalid. His request, he said, was based on the fact that the reason for revocation given in the town's order was not substantiated by any testimony made during the hearing before the Weymouth selectmen.

The commission took the matter under advisement.

Pianos To Loan FREE

Frankly, we have too many pianos now in stock. Of course, we would like to sell them. Some new, some used instruments. Every piano in the sale will be sacrificed at a price almost unbelievable. The slashing reductions on Grands, Players and Uprights, should cause many to be sold immediately. All pianos not sold outright will be placed in the homes of families interested in owning a piano in the immediate future, particularly homes where there are children. You must call at the store to file your request.

Positively No Charge Of Any Kind

We, of course, reserve the right to select the homes in which the pianos are to be placed and they may be used indefinitely until we need them.

TOWN FIGHTS BRUSH FIRE

Scituate, Sept. 18—Hundreds of volunteers wielding brooms and buckets and three fire departments last night had under control a fire which started yesterday and swept 60 acres of brush land between Booth Hill rd., here, and Beechwood in Cohasset.

Thousands of mosquitoes which were routed out by the smoke were swarming over the area last night and causing added discomfort to those fighting the fire. Local residents brought iced tea and sandwiches to the fire fighters, who refused to leave the scene, despite the fact they were nearly exhausted.

DAILY ANTIQUE

No. 199

Among the pieces of historic silver at the Museum of Fine Arts which are of special Tercentenary interest is a plain silver punch bowl made before the Revolution by William Homes, "the honest goldsmith," nephew of Benjamin Franklin. On one side of the bowl is the inscription:

"The gift of the Field Officers and Captains of the Regiment of the town of Boston to Thomas Dawes Esqr. for his past services as adjutant to said Regiment Sept. 15, 1765," and on the other is engraved the Dawes coat of arms.

Thomas Dawes was the builder of the State House and the architect and builder of the Brattle Street Church in 1773. This bowl was presented to the museum by the widow of Ambrose Dawes, a direct descendant to Thomas, the patriot.

Boston Evening American is publishing daily photographs of interesting antiques. Owners of antiques of Colonial or early American origin or of historic association are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. If a photograph is not available, the American will send a cameraman to photograph the antique, providing the owner lives in Greater Boston. Address the Antique Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, Mass.

Blame 'White Smoke' in Three Deaths

New York, Sept. 18—"White smoke," a mixture of denatured alcohol and milk, caused the death of seven men in "The Tin Mountains," a colony of tin shacks in Brooklyn, chemical analysis of the mixture indicated.

Three of the men were dead when they were found Saturday. The others died in hospitals.

Girl's Death Probed

New York, Sept. 18—An autopsy was ordered when physicians were unable to determine the cause of death of Helen Germain, 28, after being found unconscious in a skating rink.

RECORD CLASS ENTERS B. C.

All records for freshman enrollment at Boston College were broken today when 700 applicants appeared with only 450 able to gain admission.

The majority of the new students were enrolled for the Bachelor of Arts degree course, with the others trying for Bachelor of Science and Bachelor of Philosophy degrees.

Two new members of the faculty will teach freshmen Latin, Greek and English this year, Henry Fitzgerald and Frederick Bona.

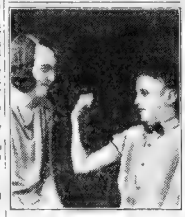
Fitzgerald is a brother of James Fitzgerald, who taught at the college three years ago and who is now studying theology in France.

Bona has just completed his studies in philosophy at Weston College. James J. McDermott, S.J., is dean of the freshman class.

The sophomore class will be admitted to the college tomorrow and the juniors and seniors on Monday.

Lindberghs, Byrds to Dine With Coste

Richmond, Va., Sept. 18—Col and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh and Rear Admiral and Mrs. Richard E. Byrd today have been invited to be house guests at the Virginia executive mansion on October 8, the date of the visit of Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, French fliers.



Mass. Boy Amazes Mother

"Robert's stomach was often upset and he suffered a lot from colds," says Mrs. Leonard Hodgson, 45 Olive Ave., Boston. "He was feverish and his breath was bad. I found he was constipated.

"Our doctor recommended California Fig Syrup, so I got some to give Robert. It surely surprised me to see how quickly it stopped his feverishness, cleared his breath and tongue, regulated his bowels; made him a strong and energetic boy again."

The quick, safe way to cleanse and regulate the bowels of bilious, headachy, constipated children is with California Fig Syrup. Give it at the first sign of bad breath, coated tongue, listlessness or feverishness. Every child loves its rich, fruity flavor and it acts without griping or discomfort. Appetite is increased by its use; digestion is assisted; weak stomach and bowels are given tone and strength.

For fifty years, doctors have endorsed this pure vegetable product. The genuine is always marked by the word California. Look for that when buying or you may get an imitation.

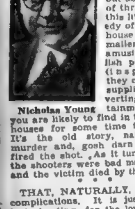
By NICHOLAS YOUNG

THAT ANCIENT and highly regarded aphorism on the subject of "too many cooks, etc.," must now go into our own select and purely local drama records as merely a smart saying—just that and nothing more. For Mr. E. E. Clive's second proposal of the new season at the Copley, called "Shooting Shadows," boasts of three authors—and it's a mighty interesting, well acted-play of spooks, magic and mystery.

• • •

THERE ARE MOMENTS, of course, when "Shooting Shadows" lays a heavy tax upon you credulity, when things happen that cannot be easily explained—and which are not; but as the run of thrillers runs this little comedy of haunted house blackmailers and amusing English policemen (inspectors, they call 'em), supplies as diverting entertainment as any you are likely to find in the playhouses for some time to come. It's the old story, naturally—murder and, gosh darn it, who fired the shot. As it turned out, the shooters were bad marksmen and the victim died by the knife



Nicholas Young

THAT, NATURALLY, involves complications. It is just plain bad shooting, for the lovely girl and her devoted lover — under severe pressure, of course—confesses to firing the deadly shot. But it is a stab in the dark that completes the homicide. If the actors are puzzled, and they are, what may be said of an anxious audience, groping and guessing in its own enjoyable misery. Here is mystery drama, indeed—and plenty of it.

• • •

UNLESS MEMORY plays us badly, and sometimes it does, "Shooting Shadows" is the first drama to be done in the legitimate manner by a triumvirate of literary sponsors. We had them in plays, and in most instances that seemed quite enough. Here, however, you have Henry Paul Carlton, William Ford Manley and John Harwood frankly and unitedly acknowledging the authorship. If you are not too particular you might include the astute Mr. Clive, for there are passages in the dialogue which we would bet a dollar to a doughnut were not in the original text.

• • •

IN ANY EVENT "Shooting Shadows" joins the Tercentenary celebrations as excellent entertainment, well worth anybody's attention. Lately our mystery plays have been mostly silly and without exception puerile. You cannot say that of "Shooting Shadows." In spite of its consolidated authorship, the play has virility, suspense and a lot of coaxing entertainment. Good plays generally are well acted.

• • •

IN A FAMILIAR and popular role, Mr. Clive tells faithfully and excellently. As much may be said of Lena Anderson, Bertha Belmore and Harold De Becker. And you might add Robert Hobbs, a new arrival in Mr. Clive's professional family, and Francis Compton. If there are flaws in the performance they are not important.

• • •

WITH MR. CLIVE safely settled in the thing he does best, whether he enjoys it or not, "Shooting Shadows," by every rule, should become the natural successor to "The Ghost Train." To this patient reviewer it is much better entertainment.

FISH CAUGHT RAY HATTON

Salmon salad was one of Raymond Hatton's favorite dishes until he "caught" in one sitting more salmon than he could eat in a lifetime. The featured comedian just returned from Alaska, where he went for the fishing of it. Pictured is all-talking drama of the North, "The Silver Horde."

Hatton sat down on the floor of a cannery at Ketchikan to rest between scenes. In leaning back he tripped over a corner which opened a bin of freshly caught salmon. It was only a matter of seconds before the comedian was buried beneath 3000 fish, each weighing several pounds.

From his viewpoint, Hatton ceased being funny, but for Evelyn Brent, Joel McCrea, Louis Wolheim and other members of the troupe it was his funniest scene.

BUTTERWORTH SOLVED GREAT SHOWER BATH MYSTERY

By CHARLES BUTTERWORTH
Chief Comedian of "Sweet Adeline," at the Colonial.

The first three or four years of my life were devoted to helping out at home. Saturday afternoons and evenings I was permitted to play with the other boys in the better-class poolrooms. My home, by the way, was in South Bend, Ind., where poolrooms are poolrooms, and the women know it.

Soon after I reached the age of five, and became more observing, I first noticed spots before my eyes. I had never felt no pain until that time, but that was years before I was permitted to attend Rotary and Kiwanis luncheons. The first time I noticed those spots I was afraid to mention it to my best friend, lest he should tell Mayor Keller, who was mayor at that time. But one day I went to my pastor and got up courage enough to tell him. I said: "Do you see spots before my eyes?" And he did. That, of course, closed the incident, but I will remember it to my last day. Even if at the time of my last day I happen to see spots as well as I did, still I think I will remember.

Charles Butterworth

About that time the war broke out and what a time we all had. My older brother became very much interested in Chatauqua work, and I was kept busy bringing pitchers of water to the speakers' platform. After the war everything became more settled. I was 15 years old then, and my father and mother insisted it was time to get me started to school. Father had no education to speak of, except his college work, but he felt that we boys should not be slighted. I learned rapidly and advancement came quickly.

Soon I was in complete charge of the shipping department of the Sibley Machine Company and every one envied me the position I held. The owner of the Sibley Machine Company himself became so jealous of me that he took over the position himself.

From then on I had very little struggling. Everything seemed to come to me. I first mastered the regulation of the shower bath. Every one said it couldn't be done. The majority of the South Bend residents were of the opinion that shower baths had to be "too hot," "not hot enough," or "too cold." I worked and worked until I got it just so.

When I finally had it at precisely the right pitch I ran excitedly to the street and beckoned to two ladies who were passing.

"Hurry," I said, "I have just regulated my shower to the right pitch."

Doubting, yet inquisitive, they followed. After testing the water they versified my story to the townspeople. Although I developed quite a cold from running without my robe to the door, the incident made me very happy.

A year later I made a study of street car transfers. For a number of months my time was devoted to comparing street car transfers from the various cities. I sent to 34 cities for samples of their street car transfers.

Although I never mastered the system of how they were made out and just where the right spot is for the conductor to punch, still it was an interesting study and I don't regret it a bit. Ever since have I seen a prettier sight than those 34 street car transfers, of various colors and shades, laid out on the parlor rug, and so carefully placed as to spell Vassar in large letters.

As time went on I became restless and wanted to travel. My father noticed the change in my attitude and did everything to keep my mind diverted. He used to come into the house quickly, reach into his derby hat and bring out from 30 to 40 ducks.

Another way he tried to keep me entertained was by wrestling horses in front of our house. Father would wrestle any horse that came along our street, provided the driver would remove the horse's shoes. Unless father was exceptionally tired he could throw a horse four out of five falls. Even this pastime ceased to interest me, so mother and father took me to the railroad depot, which was quite a distance from the town.

People of South Bend always wanted the depot nearer the city, but it was never moved as the railroad people were in favor of keeping it near the tracks. From the depot I was started on the interesting career that was to follow. I didn't know where I wanted to go, so the ticket man placed a number of attractive-looking tickets in my hat. I picked out one for Houston, Texas, and that was how I happened to come to New York. Mother's last words were:

"Remember, son, a blue serge suit looks best, after all."

Once I arrived in New York city it was easy. I went directly Arthur Hammerstein's office and asked for a job. Mr. Hammerstein said he was looking for a good comedian, and I told him I had never tried a job as a comedian, but that needed work badly. It just came out dandy. The name of the show I am in is "Sweet Adeline," now at the Colonial.

FILM MAGNATES BLOCK STARRING OF UNKNOWNS

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service
Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18—The Hollywood craze for picking unknowns and putting them in big roles is doomed to a sudden death. Two unknowns were taken out of the casts after the productions had actually started. I speak of Lester Vail in "Beau Ideal" and Constance Cummings in "The Prodigal," Ronald Colman's picture.

The story of Lester Vail is tragic one for the lad. He worked for exactly four days in "Beau Ideal" at R. K. O. studios and I am told, did excellent work. Herbert Brenon chose him and liked him. The busy bankers in New York, looking over the cast, suddenly grew uneasy over having the name of Lester Vail with whom the fans had little or no acquaintance in one of the leading roles. The boy was taken off the picture much to his sorrow and to the chagrin of Herbert Benon, who had picked any number of successful unknowns and made them famous.

Louella O. Parsons

AT R. K. O. studios only sympathy is felt for the lad but after all, it is the boys in the big town who sit in their swivel chairs and dictate the studio policy.

• • •

HAVE NEVER SEEN anyone happier to be traveling to New York than Robert Leonard. Bob, on a few moments' notice, was told that some of the West Point scenes in Marion Davies' picture, "Rosalie," would be made in West Point and he must meet his star in the big town. Gertrude Olmstead, who is already in the East, was told on the long distance telephone that Bob was on his way to New York himself. That means that Marion won't be returning as soon as we all hoped. Irving Thalberg thought it was better for her to make the West Point scenes now instead of waiting until a few months hence.

DORIS DEAN IS ONCE more taking direction from Roscoe Arbuckle. Now don't get all het up and think that there has been a marital reconciliation and that she and Fatty have made up. Doris is only playing in a picture which Fatty is directing for Education. What a merry time the oldtimers are having with Lloyd Hamilton, Al St. John, Edna Marion and Addie McPhail and Doris, all doing their best to make this a snappy two-reeler. Fatty knows his stuff, too, and so does the cast. At that it would be nice if Roscoe and Doris forgot their divorce and remarried.

SINCE PHIL GOLDSTONE took the helm at Tiffany the studio seems to be wide open and doing business at the old stand. I thought they were only going to make 15 pictures a year but with the announcements coming forth from the studio every day and the plans, it looks as if that number will be doubled. The latest is "Dress Crime For" with Roland V. Lee directing. Ambitious, aren't they, at this studio? They certainly are when they are trying to get Edward Robinson to play the lead. All the companies are camped on Eddie Robinson's doorstep, hoping to interest him in their offers.

LITTLE NEWS NOTE from Columbia that has come to our attention and helped to lighten what promises to be a dull day, is the engagement of pretty blonde Josephine Dunn. Josephine plays a part in Evelyn Brent's picture, "Madonna of the Streets." Let's hope this is just a beginning of a series of good parts for this girl. Hobart Bosworth gets the coveted role in "Tol'able David" played by Ernest Torrence. Every time anyone has a look at the scenes shot with Richard Cromwell, the Harry Cohn discovery, they leave the projection room applauding the lad, who has been a surprise to everyone. Richard Barthelmess, who is greatly interested in the talkie version of "Tol'able David," sent Richard Cromwell a telegram and was Richard the second thrilled?

JUNGLE STORY ON SCREEN AT KEITH'S

When the Prince of Wales goes a-hunting, he takes along a small army of assistant hunters, human and animal. The native "beaters" prepare the ground ahead; the gun bearers carry the most extensive and modern rifle equipment made. A lion that could stand up against that array would have to be made of sheet iron.

And yet, flesh and blood and bone as they are, many a lion has pulled a too eager sportsman to the ground and mauled him, sending his retinue into wild disorder, killing and maiming scores before he is through.

If that is to the lion's credit, what can be said of the Masai spearmen, who with a primitive shear and shield stand face to face with the charging giant and bet their deadly aim against his fury?

To hit a mountain of charging lion exactly in the one spot that will kill him instantly, is a feat none would like to try for any amount. But the Masai does it often, and the Columbia feature, "Africa Speaks," shows him doing it with a smile.

GOSSIP ALONG NEW YORK'S RIALTO

New York, Sept. 18.

Not so long ago the local managers had to hie themselves Westward to assemble a quorum of actors for a Broadway production. But time and constant change take care of most of our problems, and so they seem to have done with the difficulty of the New York impresarios.

It now develops that a good-sized quota of musical comedy stars who trekked Californiaward in those promising days of the early year are on their way back. And so the troubles of the Rialto entrepreneurs—so far as available time is concerned, at any rate—now will have joined the shades of yesterday.

Among those expected home soon are Jack Whiting, the juvenile, last seen here in "Hold Everything"; Gus Shy, the comic, and Ona Munson, prima donna. And that's enough to start with, right there. Let's get out the old script and start hiring 'em.

HUB FOLK SHOW GREAT INTEREST IN WHALE

"Aimee," the 55-foot, 68-ton whale, which is being exhibited alongside Mechanics Building, shared honors with the parade yesterday and rolled up one of the biggest attendance records of the transcontinental tour. It is interesting to note that the questions asked by New England visitors to the exhibit differ to a material degree from those of persons living inland.

Here where whaling was once one of the biggest of industries along the coast, centering in New Bedford and Nantasket, the residents seem more interested in details about the whale, where in other cities the mere sight of the exhibit is sufficient.

One of the most frequently asked questions is how long it took to capture this sea monster. "Aimee" was wounded by the first harpoon well aft, and swam for more than 16 hours before the gunner was able to fire the second missile closer to the vital organs. During those 16 hours the killer boat was tossed and churned through the waters, and the great lashing tail twice nearly capsized the powerful "Hawk," flagship of the Pacific Whaling Co.

Another question deals with ambergris, the most valuable ingredient obtained from a whale. This is the base of all expensive perfumes and sells wholesale for $64 an ounce, or nearly $1600 a pound. Contrary to the common belief, ambergris is not found in every whale. It is only when a whale eats something that gives it ptomaine poisoning that certain toxic conditions are set up in the whale that creates the substance known as ambergris.

If the whale recovers, the ambergris will be found floating on the ocean waters; if the whale dies, then it will be found in the stomach of the mammal. The largest amount of ambergris ever found in one whale was in the stomach of a sea leviathan killed off the west coast of Australia, where the find was valued at $49,897.

The engagement at Mechanics Building is for a limited period only, and those who have not viewed the exhibit will find the afternoon and early evening hours the least crowded. The exhibit is being toured by the Pacific Whaling Co., and at the conclusion of the transcontinental trip the mammal will be presented to the government for one of its museums.

Film Who's Who

Stanley Smith, who plays the juvenile lead in "Good News," at Loew's Orpheum next week, refuses to say claims that his entrance into motion pictures was a mere matter of luck. When he was a student in Hollywood High School he got a job handing fan mail for a star at one of the studios. Despairing of ever getting a job before the cameras, he concentrated his attention on the high school dramatic club, playing in every production. It was thus that he was brought to the attention of Lenore Ulric, who engaged him as the juvenile for her West Coast company of "Kiki." Later he played the homesick Lieut. Moore for a year's engagement in "What Price Glory." After that he played three season in stock in Omaha and Houston.

Stanley Smith

Returning to the west coast, he played in "The Royal Family" and "Little Orchid Annie." His work in these two productions got him a long-term contract with Pathe.

After he made "The Sophomore" for that company he was borrowed by Paramount to play opposite Nancy Carroll in "Sweetie." His work was so satisfactory in "Sweetie" that Paramount bought his contract from Pathe. He has since been seen in "Honey," "Young Man of Manhattan," "Queen High" and "Love Among the Millionaires."

Midnight Show At Old Howard Friday

At the Old Howard, next Friday night, Nora Ford will put forth a special midnight show with a number of added features for this particular event.

The burlesque card will be the "Hi Ho" Co. with Connie St. Clair, "Queen of Beauty" and a fine singing and dancing chorus. It will be a complete Howard bill.

Stage Who's Who

Bartlett Simmons, who will play Torrelli in "Princess Charming," the Connolly and Swanstrom operetta, which is playing at the Shubert for three weeks, was born in Baltimore. He attended Baltimore City College and after graduation went into business as a credit man. He studied music, meanwhile, at the Peabody Institute in Baltimore and appeared in amateur theatricals. He was also a choir singer.

Bartlett Simmons

During the war he went to a naval officer's training camp and was an ensign at the Armistice. After the war he came to New York and studied with Estelle Liebling. While studying he worked as credit man for a local concern. He had been promised a promotion, which was postponed. His teacher seeing him despondent asked and found out the trouble. She told him to go down to call at the Shubert in New York. There he was immediately picked by Sigmund Romberg, the composer.

He was picked on a Saturday and after two days of rehearsals opened in the first "Artists and Models" on a Monday. The Shuberts then placed him under a five years contract.

Publix Jamaica Theater Starts Kiddie Club

At the Publix Jamaica theater Manager Harry Brown has organized the Jamaica Kiddie Club. In addition to the regular screenings the theater has special features especially booked to appeal to the children. Starting next Saturday, a Doll Fashion Show for the feminine members of the juvenile club is being planned. Many advance entries point to the great influence of the Tercentenary celebration, as colonial costumes are in the majority. The Doll Fashion Show will continue for four weeks.

"Toast of the Legion"

First National's next all-Technicolor picture will be "Toast of the Legion." Edward Everett Horton, Walter Pidgeon, June Collyer, Claude Gillingwater and Albert Gran are among the principal players in the cast.

In Old Boston—No. 363

Massachusetts Tercentenary, 1930

THIS IS A VIEW FROM the Cambridge bridge, afterwards known as the West Boston bridge. At the right is seen the Charles st. jail, still there, although the water at its side has been filled in. Back of it, at the left, is the then medical college, now a part of the Massachusetts General Hospital. The McLean Hospital property is also now a part of the Massachusetts General. Fishing from this bridge, over which the Cambridge subway now passes, was considered very fine in 1851, when this view was taken. From the collection of Edwin S. Webster.

AUTHOR PICKS COMEDIAN

One of the major delights in John Drinkwater's comedy, "Bird in Hand," at the Majestic, is the performance given by Eliot Makeham as the quaint little chap who "travels in sardines." He was personally selected for the part by the author, and this is his third season in it, in London and this country. Makeham was just making a mark for himself as an actor in England when the war came along. He promptly enlisted and before hostilities ceased had risen to the rank of captain. In France he organized a company of talented soldiers who presented many musical skits and comedies for the entertainment of the soldiers behind the lines.

Eliot Makeham

This company was known as "The Splinters," and after the war they played for several seasons in London and throughout Great Britain.

Then Makeham retired from "the Splinters" to resume more serious work in the theater, and he has created numerous amusing roles in plays by Galsworthy, Shaw and Drinkwater. His engagement in "Bird in Hand" constitutes the first time he has played in the United States.

Writer to Direct

Vin Moore, who wrote the story for "The Cohens and Kellys in Africa" in collaboration with Edward Luddy, is the latest writer to be elevated to directorial responsibility by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Moore will direct his own story, the fifth annual production in which Charlie Murray and George Sidney will appear for Universal.

Title Changes

Fox has changed the titles of two pictures. "Once a Sinner" is the new name for "Luxury" and "The Dancers" is now known as "Play Called Life." Chandler Sprague directed the latter picture while George Middleton has been assigned to direct the first.

600 Register for Harvard Classes

Harvard University officially opened today with registration of more than 600 students in the "first year class of the Business school at the Baker library.

This is about the same size as last year's entering class, representing colleges from all over the United States and from Canada. As usual, there are a number of foreign students.

All other departments of the university will register tomorrow, Saturday and Monday, while freshmen of the college, of the engineering school and the medical school register tomorrow only.

Monday afternoon all students in the university will be enrolled, and it is expected that there will be well over 8000.

5 BANK BANDITS GET $30,000

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 18—Police today are combing the state for five bandits who conducted a $30,000 robbery of the Lincoln National Bank and Trust Company yesterday. They had escaped in a car with siren sounding to clear the way for them.

This was the third bank robbery in the state within the last week.

Shortly after the bank opened, three well-dressed young men stepped out of an auto and walked into the bank, and two men remained outside with machine guns.

Once inside, the trio whipped out revolvers and ordered 20 or more customers and bank employes to lie on the floor.

President J. E. Barkley was slugged twice by one of the bandits when he protested, but was not seriously hurt.

Another bandit hit Philip Hall, vice-president, over the head with the butt of a revolver.

N. H. Episcopalian Ministers Meet

Concord, N. H., Sept. 18—The annual conference of clergymen of the Episcopal diocese of New Hampshire opened yesterday at St. Paul's School with a score of clergy present.

MORROW QUITS, WORK LAUDED IN MEXICO

By GEORGE SCHREINER

Universal Service Special Cable

Mexico City, Sept. 18—Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow left the Mexican capital by train last night on his homeward journey to the United States, where he will be New Jersey's Republican senatorial candidate at the forthcoming elections.

President Pascual Ortiz Rubio praised Morrow's furtherance of Mexican-American understanding in a signed statement. The statement said:

"The activity of Mr. Dwight W. Morrow as ambassador of the United States of America in Mexico has been exceptionally noteworthy because by the good will that has animated him in all his acts, he has made unusually great contributions toward making the relations of the two countries of the highest cordiality."

Ortiz Rubio further showed his appreciation by designating Fernando De La Garza, custodian of the national palace, and other public officials to accompany Morrow as far as the American border.

The Ambassador's car was attached to the regular night train for Guadalajara. There he will break his journey for six hours to see the city.

The Mexican foreign office also issued a statement praising Morrow's efforts. It says in part:

"Fortunately the recent American governments have understood that Mexico should be treated amicably with a liberal understanding of her national problems and on the basis of true friendship. Mr. Morrow was the agent of comprehension with his friendly and humane conduct. Now it is time to say that all his acts have been carefully and delicately subjected to respect for our laws and institutions."

Liner Nova Scotia Sails for Liverpool

Bound to Halifax, N. S.; St. John's, N. F., and Liverpool, the Furness Line steamer Nova Scotia, Capt. Samuel J. Furneaux commanding, left port yesterday, less than 48 hours after her arrival from the same ports.

On board were 90 passengers, six of them destined for Liverpool. Mr. and Mrs. John McGovern, J. C. M. Roberts, Mrs. Elsie Twiss and daughter, and Mrs. Nancy Hayning. The rest will land at Halifax or St. John's. Among those booked for the latter port are Hon Robert Job, member of the Newfoundland Parliament, returning home after a visit here.

Burglary Suspect Pleads Own Case, Goes Free

Lawrence, Sept. 18—Accused of burglary, Reynolds Williams, 20, of Haverhill, argued his own case before Judge Dillon and a jury in Supreme Court here yesterday and won a not guilty verdict.

Williams was charged with breaking and entering in the rooming house of Elifterios Carianiangos in Harrison st., Haverhill. The lodging house keper said he recognized Williams as the man he saw through a screen by the light of a street lamp at 4:30 o'clock in the morning of August 14, going through a lodger's clothes.

Cross-examination by Williams showed that the street-lights in Haverhill were turned off at 2 o'clock that morning and witness declared he was home in bed.

STEWED FRESH FRUIT SHOULD BE IN DIET THE YEAR 'ROUND

It Is a Pleasing Change From Raw Fruit and Often More Wholesome

It is often the tendency to overindulge in raw fruit. In many cases an upset digestive system can be traced to raw fruit.

However, when the fruit is stewed and sweetened to taste with pure cane sugar, there is less danger of digestive disorders. As far as taste-appeal is concerned, stewed peaches, apples, berries, plums and pears are most enjoyable when chilled and served for dessert.

In view of the fact that pure cane sugar is now at the lowest price it has been in a generation, and since fruit is still abundant, the value of storing away preserves of all kinds for winter use should not be overlooked. Not only is homecanning profitable, but grocers everywhere are offering worth-while bargains in preserved fruits, jellies and jams.

Pickles and relishes made of cucumbers, green tomatoes and cabbage are also economical to preserve. Their spicy, tart-sweet goodness encourages the consumption of essential foods such as meat, fish and vegetables. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute

Cathie Confesses Love for Moore; Actions Arouse Suspicions

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Catherine Paige marries her wealthy, elderly employer, Alfred Farnsworth. He is a kind and indulgent husband, but Cathie is lonely and homesick and the gloomy, almost sinister family mansion gets on her nerves. Soft-footed Chinese servants, under Cheng, have their quarters in the basement, and a sullen maid-servant, Marguerite, in possession of certain unwholesome family secrets, has a room on the third floor.

Gordon Moore, a business associate of her husband's, is a frequent guest at the house. Chester Farnsworth's son who hates Cathie, watches this innocent friendship with malicious interest.

In the meanwhile Cathie has accompanied her husband to an engineering project in the mountains and Gordon Moore, who is in charge of operations, offers to show her the dam at night.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

(Copyright, 1930, King Features Synd., Inc.)

THEY WALKED along the rim of what seemed to be a crater . . . it was really the unfinished dam. Below were many levels, and men climbing like ants up and down the scarred sides. Overhead great beacon lights flared, and men seemed to be working far upward, half way up to the sky. There was the sound of crunching rock, of running water, of the steady whirring of many machines. And the cold, the cold of a mountain night, pressed close to them, almost painful to breathe.

The flashlights of the elder Moore and her husband were ahead. Cathie and Gordon followed. Sometimes Moore talked, explaining things. Cathie listened, but the words meant nothing. She was listening to the song of the machines, and the wild singing in her heart.

Here she was, in the mountains with him . . . and it wasn't her fault . . . . Mr. Farnsworth brought her . . . she could put out her hand and touch him . . . not her fault . . . Alfred's . . .

Left Alone

Alfred halted the procession. He wanted to see the great cement mixer that took sand and rocks and pebbles and stirred them into the mixture with enormous iron hands.

"You and Gordon better wait outside, it's pretty dusty for a lady," David Moore said in his harsh voice, so like Gordon's yet so unlike it.

"If you climb up a bit further you can get a better view of the project," Gordon said, taking her arm in his, guiding her over the slippery sand and rock to the wooden platform overlooking the crater.

It was a hard climb, because of the slippery sand, and the darkness. Cathie was breathing hard when they reached it and the clear, cold air whipped the scarlet color to her cheeks, so that she glowed, with a curious, tingling exhilaration.

The whole thing was unreal, and clouds of misty fog rolling in, dimming the flaring lights, served to make it more so. It was like creation, like the beginning of the world.

In His Arms

Standing there on the little wooden platform in the darkness, Gordon Moore was very near to her. Her husband and his brother had disappeared into the shed-like building that housed the machinery. Somewhere, off in the darkness, the blind aunt and the old uncle waited, and somewhere, in another world, her mother . . . Ruth . . . the family . . . Chester . . . troubles . . . far away . . . unreal . . .

The pounding went on, and sometimes it seemed to be the machinery and sometimes it was in her heart. She leaned back against the railing behind her, and it wasn't a railing, it was Gordon Moore's arm.

The pounding in her heart, or the sound of machinery seemed to get louder . . . or was it that she was dizzy? And there was a roaring in her ears.

"I—I feel awfully funny!" She was lifting her head to say it when somehow, without any volition of her own, she was kissing Gordon, or was he kissing her? She didn't know how it had happened, or how it could ever stop. "Oh, my dear, my dear!" She felt arms crushing her closer, hurting her. After a long while—how long she didn't know—she saw lights coming out of the fog, and voices . . . her husband and the elder Moore.

Gordon's arms relaxed, dropped to his sides. Cathie waited motionless, for the men to come nearer. Something in her brain was asking:

"Did they see?" But she couldn't seem to care . . . it didn't

LAUD FIREMEN IN PARADE

Fire Commissioner Edward F. McLaughlin today expressed to the members of the Boston fire department his appreciation of the splendid dahowing made by them in the parade yesterday

He pointed out that the men obliged to remain on duty were just as interested and just as loyal as the men who marched

"The entire department was put to a test yesterday and it responded in accordance with its finest traditions," he said. "It was a day of commendation for everyone in the department."

A note of sadness was injected by a general order announcing the death of Hoseman George J. Corcoran of Engine 13, killed in the line of duty Sept. 16. The members of Engine 13 were informed they will be excused from duty in order to attend the funeral from the late residence, 58 Pontiac st., Roxbury, at 8 30 a. m. tomorrow followed by services at the Mission Church at 9 a. m.

Hultman Opens New Drive on Boston Speakeasies

Having obtained similar lists from previous captains, Police Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman today demanded of precinct captains lists of speakeasies, disorderly houses and narcotic depots in their divisions.

With these lists he will check against lists obtained from captains formerly on the divisions but now switched to other divisions.

In his General Order No. 100 he wants the following 14 questions answered by the captains:

1. List of all speakeasies (places where liquor is being sold operated on your division.

2 List of all disorderly houses or suspected disorderly houses on your division.

3. Gaming houses or lotteries operated on your division

4 List of all houses suspected of trafficking in narcotics

5 In what part of building located, first or second floor, whole house, etc.

6 Name of operator or person operating the place.

7—How long been in existence?

8—How many times convicted in court?

9—Name of person convicted?

10—Was proprietor ever convicted?

11—Disposition of cases, sentence if any

12—How many times raided, stating the dates"

13—Total amount of liquor or any other contraband seized, if any

14 Number of speakeasies, disorderly houses, gaming houses, suspected houses of trafficking in narcotics with names and locations, that have been closed or have ceased to do business since May 9, 1930?

McCarter of College ave, West Somerville. According to the police, the woman taxied to a Cambridge bank where she drew $500. On her return home she missed the money and notified police. Gordon turned over the $500 to Probation Officer White in court and then paid the fine

325 GIRLS AT EMMANUEL

Emmanuel College opened today with the largest number of girls registered in its history.

The college began its twelfth year with more than 325 students, 79 seniors, and a larger graduate department than for many years. Sister Helen Madeleine, dean, announced

The girls came from all parts of New England, Massachusetts being well represented

Among the freshmen are Charlotte Bigelow, Lynn; Catherine Murphy, Hudson; Helen Glynn, Hudson; Anna Walsh, Dorothea Dunegan, Marie Scanlin, Dorchester; Eleanor Downey, Norwood; Marie Castles, Roxbury; Loretta McGovern, Woburn; Helen Keating, Taunton; Grace Maloney, Belmont.

Other members of the freshman class include Gertrude Weber and Agnes Crane and Susanna Donovan, Milford; Catherine McGuillon, Lilian Dale and Loretta Daley, Medford

Activities of the students this year will be reported by a publicity committee composed of students

Defeated at Polls, Scharton Now Fined as Speeder

To assuage his defeat in the Democratic contest for nomination for attorney-general, there may be balm in Gilead for William R. Scharton. There is none in Malden court.

Judge Elbridge G. Davis fined him $10 today for speeding, Motorcycle Officer Martin J. Brennan of Melrose, testifying that the Boston lawyer was making 50 miles an hour along Main st., Melrose

The policeman said that Scharton, when asked to show his license, displayed one of 1928 vintage and then one of 1929, which had expired. He said he didn't bring a charge of driving without a license, because he believed the lawyer had made application for renewal.

Mrs. Scharton accompanied her husband on the fast auto trip and was very unpleasant to him, Brennan told the court. She accused him, he said, of harboring feeling toward her because he had once stopped a nurse, who was speeding to her side at Melrose hospital where she was a patient.

Mrs. Scharton even went so far the policeman testified, as to hope he'd be a patient at the hospital.

"And what did you say?" court inquired

"I thanked her," Brennan said, "and refused to talk further with her."

Scharton said that he had not been traveling more than 35 miles an hour. He appealed the fine and was allowed to go on his own recognizance. The charge has been hanging fire several weeks on account of his activities in the political field.

$100 Weekly for News and Picture Tips

Do you want to get money for being alert? If so, the Boston American offers the opportunity. Each week $100 in prizes will be given for news and picture tips telephoned in to the News-Tip Editor, at Liberty 4000.

And what is a news tip? It's the information that something of interest to Greater Bostonians has taken place or will take place. Do you know, for instance, that an interesting picture is to be obtained, that an accident or an unusual event has happened, that there is going to be a business merger? That's a news tip. If you have a camera, take a picture of some news event, while it is happening. Pictures of unusual animal poses are wanted, too. Bring your action pictures to the American quick. Delay often spoils them for use in the American.

There will be $25 given weekly for the best or an unusual event news tip received, $15 for the next best, $10 for the next best, two $5 prizes and $2 prizes for each of the 20 next most valuable tips. Of course, the first one who turns in the tip in an interesting event receives the award on that particular item. Anyone who is alive and alert can win.

George Washington Runs Into Speed Trap and Loses $5

The court hadn't expected such a distinction, but it took it calmly today and taxed George Washington $5 for court costs today in East Cambridge for speeding in Memorial Drive, Cambridge

George Washington lives in Massachusetts ave., Arlington, and was one of 43 people brought before Judge Wilcott by Metropolitan police. Most of them were assessed $5 costs and their cases filed

SUSPECT RUM RUNNERS CAPTURED THEIR BOAT

Airplanes and Coast Guardsmen Hunt for Missing Pair Who Went for Sail

A theory that rum-runners kidnaped Fred M. Giffels, 30, of 605 Lagrange st., West Roxbury, and Albert Sarni, 32, of 52 Cooper st., North End, and confiscated their cabin cruiser was advanced today to account for their mysterious disappearance.

Giffels and Sarni left their homes a week ago to set sail in the motor boat C-6013, recently sold by Giffels to Sarni, and have not been heard from since.

Coast guard patrol boats joined with police in search for them

WIFE'S PROSTRATED

Meantime their wives are prostrated, Mrs. Sarni facing a nervous breakdown. Giffels has a son, Fred, Jr., four, and a daughter, Marie, seven

His brother, Joseph Giffels of New York, is directing a search from the air, having chartered two planes

Giffels is proprietor of an automobile repair shop at 45 Pearl st., Brookline.

Last Thursday afternoon another friend drove Giffels to Sarni's home and the two men announced they were going for a sail.

MISSING A WEEK

They left for the waterfront and are believed to have embarked in the cabin cruiser.

On Friday neighbors at Hull, where the Giffels have a cottage, telephoned that lights were seen in it the night before

Mrs. Giffels went to Hull and inspected the cottage, but could find no trace of the men having been there

When the two failed to return home police were notified and the hunt began

220 TRUCKS IN ONLY ONE ACCIDENT

13,357 Commercial Vehicles In Contest Had Only 4438 Mishaps in 19 Million Hours

Gov. Allen awarded bronze plaques today to representatives of 15 business concerns, whose trucks won first place in the various divisions of the commercial vehicle safety contest conducted over six months.

The 220 trucks operated by these 15 concerns had only one accident in 344,823 hours of operation.

The total number of trucks which participated in the contest was 13,357, operated by 423 concerns. They had 4438 accidents in 19 million hours of use.

The winning concerns are Cloverleaf Baking Co., Woburn; John Hinckley & Sons Co., Yarmouthport; John S. Hannunn, Ludlow; L. H. Dalco Co., Dorchester; Burns Brothers, Springfield, Jaines CeBrook, Inc., Lynn; Sanitary Laundry, Inc.; General Electric Co., Lynn; Arnold Fisher Co., Boston; City of Malden; Cape Cod Oil Co., Hyannis; Lowell Gas Light Co.; Pittsfield Yellow Cab Co., Fitchburg Paper Co., and Trianle, Ltd., Boston.

"The record made is more remarkable considering that many of these trucks are heavy vehicles, not so easily handled as pleasure cars," said the Governor, to whom the recipients of the plaques were presented by Russell A. Sears, vice-chairman of the committee that handled the contest.

FRIEND ST. FIRM HIT BY FIRE

A two alarm fire of mysterious origin caused $7000 damage in a storeroom of the Prime Upholstering Co. on the top floor of the six story brick building at 19 Friend st., today. The company has not been operating for two weeks because of a strike.

As the structure is one of the oldest in Boston, Asst. Chief Henry J. Power ordered a second alarm. The fire worked through to the roof but was beaten down by ladder companies 1 and 24.

Other firms occupying the building are George W. Rollins, Inc., rugs; A. W. Hastings & Co., Old Colony Manufacturing Company, suitcases; Coleman Gas Ranges and L. Averdon, electrical fixtures.

MRS. ALLEN AND BABY ARE WELL

It's Marjorie Wallace Allen!

Weight, 7 pounds, 6 ounces—cribside.

This is the official announcement today of her daddy, Frank G. Allen, Governor of Massachusetts.

Marjorie was born yesterday at Phillips House, Massachusetts General Hospital, just as the big cannon boomed on the Common to start Boston's biggest parade.

There's another member of the Allen household who knows something has happened, but doesn't grasp what it's all about. He is Frank G. Allen, Jr., not quite two years old.

Walter Adams Buried in Salem St. Cemetery

Railroad executives and many newspapermen today attended funeral service at the First Universalist Church, Malden, for Walter H. Adams, assistant to the vice-president of the Boston & Albany Railroad and former Boston editor.

Oldest Resident in Lynn Celebrates 102d Birthday

Mrs. Harriet Lavinia Horton Hodges, Lynn's oldest resident, today celebrated her 102d birthday. One of her four sons came from Santa Barbara, Calif., to be with her at her home at 61 Bresd st., where she lives with another son, William Horton Hodges. Four grandchildren and nine great grandchildren were also present. Mrs. Hodges was born at Manchester, England, September 18, 1828.

COTS ARRIVE FOR LEGION

Distribution of 20,000 army beds to the American Legion for use during the national convention will start Monday.

Several carloads of the beds have already arrived from Brooklyn, and are stored at the army base, and 83 more carloads are now en route from Philadelphia, Chicago, and New York. The beds are being turned over to the legion officials by regular army authorities through a special act of Congress.

More than 100 men in charge of Capt. William Hennessey, supply officer of the 101st field artillery, M. G. M., are assisting in the unloading of the freight cars bearing the enormous shipments. They will also aid in the distribution of the equipment to the various club houses, dwellings and the state armories throughout Boston where they will be installed. More than 50 trucks will be used to accomplish this work.

There are also huge shipments of pillows, pillow slips and sheets on the way. Nearly 40,000 blankets will be supplied by the army base here.

H. J. Lovering of the Arlington post, chairman of the legion billeting and transportation division, is in general charge of the work, assisted by Lieut. Harold Drew of the 101st field artillery and Lieut. Clarence Freeman of Dorchester.

ONLY 22 OUT IN SCHOOL STRIKE

Despite the action of 500 Watertown high school students in walking out on strike as a protest against longer hours, the schools in that town were closed yesterday afternoon to permit the children to witness the Boston Tercentenary parade.

All but 22 of the strikers have returned to classes.

The fact that all strikers are to be considered on probation until December 1 caused unrest in the school because most of the student athletes were among the striking group.

The decision of the school committee in giving the boys and girls a probation period for their protest made football the main topic of discussion. The school football schedule has not been canceled as yet, although virtually the entire squad was among the strikers.

Victim Reports Theft of Wine

Frank Cefalo of 52 Windsor st., Medford, complained to police last night that a man entered his cellar through an unlocked door and stole a gallon of wine.

He told police he chased the man who broke the jug of wine by smashing it accidentally against a lamp post.

CODMAN SEES DRY REPEAL

Repeal of the 18th amendment in the state election should be a certainty if members of both major parties pool their wet resources at the polls, Col. Julian Codman, counsel for the Constitutional Liberty League declared last night in reviewing the unusual wet Republican strength in the primaries, which normally bring out the dry vote.

He said:

So far as it is possible to tell from a primary at which so few people vote, it would appear that the Republican party is probably divided, 50-50, in their opinions of wet and dry.

Mrs. Tilton a year ago estimated the Republican dry strength at 70 per cent; in the last campaign she called it 60 per cent. She now will probably have to revise her opinion again.

Because of the size of the Republican wet sentiment in the primary, repeal of the Baby Volstead act will be a certainty of the wet forces behind the Democratic party are added to that of the Republicans at the polls.

Mr. Draper ran unusually well, consistently he labored under the greatest difficulties, for the dry vote is always strongest in the primaries.

In view of the strenuous campaign waged by Mr. Butler who had the leaders of the old machine behind him, Mr. Draper performed a wonderful feat. Those opposed to the 18th amendment naturally are pleased. However, again considering the small vote—about 30 per cent—which comes out at the primaries, we cannot be too certain.

Jewish New Year's Services Planned

Many Attend Requiem For Judge Creed

The funeral of Judge Michael J. Creed was held from St. Augustine's Church, Dorchester st., South Boston, this morning, and was attended by a great number of people including many members of the legal profession.

The Rev. Joseph F. Coppinger, I. P. F., pastor of the church, conducted the ceremony, being assisted by Rev. Augustine M. McMahon as deacon and Rev. William J. Kenney, sub-deacon.

Terry's mass was sung and during the offertory Joseph Ecker, baritone, sang "I Jesu Deus Tacta" and "Nearer My God to Thee."

The burial was at Old Calvary cemetery at which Rev. Fr. Reddy conducted the committal service.

The bearers were Dr. David T. Hays, Thomas C. Clexton, Judge Michael J. Murray, Dr. Philip E. A. Sheridan, Congressman John W. McCormack, Sergt. William H. Armour of the Hull police.

Honorary bearers were Governor Frank G. Allen (represented by Maj. Francis S. Phelan and Councillor James F. Powers), Mayor James M. Curley, former Governor Eugene N. Foss, Sheriff John A. Kelliher, Judge Wilfred L. Bolster, John McLaughlin, Joseph T. Lyons, J. Porter Crosby, Albert Graves, Henry H. Goodwin, Representative John J. Reardon, Dr. Francis D. Donaghue, Dr. John McCartin and Gen. Edward L. Logan.

Among the court officials present were William F. Donovan, Edward J. Lord, Frederic J. Dillon, Charles T. Wilock, Frederick W. Doyle, George H. Walton.

The eulogy was by Fr. Coppinger.

"I recall a statement by Judge Creed 20 years ago when he said 'What does it matter about worldly things. We must keep our minds and hearts set on the salvation of our souls and prepare ourselves for that end!

"This he always did. "He had a great heart, filled with sympathy for erring youth and even for confirmed criminals with whom he dealt."

$1,209,587 IN 3 FAILURES

FREE MAN HELD IN SWINDLE

Charles Wheelock, alias Charles Murdock, brought to Boston from the federal penitentiary in Atlanta, was found not guilty of larceny of $36,000 today in Superior Court when Judge Harold P. Williams directed such a verdict.

The directed verdict was because Joseph J. Aberly, of New York, victim of the swindle, declared in an affadavit that he could not identify Wheelock as one of the four men that swindled him.

All four men were indicted for the larceny, but the other three have never been caught. After being acquitted, Wheelock was started back again for Atlanta where he is serving a seven-year sentence for conspiracy in St. Louis.

Write to Missing Daddy

WHILE COAST GUARD BOATS and police joined today in a widespread search for Fred M. Giffels of West Roxbury and Albert Sarni of the North End, who vanished mysteriously after they set sail a week ago in a cabin cruiser, Giffels' two little children refused to give up hope for his return. They are Fred, Jr., 4, and Marie, 7, and are here shown writing him a note. The authorities incline to belief that Giffels and Sarni met foul play and that the boat was stolen. Ships are looking for the men.

G. O. P. BALLOTS OF WARD 1, PRECINCT 12, FOUND IN RUBBISH PILE

PACKET HELD EVERY VOTE OF PARTY

Will Have No Effect in a Strong Democratic District, Says Chairman Tague

Sixteen ballots cast by Republican voters in the primary contest of Tuesday were found in a rubbish pile in the James Otis school, Marion st., East Boston, early today. They were in the regulation sealed envelope.

The ballots were found by school janitor, Joseph Munes. He turned them over to the police of Division 7 who forwarded them to the election commissioners at City Hall.

The ballots were part of the returns from Ward 1, Precinct 12. The school is used as a voting place.

Lacking authority to open the envelope, the East Boston police assumed that it contained 50 ballots, because the system after counting is to forward marked ballots sealed in groups of that number. It happened that in Ward 1, Precinct 12, only 16 Republicans voted Tuesday.

Chairman Peter F. Tague of the election commission, who had authority to break the seal, said:

"There were only 16 marked ballots in the envelope. That section is so overwhelmingly Democratic that this number of ballots could not possibly have any material effect on the outcome. It is obvious that the ballots were accidentally mislaid. However, we are investigating to get the facts."

Here's How They'll Do 'The Hub' and Why It'll Be All the Rage

ONE OF ITS ORIGINATORS, H. A. Mosher of Toronto, with Miss Ruby O'Neill of Methuen as his partner, demonstrates the "detour" phase of the newest of new dances, "The Hub," named in honor of Boston.

ANOTHER OF THE DANCE'S ORIGINATORS, Gilbert Byron of the New England Conservatory of Music, with Miss Christine Perry of Brookline, demonstrates the "snap" phase of the new dance at the convention of dancing teachers

THE NEW DANCE IS EXPECTED to sweep this and other countries by storm. Mr. Byron and Miss Perry here show another phase. Needless to say, the costumes shown are not required in the dance, but are used so it may be better demonstrated.

HOLD UP MAYOR CASASSA AS 'CZAR'

Charge at Master's Hearing He Refused License Because He Owns Nearby Restaurant

Mayor Andrew J. Casassa was held up today as the "License Czar" of Revere at a master's hearing in the courthouse for a writ of mandamus to compel the Revere Licensing Board to grant Mme. Madalena Cavana a victualler's license in Ocean ave.

The mayor, it was alleged by Horatio Allen, counsel for Mme. Cavana, is the "fourth member of the licensing board of three, Harry Pray, Frederick Allen and Max Limoff.

Richard M. Walsh is sitting as master in the case and he was told by Mme. Cavana that after she had bought the property and had spent 25,000 in improvements, she was refused the victualler's license she expected

Attorney Allin, in outlining his case, declared to the master:

"It is the conviction and the claim of Mme. Cavana that Mayor Casassa caused her to be refused a license because he owns a place near there called the Blue Lantern."

Joseph Buono, real estate operator and a friend of Mme. Cavana, testified that he appeared before the licensing board to plead for her.

Buono pointed to Commissioner Pray and said:

"After some time that man looked at the others and then asked me: 'What can she offer?' He asked me that three times."

Under cross-examination by City Solicitor Wendell Murray, however, Buono admitted that the expression did not necessarily have reference to a gratuity.

Testimony was given by Frederick Hurley, real estate operator and concessionnaire in Revere, that he sold the property to Mme. Cavana in line with the city's policy, announced in 1929, to improve run-down places. Afterward, Mayor Casassa told Hurley, the latter testified, that Mme. Cavana would not receive a license, but the mayor would give no reason.

BREAKS DOWN AT TRIAL OF SON-IN-LAW

Harry Goodman of Lynn Is Accused of Hounding Man in Bad Check Trial

Under cross-examination in the trial of his son-in-law, Solomon Gross of Winthrop, for larceny of $100 by a bad check, Harry Goodman of City Hall ave., Lynn, collapsed in Lynn court today.

Goodman, whom Gross accused of hounding him, was assisted to a seat, and after taking restoratives, was excused for the day. Mrs. Goodman was in court, but did not testify.

Gross' appearance in court marks the third legal proceedings in which he is involved his wife, Margaret, having brought suit for divorce, and also named him in a bill in equity to recover pawned jewelry.

Jacob Stromm of Lynn testified that on April 23 Gross borrowed $100. He said he gave Gross a check for $100 and took a check for the same amount, signed by Gross, but dated ahead to May 8.

On that date witness said he put the check into the bank and it was returned marked "no funds." Then he appealed to Goodman.

Atty. Tobin asked Gross for his check-books, but the defendant said his father-in-law had broken into his desk and taken all his papers. Judge Kiley ordered him to have Goodman in court tomorrow and to find the check-books.

MASONIC RITE ENDS SESSION

The Masonic ceremonial rite, "Chain of Union," today brought to a close the 118th annual meeting of the Supreme Council, 33d Degree A. A. R., for the Northern Jurisdiction of the United States, which has been in session at the Hotel Statler since Tuesday.

Among final acts of the council was selection of the governing body made up of new active members. It includes Harry M. Cheney, deputy for New Hampshire; Frederick W. Hamilton, Massachusetts; Henry L. Ballou, Vermont; William L. Sweet, Rhode Island; Charles H. Gardenier, Connecticut; Jerome L. Cheney, New York; Frank C. Sayra, New Jersey; John S. Wallace, Pennsylvania; William H. Mask, Jr., Delaware; Frank S. Harmon, Ohio; John J. Carton, Michigan; Gaylard M. Leslie, Indiana; Sylvester C. Spring, Illinois; Andrew D. Agnew, Wisconsin.

Strange Coin Baffles All Efforts to Identify It

An unusual coin which has come into possession of Mrs. Lillian Smith of 96 New Woodcliff st., Roxbury, has baffled all her attempts to identify it, and today she appealed through the Boston Evening American for aid from coin collectors.

Although she is a collector, she has never seen one of the coins before.

It is about the size of a half-dollar, except that it is twice as thick. On one side is the hooded head of a bearded man, and around the edge are the words:

"We promise to pay the bearer one penny."

On the reverse side is a monogram that appears to be P. L. M. Co., and around the thin edge, where the milling on a half-dollar appears, are the words:

"On demand in London, Liverpool or Anglesey."

Mrs. Smith believes the coin—dated 1787—is one of several types of English "hard time tokens" issued by private concerns shortly after the Revolution.

Although she has many rare coins in her possession, including an 1811 one-cent piece, she is puzzled by her new acquisition, and she has taken it to many dealers and collectors without being able to identify it.

'THE HUB' NEW DANCE CRAZE

And now Boston has a dance named after it.

In honor of the Tercentenary celebration, a new dance to be called "The Hub" has been developed at the annual convention of the Boston dancing teachers club at the Pioneer Hotel.

Appropriately, the dance was developed by three teachers from Great Britain, Canada and Boston.

Also appropriately, the three steps are known as "Detour," "Snap" and "Check."

The originators of "The Hub," are Roger McEwan, whose home is in Scotland; H. A. Mosher of Toronto; and Gilbert Byron of the New England Conservatory of Music.

The new dance caught on at once and dancing instructors from all parts of the world, who are attending the convention, will introduce it when they return to their homes.

It is expected that within a short time couples in Great Britain, France, Germany, Canada and all over the United States will be tripping "The Hub" to the strains of jazz orchestras.

Early Shoppers Aid Buy Now Campaign of American

Straws show which way the wind blows.

That is an old saying, but a true one, and on it is based the conviction that the seed of the Boston Evening American's BUY NOW idea has been sown in fallow ground and is already bearing fruit.

Business at the retail stores of Boston is reported as having materially improved during the past week or more.

"That Do-your-Christmas-shopping-earlier idea of the American's was a happy thought," said the manager of a department store, yesterday, "and we are feeling the reaction to it in every department of our business. I know it is the response to that idea because scores of persons have mentioned it to our sales people and said that but for a desire to help those less fortunate than themselves they would not have made this or that purchase until weeks later."

The response to the American's appeal for a more general purchase of goods indicates that not only is the great rank and file of people susceptible to the logic of reason, but that it stands ready to lend a hand.

Among the other indications of which way the wind of man's humanity to man is setting are the great number of letters that are daily received subscribing to the BUY NOW plan and DO YOUR CHRISTMAS SHOPPING EARLIER idea.

A typical one comes from William McKeone, 11 Harvard ave., Dorchester, who writes:

"Just a word to boost your marvelous idea of the "Buy Now Plan." I really believe that this plan will go a long ways in relieving the unemployment situation, and help to restore prosperity once again. For it is only logical that the person who can afford to spend a few more dollars every week is aiding the unemployed.

"To meet the demands a merchant must increase the output, and in doing so he automatically helps in relieving some unemployed persons of idleness. I, for one, am heartily in favor of your plan, and wish it the best of success."

Officer Falls and 'Peeping Toms' Flee

Two young "Peeping Toms" were frightened away from the bedroom window of Mrs. Richard Cooper, 36, of 251 River st., Cambridge, last night, by Patrolman William Robertson, who, while creeping up on the pair, tumbled through an open bulkhead and rolled down the cellar stairs.

Before the officer regained his feet the "Peeping Toms" had fled.

Tipsy Driver Fined $100 at Newton

James Gilmore, 22, of River st., Watertown, was fined $100 in the Newton district court yesterday on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

50 IN JOB THAT 47 QUIT

Chelsea today made a second attempt to discover whether its unemployed males would or could do manual labor.

Yesterday's experiment when 47 men quit work on the eastern ave. water main project because it was "too strenuous" was given a second chance.

These jobs were created especially by Mayor Whalen in order to give work to the city's unemployed. Fifty men were sent to the contractor, D. F. Peace, and all were put to work with pick and shovel. All but three quit before night.

Today Mayor Whalen sent 50 more men to Peace and still had a list of 100 applicants willing to work.

Mayor Whalen expressed the belief that about half of those who abandoned their new jobs yesterday were too lazy to work and wanted relief, but not the employment that went with it. He thought the other half might be justified in their claim the work was too hard for them.

Peace denied the new men were asked to work hard.

"If I get half a day's work from them I would not complain," he said.

As yesterday, preference was given to Chelsea residents in filling the specially-created jobs.

Girl 'Hit and Run' Driver Catches Her 'Victim' in Chase

This is a new kind of hit-and-run case. The victim who was hit did the running.

On his way to school today, Lucio Mangoro, 6, of 7 Roach st., Dorchester, ran behind an automobile in Pleasant st., and into the side of another car operated by Mildred R. Hardwick of North st., Hingham.

Lucio picked himself up and ran toward home for all he was worth. Miss Hardwick looted her horn and then went after him in her car, following him all the way to his house.

There, she went right in after him, called a doctor and had bruises on his forehead and knees treated. Then she reported it to the police, telling of the chase.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

Hultman Quizzes 21 Who Would Be Police

Twenty-one candidates for 21 positions in the police department were examined today by Commissioner Hultman. They were sent to him by the civil service board on his request. Prior to seeing the commissioner they were given a talk by Supt. Crowley. Two others whom the board notified to report failed to appear.

Indigestion

Immediate Relief!

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use soda. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume of acid. The results are immediate, with no bad after-effects. Once you learn this fact, you will never deal with excess acid in the crude ways. Go learn—now—why this method is supreme.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any druggist.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

When Babies FRET

There are times when a baby is too fretful or feverish to be sung to sleep. There are some pains a mother cannot pat away. But there's no time when any baby can't have the quick comfort of Castoria! A few drops, and your little one is soon at ease—back to sleep almost before you can slip away.

Remember this harmless, pure vegetable preparation when children are ailing. Don't stop its use when Baby has been brought safely through the age of colic, diarrhea, and other infantile ills. Love good old Castoria until your children are in their teens! Whenever coated tongues tell of constipation; whenever there's any sign of sluggishness that needs no stronger medicines to relieve. Castoria is pleasant-tasting, children love to take it. Buy the genuine—with Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on wrapper.

GREAT SPORT CARNIVAL ON TODAY

By GEORGE W. GRIMM

One of the greatest sport programs in Hub history is being held today at Franklin Field as part of the 300th anniversary celebration of Boston.

Baseball, football, track, tennis, soccer, cricket, bowling on green quoits, volley ball, gymnastic demonstrations and Irish hurling and Gaelic football contests are on the menu.

George Grimm

The baseball contest, at 4 o'clock, will find the Boston Braves battling the Boston park department all-stars under the guidance of Ray Flaherty, former B. C. athlete, who is manager of the St. Marks team of the Dorchester Twilight League.

The best semi-pro teams in Boston are represented on the all-star aggregation with most of the number from the St. Marks team, winners of both halves of the Dorchester after-supper circuit race.

The Braves will bring their first string lineup to Franklin Field to meet the all-stars and a real game is expected to develop.

Conger Heads Brilliant List of Track Stars

The track meet finds events for both men and women and some of the best runners of both sexes entered.

The feature race will be the mile in which Ray Conger, national champion, will try to out-race such pikdders as Julius Gilbert of the B. A. A., Les Fiskaman, formerly of Harvard, George Kelley and Walter Bennett of the Dorchester Club, Marshall King-hury of Hartford, Conn., E. E. Gerrier of Cambridge and Alex Pfiper and M. A. Portanova of the B. A. A.

Another fine race should be seen in the three-mile run with Tom McDonough of the B. A. A., Russell Jellison of Northeastern, Julius Ober of the B. A. A., John Holmy of the B. A. A., Al Stevens and Corydon Jordan of the Dorchester Club rounding the starters.

Ellery Clark, 56-year-old pedestrian, will give Pep Clark, E. G. Wilson, Alden Burroughs and A. A. Pasquale a fight in the mile walk.

George Morin, former Holy Cross boy with the B. A. A., picked to win the 100 but Donald Feil, National Junior 220-yard hurdle champ, Warren Rowe, Hartford Yavner, J. McNeely, Tom Flood Francis Ramsbotham and Conrad Olsen will make him step.

Fleet is Favored to Win Quarter Mile

Donald Fleet should romp off with the quarter mile. Opposed to him will be Yavner, Felt, Flood, Geoffrey, Al Kobet and Ray Connolly. There are also strong contenders in the field events the furlong and the half mile.

Stars entered in the girls events are Mary Carew, Rena McDonald Laura Sullivan, Margie McGlone, Mae Magill, Margaret Tierney, Catherine Carew, Helen Keller, and Lillian Dennen.

There will be an exhibition mixed doubles tennis match between Sarah Palfrey and Malcolm Hill and Mrs. George W. Wightman and J. Brooks Fenno. Barry Wood, noted Harvard athlete, and the Boehm twins of Malden, Hilda and Helen, will also be seen on the courts.

A football exhibition will be given by the squads of Boston College high and Dorchester high, which work out daily at Franklin Field.

Berg and Glick Meet in Brooklyn Tonight

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Weather permitting, Jackie (Kid) Berg, the "perpetual motion" flyter from England, and Joe Glick of Brooklyn will meet tonight in a 10-round bout at the Queensboro Stadium. The fight was postponed from Tuesday because of rain.

BIG FOUR PASSING, ONLY BOBBY JONES HOLDS PLACE IN SUN

The great DEMPSEY passes out of the picture, SHARKEY heading the brigade of fistic headliners long led by the old Manassa Mauler. The mighty BABE RUTH, Sultan of Swat, is overshadowed by a new King of Fence Busters, the Herculean HACK WILSON, King Klouter of the Kubs. The great Tilden, long monarch of all he surveyed on the tennis courts, is dethroned by the stalwart young Californian, JOHNNY DOEG. Last of THE BIG FOUR, the incomparable BOBBY JONES, Grand Gazabo of Golf, alone shines on undimmed. After fourteen long years, fourteen years of brilliant triumphs in which his shock of hair, like the white plums of Henry of Navarre, ever was in the forefront of battle, EMPEROR JONES comes back to Merion to make another last stand next Monday. It was at Merion, that beautiful stretch of golfing greens just outside Philadelphia, that a little rosy cheeked fourteen-year-old lad fourteen years ago first emblazoned in golf's Hall of Fame the illustrious name of BOBBY JONES.

FANNING with GEORGE UNDERWOOD

"Pick Up Nothin', Mister Byers! Watch Me!"

Last of Big 4 Back to Merion After 14 Years ↕ Sharkey Snub Baseball Deal Harvard's Year

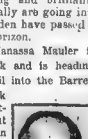
Dempsey, Ruth, Tilden, Jones—America's Big Four.

Each writ his name in imperishable letters in Sport's Hall of Fame. Each was monarch of all he surveyed in his particular sports domain. Dempsey ruled the ring roost, Ruth baseball, Tilden the tennis courts and Jones the golf links.

Dempsey, Ruth, Tilden, Jones, all names to conjure with—America's Big Four.

Three of the Big Four are fading, fading. The pictures which so long and brilliantly have illuminated the Sports Screen gradually are going into eclipse. The stars of Dempsey, Ruth and Tilden have passed their zenith and are sinking over the sport's horizon.

The old Manassa Mauler is over the peak and is heading down the trail into the Barren Lands. Hack Wilson is beating Ruth out for home run honors. Two more for Hack yesterday! Johnny Doeg has dethroned the great Tilden. Of the Big Four only Jones, Bobby Jones, the Emperor Jones, Grand Gazabo of Golf remains, unbeaten, unrivalled, unmenaced.



George Underwood.

Next Monday Bobby Jones comes back to Merion.

Back to Merion, that beautiful course of emerald green just outside of Philadelphia where 14 years go the Boy Wonder first flashed on the sports screen.

Fourteen years ago, such a long time and yet so short. It seems but yesterday—

A little rolly-polly, rosy-cheeked smiling lad, 14 years old, still in knee pants when not wearing knickers, tees off with E. M. Byers, the Pittsburgh veteran. Little Bobby smilingly offers the veteran a piece of chewing gum which Byers rather haughtily refuses.

The match goes on. Rosy-cheeked youngster and veteran reach the 14th hole on even terms. A bad slice and young Bobby's ball rests in a rotten lie in a stone ledge.

"Looks as if you would have to pick up, Mister Jones," cynically remarks Byers, accenting the "Mister" and with an inflexion and superciliousness to his voice which showed the experts the veteran was attempting to work the psychological on the youngster.

"Pick up nothin'," snorts young Bobbie. "Watch me, Mr. Byers."

The rosy-cheeked lad snatches a stout niblick from his bag and takes his stance. Bobby looks once at the distant green. Then eyes down on the ball. Swish! C-l-o-p-p! One only had to hear the sharp "C-l-o-p-p!" to know that Bobby had connected rightly. Out of the crevice and over the ledge sailed the white pellet straight to the green.

In the 14 years since then, Bobby Jones has faced many a bad lie and emerged just as gloriously. In the 14 years since that memorable day at Merion opponents have attempted to rattle Bobby Jones with the psychological and failed just as dismally as did Byers.

A Champion c: Champions is Bobby Jones—Last of the Big Four.

GALLAGHER—SHEAN

"Al Lopez, a Spaniard, and Gus Mancuso, an Italian, did the catching for Brooklyn and St. Louis yesterday. What's become of the Irish, Mister Gallagher?"

"Damfino, Mister Shean!"

Polo Grounds, New York, Sept. 18 (INS)—The rejuvenated Chicago Cubs met the Giants today determined to take the final and third game of the series.

The chances of McCarthy's aggregation recapturing the league leadership hinged on today's contest. If in that other battle over in Flatbush the Robins lose again, the Cubs will move into second place, one and one-half games behind the Cards.

Should the Robins and the Cubs win, the Bruins will still be in third place only a half game behind the two leaders, who will be virtually tied for first place.

If the Cards win and the Cubs lose, the Chicago team will be two and one-half games behind first place, with only eight games to play.

FIRST INNING

Cubs—Blair flied to Leach. English walked. Cuyler flied to Ott. Wilson walked. Critz tossed out Heathcote. NO RUNS.

Giants—Critz flied to Wilson. Leach singled to center. Lindstrom flied to Wilson. Blair tossed out Terry. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING

Cubs—Hartnett took the third strike. Jackson threw out Kelly from deep short. Bell doubled to left. Bush flied to Ott. NO RUNS.

Giants—Ott hit a home run in the upper grand stand in right. Bell threw out Hogan. Jackson walked. Roettger forced Jackson, Kelly to English, after Long George knocked down a hard drive from Roettger's bat. Blair tossed out Fitzsimmons. ONE RUN.

THIRD INNING

Cubs—Blair singled to right. English sacrificed Fitzsimmons to Critz. Fitzsimmons threw out Cuyler and Blair went to third. Jackson threw out Wilson. NO RUNS

Giants—Ott bat out a high bounder to Bush. On a hit-and-run play Hogan singled to right and Ott went to third. Jackson walked, filling the bases. Roettger hit into a double play, Bush to Hartnett to Kelly. Fitzsimmons scratched a single through Bell, Hogan and Jackson scoring. Critz hit a home run into the lower right field stands, scoring Fitzsimmons ahead of him. Leach singled to center Lindstrom flied to Heathcote. FOUR RUNS.

FOURTH INNING

Cubs—Roettger hurried in for Heathcote's low liner. Harthet singled over Jackson's head. Kelly hit a home run in the upper left field stands, scoring Hartnett ahead of him. Bell singled to right. Bush was called out on strikes. Blair flied to Leach. TWO RUNS.

Giants—Ott beat out a high bounder to Bush. On a hit-and-run play Hogan singled to right and Ott went to third. Jackson walked, filling the bases. Roettger hit into a double play, Bush to Hartnett to Kelly. Fitzsimmons scratched a single through Bell, Hogan and Jackson scoring. Critz hit a home run into the lower right field stands, scoring Fitzsimmons ahead of him. Leach singled to center Lindstrom flied to Heathcote. FOUR RUNS.

Array of Heavies Here for Garden Show Tomorrow

The array of heavyweights who will appear on the Boston Garden's card tomorrow night are in town and eager to breeze into action.

Dick Daniels, Minneapolis heavyweight, is coming in for considerable consideration. Daniels is managed by Mike Collins who formerly piloted Mike and Tom Gibbons. Dick has been under fire with most of the leading heavyweights in the Middle West and has usually come through a winner.

Daniels will have Marty Gallagher as his opponent. The latter has beaten Al Friedman, Henry Lamar and Emmet Rocco. He feels he will add Daniels to his list of victims.

Jimmy Braddock, Jersey heavyweight will have Phil Mercurio of New York as his opponent in the other 10. Braddock licked Joe Monte at Fenway Park, and lost a close decision to Babe Hunt at Braves Field.

Braddock is of the opinion he carries too many guns for Mercurio. The latter arrived in town in the company of Eddie Harvey, his manager. Eddie was associated with his brother, Charley, in the management of Tom Heeney when the Hard Rock from Down Under battled Gene Tunney.

Ug Gibson of Medford and Terry Mitchell of Somerville will mingle in the eight-round semifinal.

Tommy Rawson, Jr., will oppose Val Neadeau of New Hampshire in a six-rounder. Young Jack Dempsey and Albion Holden will mingle in another six.

Casper and Stevens in Brockton Bout

Johnny Casper of this city and Frankie Stevens of Chicago will collide in a 10-round bout at Highland Park, Brockton, tonight. Stevens recently gave Leslie Baker a hard fight at Fenway Park, while Casper has won his last three starts.

Patsy Reno of Brockton will meet Johnny Walker of East Boston in the semifinal. Newport Johnny Brown will clash with Al Rackow of Winthrop. Midget Dundee of Brockton will oppose Tuffy Simms of East Boston, while Eddie Snyder, Taunton will punch it out with Speedy Atkinson of Lowell.

Doeg Ranked No. 4 by Wallis Myers

London, Sept. 18 (INS)—The "Big Ten" of the tennis world as selected and ranked today by Wallis Myers, sports authority for the London Daily Telegraph, included the following net stars: Henry Cochet, France; William T. Tilden, United States; Jean Borotra, France; John Doeg, Frank Shields, Wilmer Allison and George Lott, all Americans; Baron De Mopurgo, Italy; H. W. Austin, England, and C. Boussus, France.

Five U. S. Stars Win in Pro Tennis Play

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 18—Three European lawn tennis stars and five Americans went into the quarter-final round of the fourth annual professional championship singles tournament here.

Karel Koeluh, the defending champion from Czecho-Slovakia; Roman Najuch of Germany, and Dan Maskell, the British titleholder, are the surviving foreigners. Vincent Richards, twice holder of the professional crown; Harry Snodgrass, Pacific Coast champion; Howard O. Kinsey of San Francisco, Paul L. Hesting of Washington, D. C., and Norval Craig, a young professional from Los Angeles, Cal., are the Americans.

Raffel, Penn End, to Be X-Rayed

Cape May, N. J., Sept. (INS)—Bill Raffel, Pennsylvania varsity left end, was to undergo an X-ray examination today to determine the extent of injuries received to his right shoulder in practice here.

Ray Barbuti Will Play Pro Football

New York, Sept. 18—Ray Barbuti Olympic 400-meter running champion and America's only winner of a flat race in the 1928 games at Amsterdam, is reported to have signed to play professional football with the Long Island Bulldogs.

Fittons Open Sunday With Union Eleven

The Fitton A. C. football team of East Boston will line up against the strong Union A. A. of Norwell at 2.30 Sunday afternoon at Fort Banks, Winthrop. Practically a new Fitton team will take the field this season. The veterans of last year returning are Rose, Hafferty, ends; Irwin, center; Giaquitto, guard. The backfield veterans are Kennedy of Boston College, "Rusty" Yarnell, Vermont, and Jim Fay, N. Y. U.

$117,500 Purse in Agua Caliente Race

Agua Caliente, Mexico, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Agua Caliente Jockey Club today announced the Agua Caliente Handicap to be run March 22 will pay $117,500 in guaranteed money, making it the world's richest race. The gross value of the race to the four first horses may run as high as $140,000.

The biggest money to date was the Belmont Futurity at the Metropolitan course, which paid $111,600 to the first four horses.

Brown Drill Called Off Because of Heat

Providence, Sept. 18—The Brown football squad had but one session. Coach McLaughry calling off the afternoon drill because of the heat.

In the morning the entire squad was given an extended grass drill and three teams spent a long time on signals.

Wildcat Gridmen Given Stiff Drill

Durham, N. H., Sept. 18—Football practice at the University of New Hampshire was handicapped by a broiling sun but Coach Cowell sent his charges through a stiff drill in both the morning and afternoon sessions.

The heavy two-day sessions will be continued to the last of the week and will wind up with a heavy scrimmage on Saturday in which the entire squad will participate

Averill Hits Four Homers in 2 Games

Cleveland, Sept. 18 (US)—Earl Averill hit four homers in two games, for the Indians, but all they could get was an even break with the Senators. The Indians easily won the first game, 13 to 7 Averill poling three of his homers. They took the lead in the first inning of the second game, Averill slamming his fourth homer of the day, but a five-run rally by the Senators beat them out.

Bus Talbot Injured in First Harvard Scrimmage

WILL BE OUT TWO WEEKS OR MORE

Old Man Injury, one of Arnold Horween's greatest enemies in the moulding of a successful Harvard football team this season, put in an appearance as the Crimson cohorts went through a two-hour scrimmage at the Cambridge camping grounds today.

Bus Talbot, guard on Horween's "A" team, was the initial casualty of the Crimson campaign. Bus received a painful knee injury that is expected to keep him on the sidelines for at least two weeks and possibly rut his hopes for a brilliant season o nhis gridiron.

Talbot was given the O. O. by Dr. T. K. Richards, famed physician of the Harvard squad, who feared that the big guard might have torn cartileges in his knee.

But, after the examination, Dr. Richards had good news for Horween informing the Crimson mentor that Talbot may be ready for the opener with Vermont on October 4.

Talbot, a Hingham lad, was playing defensive tackle in the scrimmage and went to bring down Devens, who was racing through his side of the line with the ball tucked under his arm.

In some way or another Devens kicked Talbot on the knee and laid him out. He was aided to the locker rooms where Dr. Richards looked him over.

Loss of Talbot Will Be Hard Blow for Crimson

If Bus is out for any length of time it might seriously hamper Horween's hopes. For Talbot is a bruising guard and the Crimson line needs all the strength it can muster for the coming season. The forward wall has many gaps in it due to graduation.

Harvard's squad was pretty well worn out after the first scrimmage of the year. Coach Arnie gave them plenty to do in the two-hours that he had them skirmishing and the boys will using liniment for the next few days.

The Crimson squad looked very good to the coaching staff during the miniature battle and should be in fine form for the season's opener if they continue the work.

Postal Vets to Play 1930 Nine Sunday

Thousands of postal employes, as well as many retired government men, are expected to flock to the new Fenway Playground next Sunday to witness the first P. O. Old Timers, game

The contest will be played between the 1930 Boston P. O nine and the veteran postal stars.

Jim Scully, who started twenty years ago, will start the game for the veterans. After the initial inning, he will be relieved by Cadigan, the former Somerville Legion star, followed by Hosey Brown, the old Colonial Leaguer and Stoneham pitcher, and then Joe Ryan, former Boston Braves and Georgetown twirler. Ginger McHugh, former Newton star and Bill Housapple will take care of the catching.

Six Regulars Among 41 Who Report for Tufts Eleven

A squad of 41 candidates reported to Lewis F. Manly, head football coach at Tufts for the initial practice session.

Among those reporting were six members of last season's regular team, and another regular, Earl Littleton, giant tackle, is expected to report before the end of the week.

Aided by "Bike" Rachdorf, last year's captain, who will coach the line, Chet Delano, coach of the freshman squad, and Robinson Abbott, junior varsity coach, Manly put the Jumbos through their paces in two brief sessions.

Coach Manly intends to follow th Sampson system of letting the players play themselves into condition. The morning session was marked by several games of tag football, forwards and other light work.

In the afternoon, Coach Manly took the players into the clubhouse to give the usual blackboard talk, outlining the fundamental plays that the Jumbos would use.

Forward passing and kicking for the backs and ends and charging for the line ended the session. Ingalls, star passer on last year's outfit; Clayman of last year's freshman team, and Haber, left-handed tosser, looked well throwing to the ends, Arlanson and Godfrey.

"Pete" Minasian, junior varsity guard; Mann, freshman and last year; Peck, junior varsity tackle, and White and Clark, backs, will be unable to play because of scholastic difficulties.

Veteran Pro Grid Star to Have "Day"

On Sunday November 23rd at Braves Field, at the game between Pere Marquette and the Fittons, Billy O'Leary, veteran Pere gridman, will be honored by members of the Knights of Columbus and local fans.

CARNERA K. O.'S GROSS IN 4TH

Chicago, Sept. 18 (US)—Primo Carnera, giant Italian, took four rounds to knock out Jack Gross, the Philadelphia Hebrew heavyweight, at the Chicago Stadium

It was Carnera's farewell appearance in this country on his barnstorming tour.

The Italian won the first round easily and had Gross wobbly at the end of the second round.

In the third, however, Gross surprised the crowd by staging a rally and getting the round by a shade. In this round, also, Carnera won the displeasure of the spectators by fouling Gross, once with a backhand punch and again with the heel of his glove.

In the fourth, after a brief exchange, the Italian stepped in and dropped Gross with two rights on the jaw and the Hebrew was counted out.

A NEW VOLUME OF VALUE FOR FALL

High Priced Hand Made Models Reproduced by Regal for $6.60

ALLEN & BRIDGE LONDON | BARTLEY & SONS LONDON | N. GRECO PARIS | JAMES ALLAN EDINBURGH | G. W. BUNTING, LTD. LONDON | ANTON NIHLEEN NEW YORK

THE Master Bootmakers of the World actually made by hand these six Original Models for the most prominent and best dressed men in London, Paris and New York.

We had access to their Customer's Book where everybody who purchased a pair of shoes wrote his name and address and the Bootmaker filled in a detailed description of Last, Leather, Pattern, Height of Heel, Weight of Sole—even the design on the Tip or Toe Cap.

This information was invaluable. We could not issue a summons and have this Titled List appear before us and cross-question them on Shoe Styles, but an analysis of the Customer's Book of these Famous Bootmakers, supplied us with all the information we wanted.

They gave us this inside information because we have been very good customers for several years. When we select a Shoe, we buy 42 pairs of each Style, so that we can show you the Original hand-made model and the $6.60 Regal Reproduction side by side, in every Regal Store.

Now don't forget, these Master Bootmaker's hand-sewed models were made of the finest Leathers, regardless of cost, and the Price was an incidental item to their customers.

But this year PRICE is a very important factor to our Customers. And we consider it an achievement in American Shoe Manufacture, to reproduce these expensive hand made models in our factory for $6.60.

When a shoe is made of Martin's of Glasgow Scotch Grain, there is no way to reproduce it except to use the identical Leather. So we sent our Representative to Scotland, to see Mr. Martin personally, and placed the largest order for this expensive leather that he had ever received.

As a matter of fact, with one exception, we used the same identical tannage in the Upper Leather in every Regal Reproduction, that the Custom Bootmaker used in the Original Model. In this one exception, our Leather Buyer advised us that the American Tannage was better than the Imported Leather, and strange as it may seem, it cost us more.

But there isn't any secret about it. I think it is safe to say we sew 1,000 pairs in our factory by machine to every one pair these Custom Bootmakers sew by hand. We have 84 stores located in all the principal cities of the United States and they have one shop in London, Paris or New York. It's the purchasing power of a National Institution. It's the Volume that makes this Value possible.

Hundreds Enter American Miniature Golf Tourney

NEW COURSES ARE ADDED TO LIST

It was a record night on the 13 courses now taking part in the Boston Evening American Miniature Golf Championship tournament.

Thousands of people swarmed the links after the big parade.

Hundreds of people from outside of Boston played their first game of miniature golf and registered in the big tournament. All eyes are now focused on the 18 official courses of the Boston Evening American Miniature Golf tournament

Keen contests are developing for the low scores up to 10 o'clock Saturday night for which awards will be made. There will be separate prizes for women and men.

"Bonnie Wee" indoor miniature golf course, 974 Main st., Malden, joined the Boston Evening American tournament today. This course is one of the prettiest in New England.

It is located in a new building of the garage type and an ideal street floor location. The courses are attractively, and the proprietors, Samuel S. Conary and Samuel R. Smith, have developed some new ideas for miniature courses

Special Events Planned at Lowell Course

Another popular course to join the tournament is Pete's Miniature Golf Course, Inc., Pawtucket boulevard at Lowell. The owners, Peter Georges and Peter Malliaros, are planning some special events in connection with the tournament.

Ed Brandt, star pitcher of the Boston Braves, is a daily player at the Kenmore Da Nite course, and is one of the best players using the course. As a result, the other members of the Braves are going strong for miniature golf

'PURES' WORK OUT AT MERION

Philadelphia, Sept. 18 (INS)—A score or more of nationally known entrants in the U. S. Amateur Golf Championship, to be played over the picturesque Merion links here next week, started practice on the course today.

Bobby Jones, Atlanta monarch, and a few of the early arrivals played a round yesterday with Jones getting 73, three strokes over par. Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, and George Voight had the best rounds of the afternoon, each getting 72s

Rexford Picked as Jones' Caddy

(AP)—The competition among the 350 caddies at the Merion Cricket Club for the honor of carrying the war clubs of Bobby Jones a next week's national amateur tournament has been won by Howard Rexford of Ardmore, near the course

"Take that bag, you're going out with Mr. Jones," was the way the caddy master announced to "Rex" that he had won the honor.

The committee in charge of caddies has been looking them over for some time and scanning their records. "Rex" said he received the thrill of his life when he was picked.

"Rex" was on trial yesterday when Bobby made his first practice round of the course. The champion informed the committee "Rex" suited him admirably.

"Rex," who is 19 years old and a former high school student, has had 13 years' experience as a caddy and plays a good game of golf himself.

"When Mr. Jones started out," said "Rex," "he asked me my name and called me 'Howard' throughout the round. He doesn't want you to hand him a club except his putter—he makes his own selection for each shot. He wants you to be perfectly quiet and to stand off to the right out of his line of vision while he's playing.

HIGH-EST CARD IN DECK

IF THE CARDINALS COP the National League gonfalon they can award some sort of a medal or placque to Andy High, utility infielder, whose pinch-hitting in the series with Brooklyn brought St. Louis from one game behind to one game ahead. He scored the only run of the first game after doubling, and his two-bagger in a pinch won the second. Andy used to be with the Braves. How those boys hit 'em when they leave the Hub.

FANNING WITH UNDERWOOD

rosters I find the other catchers are DeBerry, Gooch, Bool, Spohrer, Gonzales, Desautels, Jorgens and Picinich. Shades of Marty Bergen, Roger Bresnahan, Jimmy Archer and Connie Mack, what's become of the Irish, Mister Gallagher?"

"We still have Shanty Hogan and Mickey Cochrane, Mister Shean."

"Here's to Cochrane, Mister Gallagher."

HEH! HEH! HA! HA! HA!

Boston fans view the recent faux pas of the National Boxing Association—the picayune organization with the big name—in failing to name Jack Sharkey among the first three heavyweights with conflicting emotions, as they say in our best sellers. Just when Bostonians were swelling up with righteous indignation over the Sharkey snub the joke of it hit 'em and they exploded in a guffaw so loud it rattled the windows in Back Bay and caused the Bunker Hill Monument to topple on its foundations.

We could stand for the N. B. A. placing Herr Schmeling, the world's champion, first, even though our Sharkey man, up to the time the Teuton Schlager leaped into that low left, was leading by the proverbial 40 miles from here to Worcester. But putting Stribling, whom Sharkey whipped, and Carnera, who in turn was chastised by the man from Macon, Gawgia, Suh, ahead of the Squire of Chestnut Hills—why, that is the prize laugh of the sporting season!

If the N. B. A. doesn't watch out they will laugh themselves right out of existence. Take that slap on the wrist, you naughty boxing solons!

Our thinking cap mustn't be in working order. Anyway we can't quite understand Boston's $60,000 purchase of the two 24-year-old Rochester rookies, Outfielder Robert "Red" Worthington and Shortstop Charlie Wilson. It is seeing the deal from the St. Louis viewpoint which has been walking around in circles emitting distressed and agonized peep-peeps.

Rochester is the St. Louis farm. If Bob and Charlie are worth 60,000 simeoleons how, in hek, did Sam Breadon let 'em get away from the Cardinals? Gabby Street only has one shortstop, Charlie Gelbert. About the only thing Gabby could do if anything should happen to Gelbert would be to move "Sparkie" Adams over from third and take the veteran Andy High off the bench and plant him at the difficult corner. That is why we cannot understand how Breadon let Wilson go to the Braves.

Perhaps Sam is taking this way to repay Judge Fuchs for letting Burleigh Grimes go to St. Louis just when the Cardinals sadly were in need of the great spitballer.

Judge Fuchs, by the way, still denies that Bottomley is coming to the Braves next year to guard the getaway sack in place of the crippled Sisler and Johnny Neun, who so far has shown nothing above the ordinary. Breadon called in Collins from the Rochester farm. That certainly looks as if Bottomley might be seeking pastures new next season.

CRYIN' OUT LOUD!

For crying out loud Arnold Horween is giving a mighty good imitation of Mournful Gil Dobie, the Sobbing Coach of Lake Cayuga. Arnie wants to watch out or the boys will be referring to him as the "Niobe of Cambridge" or the "Weeping Willow of the Charles." What an attack of the blues Horween is seized with every time he orates on dear old Haw-haw-haw-vard's football prospects!

"No line, no backfield, no ends," Arnold weeps. "What on earth am I goin' to do?"

The tendency of the local scribes, even our own Bill Grimes, who knows football from A to Izzard and who seldom goes wrong, is to echo Horween's mournful sentiments.

We never was much of an echoer. If we attempted to join in singing the "Harvard Blues" we would get a frog in our throat. We believe Harvard has a whole flock of star candidates which will be whipped into a wonderful team by the astute Horween, and that—THIS IS HARVARD'S YEAR!

FEAR MISSING JOCKEYS WERE KIDNAPED

Chicago, Sept. 18 (AP)—All the jockeys riding at Lincoln Fields were due to report to club officials this morning for questioning, in an effort to learn the cause of the disappearance of Jimmy Marcum and Paul Neal yesterday.

Marcum had four mounts for yesterday and Neal had been engaged to ride in three races. When they failed to check in at 1 p. m., a search was started. No trace, other than that a highway patrolman had seen them in Neal's automobile about noon near the track, had been found today.

Fear that the riders might have been kidnaped was expressed by John B. Partridge, trainer for the Valley Lake stable, which holds Marcum's contract and with whom Marcum lived. He said they realized failure to report would mean not less than a 30-day suspension, and possibly suspension for the remainder of the year.

Marcum has been one of the leading riders of the Chicago racing season, and was at the top of the Lincoln Fields victory column. Neal's contract is held by John Marsch, wealthy Chicago contractor

Attempt Made to Enter Stable of Race Star

New York, Sept. 18 (INS)—Two men attempted to get into the barn at Belmont Park race track at dawn today, where Balko, five-year-old sprinter from the Sagamore stable, was kept. Balko is to start today in the Bay Shore Handicap at Aqueduct and is a 1 to 2 favorite to win.

Duke Montour, watchman for the stable, fought off the men when they attempted to enter. He charged. Montour's shouts brought J. H. Stotler, Sagamore trainer, who fired three shots after the men as they fled.

A man giving his name as Joseph Hefmer and identified as a former minor racing official, was arraigned in Lynnbrook police court and was fined $10 for disorderly conduct.

Then Stotler was arrested on a charge of violating the Sullivan law which prohibits the possession of a revolver without a permit.

B. U. LINE SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Boston University's line, which appeared weak in the early practice sessions is starting to show promise.

Although there will only be two regulars from last year's club in the line against West Point, the positions will be filled by capable players.

For ends, Coach Mahaney has Jack McCarthy, Herb Semino, Sam Goldman and Jack MacCullough. Each, with the exception of Semino, won his letter last year. MacCullough has been a varsity man for three years.

With these four boys available, Boston University will be well taken care of at the extremities of the line.

At the tackles, the Terriers will have Harris and Stone. Harris is the former Holy Cross star and will easily be the outstanding lineman on the team.

Lee Stone, who is the strongest man on the squad, will take care of the other side of the line. He was a regular last year.

The guard positions are the only real problem. Both jobs will be taken care of by newcomers. At present, Danny Harrington and Al Fox, two sophomores, seem to have the call for the position.

Wesleyan Star Out

Middletown, Ct., Sept. 18—The first loss to the Wesleyan football squad occurred when failure to attain scholarship requirements forced Tal Blakeselle, backfield star, from the gridiron.

YALE MEN WILL BE PROUD OF ELEVEN

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 18 (INS)—Hartford today had a line on the Yale football team of 1930. The information came at first-hand from the whole Yale coaching staff which was transferred here temporarily to address the annual father-and-son meeting of Hartford Yale alumni.

"We're good prospects for a fair team," Dr. Marvin A. Stevens, head coach, declared, "and unless there are some serious accidents, we can show you a team of which you can justly be proud."

His aides backed up Dr. Stevens. They were Adam Walsh, Century Milstead, R. L. Pond and Charles Comerford. C. S. Osborn, freshman head coach, also spoke, as did W. W. Greene, last year's captain, and F. T. Vincent, who is training the team this year.

Freidman to Help at Yale

New Haven, Ct., Sept. 18—Benny Friedman, former all-American Michigan quarterback, will join Maj Stevens' coaching staff as guest coach to aid in developing the Blue attack in the overhead game.

Coach Stevens said Friedman would drill the squad in passing today, tomorrow and Saturday and would return from time to time during the season.

Walker Matched With Loughran

Philadelphia, Sept. 18 (INS)—World Series fans attending the championship games in Philadelphia will be treated to a bout between Tommy Loughran, undefeated retired light-heavyweight champion of the world, and Mickey Walker, the world's middleweight champion, it was announced here today by Promoters Taylor and Gumbs.

The bout has been signed for October 1 the night preceding the first game of the series at the Phillies ball park. It will be over the 10-round distance and will mark the second meeting between the two Irishmen.

Loughran won their previous melee which took place in Chicago March 25 of last year.

MR. BOSTON
By JACK CONWAY

Mr. Boston says the National Boxing Association placed itself in a ridiculous position when it passed a resolution calling for the suspension of all boxers who engage in bouts in states which are not affiliated with the National Boxing Association.

"New York and Massachusetts," said Mr. Boston, "are not members of any boxing association.

From now on every boxer who sets foot in a Massachusetts or New York ring will be suspended by the National Boxing Association.

"Jimmy Braddock and Phil Mercurio, who collide at the Boston Garden tomorrow night, will be banned in all states that come under the jurisdiction of the National Boxing Association. So will Dick Daniels and Marty Gallagher who meet in another ten-round mill on the Garden card.

"The same holds true for the boys who show at the small clubs throughout Massachusetts and New York.

"The obvious reason for this stand on the part of the National Boxing Association is to drive New York and Massachusetts into line.

"New York, like Massachusetts, has refused to get mixed up in the petty politics of the National Boxing Association. State commissioners created by legislative act have not the right to take orders from outside associations.

"I also do not believe any State commission has a right to have a working agreement with another State.

"The laws creating boxing commissions are fairly clear. No legislature intended to allow a commission to go beyond the statute law. It did not give the right to a commission to enter into outside agreements with other State commissions or with any so-called National Boxing Association.

Jack Conway

Resents N. Y.'s Control of Boxing Situation

"The National Boxing Association resents the control New York has over the boxing game. Most of the big matches are held in New York, while the rulings of the New York commission carry great weight all over the world.

"When the New York commission recognizes a champion, the public accepts its decision. More important to the champion, his title becomes profitable.

"The New York commission has, of course, made some mistakes, but on the whole its rulings have been fair. Messrs Farley, Muldoon and Phelan have tried to do what they considered was for the best interests of the boxing game. They have not permitted petty politics to sway them in their findings.

"The Massachusetts commission has also functioned without any political halter around its neck. It has not swapped votes with any other commission to further any selfish interest of its own.

"The National Boxing Association, on the other hand, is a purely political organization. Votes are traded in smoke-filled rooms in the small hours of the morning.

"Boxers who have refused to take orders from some of the petty politicians who are members of the National Boxing Association have been condemned.

Must Change Policy to Be of Real Value

"The National Boxing Association must adopt a different policy if it is to make real progress. It must realize that might alone does not make for right.

"Meanwhile boxing will continue as usual in New York and Massachusetts. These states are two of the best boxing spots in the world. First class ring men will receive plenty of opportunities to display their ability without entering the territory controled by the National Boxing Association.

FAVORITES ADVANCE IN TITLE GOLF

Miss Virginia Hodder and her brother, Clark, former Harvard star, defeated Miss Mary Kingsley and Jack Sullivan of Commonwealth in the first round matches for the mixed foursome title at the Charles River Country Club.

The Framingham pair had a card of 79, the best golf of the tournament so far and won by a 2 and 1 score.

All the favorites, including the defending title holders, Mrs. E. H. Baker and Raynor Gardiner of Kittansett, who eliminated Miss Rena Henderson and Gerald Henderson of Weston 2 and 1, came through the first round.

Miss Marie Bourneuf and Norman Dupee of Charles River defeated Mrs. George L. Wrenn 2nd and Philip Wrenn of Dedham in the only extra hole match of the championship flight at the 20th hole.

Mrs. E. C. Stone and W. P. Arnold, Jr., Harvard's star golfer, representing Oyster Harbor, won over Miss Ruth Rich and Chester Rich by the biggest margin of the day, 6 and 4.

Peres Will Open Season on Sunday

The Pere Marquette football team will open its 1930 season on Sunday afternoon at the C. J. Lee Playgrounds, with the Brockton Professionals, formerly the Brockton Okos.

Bill Cronin, former Boston College fullback, who was with Pere Marquette three years ago and who for the past two years played a regular position with the Providence Steam Rollers, is again with the South Boston Caseys. Paten and Ohrenberger, former Boston College stars will play in the line.

SOMERVILLE, NASHUA TILT SATURDAY

By BILL CONNELL

Charley Dickerman is building a new grid team at Somerville high his year. The eleven will get a first real trial under fire on Saturday when it goes to Nashua, N. H., to battle that school team on Saturday

Somerville was not strong last year because of a lack of experienced and heavy line material. The backs were fair but were given little help by their mates, though by the end of the season the team had improved a lot and played smart football. Nick Vitelle, stocky quarterback, captains Somerville

Bill Connell

Dan Lynch husky pitcher of the baseball team, is in the backfield. He works hard and can fling passes with all the accuracy he displayed last spring when on the mound

Jerry Jeremiah and Manning probably will hold the remaining halfback posts. Those four last named have been coming along fast and should make a strong backfield.

Regan, Tranielio, Panza, Dontan, Stevenson and Wynn have their chances to hold regular jobs in the line From these boys and the others scrapping for the places on the eleven, Coach Dickerman ought to mould a good team

Arlington, Waltham and Medford follow Nashua on the Somerville schedule and then the Suburban League games will keep the team busy.

With the four hard games listed for the first of the season, Somerville will have a chance to develop a strong attack and go after another suburban league championship when the circuit clashes come along

Horton Smith's Golf Lessons

Famous Young Missouri Professional Illustrates and Describes the Mechanics and Technique of Play

MASTER "THE FUNDAMENTAL SHOT" FIRST

"Lay the Driver Aside Until You Learn to Make a Long or Short Pitch."

Examine Picture 1 above, the address for golf's so-called "fundamental shot"—the pitch. And consider carefully what A. C. M. Crowne emphasizes in his New Book of Golf:

"Professional coaches have to contend with the fact that the embryonic golfer (dub, to you) wants to run before he can walk; and many of them encourage him in his error by letting him begin straight off with a wooden club. It would be much better for the pupil if he would refuse to gratify his almost irresistible desire to drive balls as far as possible until he has to some extent mastered the 'fundamental shot' of golf."

That is the pitch played as stiffly as is compatible with some freedom of hitting.

Picture 2 shows John Duncan Dunn, New York specialist on this "fundamental shot," illustrating just about how far back the club should be taken. Note, above all, that there is no break in the left wrist. Remember always, breaking the left wrist does much to spoil approach play. This short shot is much easier to learn than the drive and it will help prevent your ever having an inferiority complex in making approaches—a weakness, conscious or subconscious, of many golfers. Incidentally, that is the sh t the champions practice m st. The distance the ball goes will vary according to the club used, because the latter determines the length of the swing. For example, if you desire a pitch-and-run, use a No. 3 iron; if you want a pitch only, employ the No. 17 (mashie-niblick), etc. etc.

Picture 3 shows the most important detail in "The Fundamental Shot"—its finish. You can't practice that too much. After the ball is on its way HOLD THAT FINISH RENT until the ball stops. In that way you will acquire the vital, perfect follow-through. Practicing that shot will help your drive because its follow-through is exactly in the same groove. Observe carefully that the right forearm has not turned over. Consider what Bobby Jones notes in Down the Fairway:

"I rarely knock the ball down with an iron or play what used to be called the push shot, very popular with many fine players formerly. I employ no particular club for the chip, but try to play the same kind of shot with several clubs, ranging from the mashie-iron straight down to, and including, the niblick."

Be sure and learn this fundamental shot thoroughly before trying to become a really good driver.

HUPMOBILE CO. NEW BUILDING NOW OPEN

With everything spic and span and all departments in smooth running order the Boston Hupmobile Company is receiving visitors in its new building on Commonwealth ave, at Alcorn st.

The entire building is open both day and evening, and President J H. Johnson Vice-president E. H Kidder and Treasurer and General Manager Eric Courtney have issued a general invitation to the public to inspect this latest addition to the notable motor vehicle sales buildings in Boston. Among the special guests of the company are Du Bois Young president, and Rufus S. Cole, vice-president in charge of sales, of the Hupp Motor Car Corp of Detroit. Hupmobile dealers in the territory of the Boston company have also been especially invited

For the occasion, a notable display of Hupmobile models has been arranged in the huge showroom on the ground floor of the Commonwealth ave. front of the building This showroom, admittedly one of the most tastefully arranged, lighted and decorated apartments of its kind in the country will contain examples of three different eight-cylinder models of the Hupmobile Six. There will be shown the big 133-horsepower eight with both standard and custom bodies and in special color combinations the 106-horsepower eight in a variety of types, the 90-horsepower eight and the 70-horsepower six. Sport type bodies are to be featured also roadsters, limousines and broughams for winter driving.

On the same floor at the rear is the wholesale showroom, where an assortment of models will be arranged particularly for dealer inspection.

OUTPUT DROP FAVORABLE

The slump of business in the past three months is viewed by The Brookmire Economic Service, Inc., as a distinctly favorable factor, because it forced speculation in some lines, including automobiles and tires, to run behind consumption requirements. The latest Brookmire Analyst says:

"This is exactly what is needed, throughout almost the entire field of industry, to bring a quick end to the business decline and lay the basis for resumption in activity. We estimate that sales of automobiles up to September 1 exceeded production by about 15,000 cars, whereas in the corresponding period of 1929, production exceeded sales by 266,000 cars.

Stocks of automobiles are still burdensome, but there are definite indications that manufacturers started a rigid policy of curtailment in July which will be continued throughout the last half of 1930 Stocks should then be sufficiently reduced to permit gradual improvement in operating schedules and consequent widening of profit margins."

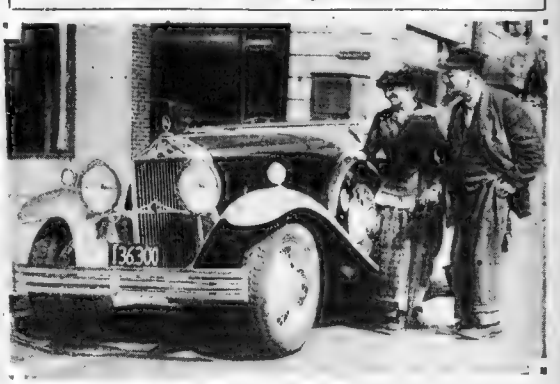
CHRYSLER HAD GOOD MONTH

Shipments of Chrysler-built passenger cars, trucks, buses in chassis and taxi cabs totaled 18,184 during the month of August.

Retail sales of Chrysler products are continuing to maintain a very satisfactory level. It is estimated that in August deliveries to the public of the low-priced Plymouth cars equaled 94 per cent of last year's record and were more than 6 per cent greater than 1928 sales during the corresponding period.

Orders for the recently introduced Dodge truck are coming in at a very satisfactory rate and indicate that a good volume of business in the corporation's commercial car field is in prospect

Hit Hub on Honeymoon Tour



CY AND MARY STEBBINS, old time circus clowns, shown after they parked their new Willys Knight roadster in the Hub, where they are visiting on their "delayed" honeymoon.

CY AND MARY IN TOWN WITH A WILLYS

Cy and Mary Stebbins, old time Barnum & Bailey Rube clowns, are in town for several days. The occasion is a delayed honeymoon, Mary's first, 'but an old story to Cy, who's been married three times. Mary admitted that "boys" were pretty scarce back home in Punkin Center, N. H, and Cy was about the best she could get. She wouldn't marry him however, until he had promised to get her one of them new-fangled auto mobi

Well, Cy's boy, Hi, has been a workin' for Mr. Willys-Overland a makin' ottymobiles ever since the old brindle cow kicked him into something less strenuous than farm life. So they made Toledo the first stop on the honeymoon trip Course the boy recommended a sweet Willys-Knight roadster, the very one shown in the picher Hi was pretty well up in the company and he knowed Mr. Clark of The Boston Whippet Knight Corporation, the Boston Distributors, an' he ast the old man to stop off an' see Mr Clark So they done it an' Mr Clark was swell to 'em couldn't do enough for 'em, seamed like

That's the story, this whimsical couple, which in the opinion of many, has no peer in present day "Rube" acts, stopped traffic everywhere they went.

Mary's endeavors to aid Cy in parking the car and her eccentrically funny attempts to get into the "jumble seat" were slapstick of the highest order

The team has been playing steadily during the past four years for the Willys-Overland Co., during which time they have covered every important city.

Air for Auto Purer Than That Which Is Breathed

Dashing over a gravel or dusty road with the wind raising sacks of dust to cloud the pathway of the car, the motorist often wonders what effect this dust has upon the engine of his automobile, and if it finds its way into the vital working parts thus causing a grinding wear

The reassuring answer to this question is supplied by R. J. Walsh, Boston zone manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, who explains interestingly how the air cleaner removes the dust from the intake air, making it purer than that which you yourself breathe

"If it were not for the air cleaner, dust and sand would enter the carburetor—even in city driving—causing wear on cylinders, rings and pistons," Walsh says.

NEW PACKARDS MAKE HIT

Reports from 32 dealer points in the eastern territory show an enthusiastic reception for new Packard models, according to W. P. Naylor, vice-president of the Packard Motor Car Co. of Boston.

Among the features of the new line attracting attention, said Mr Naylor, is the piston lubricator valve He declared:

"The piston lubricator valve, used exclusively on Packard cars, is a mechanical device for supplying adequate oil to the pistons while the choke is pulled out. Without this device, excessive cylinder wear and piston scuffing is brought about by the entrance of raw gasoline into the cylinders when starting the car.

"This raw gasoline tends to wash off any oil that may be remaining on the cylinder walls. This is especially true on exceptionally cold days when the choke has to be used more than normally to start the car.

"It is located at the right rear end of the motor base. The oil is forced from the rear camshaft bearing up through oil passages drilled in the base of the lubricator valve. When closed, the oil by-passes around the ball and flows only to two points, the oil filler tank on the left side of the motor and the oil pressure gauge on the instrument board."

DROP RECEIVER ACTION AGAINST TIRE FIRM

New York, Sept 18 -Charges of a plot to manipulate Kelly Springfield stock resulted in the dismissal by Vice-Chancellor John J. Fallon of an action brought in Jersey City to have Kelley Springfield Tire Company of Springfield, Mass., placed in the hands of a receiver.

The action was brought September 15 by James A. Kelly of Jersey City, owner of 100 shares of Kelly Springfield stock on September 8. Hearing on the case was to have been held yesterday by County Judge Charles M Egan in special master on the law office on Exchange pl Jersey City

ASK DISMISSAL

While John Milton, counsel for a group of stockholders opposing the action, was waiting there he was called to the offices of Gross & Gross. He was told that Gross & Gross desired to discontinue the case. This Milton refused to consent to Meanwhile other counsel for Kelly had applied to Vice-Chancellor Fallon to have the hearing before the special master postponed.

Apprised of this when he returned to Judge Egnan's office, Milton hurried to the chancery court, where William George and Herbert Hannech of counsel for Kelly and Thomas S. Haight, special counsel for the company, assembled before Vice-Chancellor Fallon. In opposing the adjournment of the hearing, Mr Milton said he hoped to prove that certain persons had entered into a conspiracy to depress Kelly Springfield stock by applying for the receivership. He said he intended, as the case progressed, to present evidence to show soon after the application was made stock of the company was sold short

DECLARE CHARGES TRUE

Mr George, counsel for Kelly, stated there that Mr. Milton and Mr. Haight had assured him that the former's charges were true and could be substantiated. He said that this was the first case of its kind he had "ever been mixed up in" and that he had been retained Sept 4 Mr George said he retained Mr Hannech because of the latter's experience in such cases. He then stated that he wished to withdraw from the case in view of Mr. Milton's statements

Mr. George and Mr Hannech both consented to a discontinuance, but Mr. Milton and counsel for the company demanded a dismissal.

An order to that effect was presented by Mr. Haight and was signed by Vice-Chancellor Fallon.

SALES SHOWING BIG INCREASE

Pontiac, Mich., Sept. 17—Further evidence of definite improvement in business is offered by W. A Bleys, vice-president in charge of sales for the Oakland Motor Car Co., who announced today a progressive increase in both new and used car sales during the three 10-day sales periods of August.

"Oakland-Pontiac dealers sold 7418 cars at retail during August," said Mr. Bleys, "an increase of 11 per cent over July. The second 10-day period of August developed a sharp increase of 70 per cent over the first, while the third period jumped 23.7 per cent over the second or 111 per cent over the first period. Part of this marked improvement must be credited to the greater values resulting from the Oakland-Pontiac price reduction announced to the public on August 12th.

"But no such incentive impelled the public to purchase 15,184 used cars from Oakland Pontiac dealers during August. The 10-day used car August sales periods reveal progressive increases which parallel the mounting new car deliveries."

Lonesome Girl Strives to Keep Her Sweetheart

Better Let Him Go Until He Is on His Feet Once More, Says Beatrice Fairfax

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

BEATRICE FAIRFAX will discuss a problem of heart and home at 6:35 p. m., over station WLEX.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have been going with a fellow for six months. He has been coming to the house about twice a week. He has been out of work part of the summer. As you know, a good job is hard to find now-a-days. Last evening he told me he would have to break up because he is not working, and he hates to go with a girl when broke. I'm no gold digger. Ever since we have been going around together we haven't been anywhere where money was to be spent. I know his condition. He said, I could find someone better than him. But, I love him. What can I do to pursuade him to stick by me?

LONESOME LOUISE.

Miss Fairfax

Dear Lonesome Louise: You must respect the young man's wishes in this matter. Doubtless the fact that you do love him so much at a time when he is dependent over not having work only makes him feel more unworthy and depressed, and perhaps you'd better let him go his own way until he feels strong and on his feet again. I know it's hard, but there are many things in life we seem unable to do a thing about, and unemployment at a time like this is just "one of those things." Try and understand his feelings, and I'm sure he'll come back to you after things are better.

Get Your Own Friend

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My girl chum's boy friend has a roadster and as he lives near her, he sees us when we go out walking, and he most always asks us to go riding and incidentally, they get another boy for me. She always wants me to go along with her, even if no other boy goes with me, and I always have a good time, but I feel in a funny position. Should I continue to go riding with them when they ask me? Shouldn't I refuse to go once in a while?

SALLY.

Dear Sally: You should not accept all the riding invitations they give you. It is very nice and sweet of your girl friend to be so thoughtful, but it would be much more considerate on your part to have something to do when your friend is invited out riding. What about the boys they bring for you? Don't any of them date you up separately? Must you depend on your friend for other acquaintances? I'd think you'd much better if you hurried around and got yourself a steady boy friend

Where Is the Harm?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young girl 18 years old and have been going for 10 months with a young man 24 years old who has a good position and he is serious with me.

What I want to know is, should I tell him I have no father? I was adopted when I was 2 months old by a family who are comfortably well off, and everybody thinks I am their own daughter, as we now live 50 miles from where I was born. They have two other children older than I.

EVANGELINE.

Dear Evangeline—There is no disgrace in your case. Certainly you couldn't help it and I'm sure no one will hold it against you. If the young man truly loves you he will want all the more to make your life happy and to make up for you if possible for the loneliness of your youth. You may do as you like about telling the young man of it. I really don't believe it will make any real difference.

Don't Take Too Much for Granted

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl of 18, and in love with a fellow of 24. I have been going out with him for about 2 years, off and on. He told me he loved me but still he never mentions to go steady. When he goes out with other girls and it hurt my feelings but still I never tell him because I figure it is none of my business yet. PUZZLED.

Dear Puzzled: Why not continue to go out with him—and other boys, too, if you like. It's a boy's privilege to have as many girls as he can manage to buy theater tickets for, and if he does not ask you definitely to give up other friends and wear his ring, or otherwise denote yourself to him, you'd be foolish to take too much for granted.

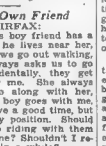
Do Not Be Afraid of Doctor

Appendicitis Operation Not Always Needed

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.

CONSTIPATION may be blamed for many of the disorders from which we suffer. Among such troubles is appendicitis.

Formerly little was known of the condition. Many cases of "inflammation of the bowels" or "acute gastritis," no doubt were really attacks of what is known as "appendicitis."



Dr. Copeland

There may be either an acute or a chronic condition. In chronic appendicitis the patient is troubled by repeated mild attacks of pain. It may take the form of a sensation of burning or aching in the right side of the abdomen. As a rule, the pain, in such cases, is not enough to keep the victim from his work.

This type of ailment is probably due to a chronically inflamed appendix. It has not yet become severely affected. Or it may be a flare-up of some past acute attack.

An attack of acute appendicitis is likely to come on suddenly. There is severe pain in the right abdominal region with great tenderness. The patient wants to lie on his back with the right leg drawn up.

There is considerable rise in temperature. Loss of appetite, nausea, and often vomiting are other symptoms. "Constipation is usually present before the attack in ordinary cases.

An attack of acute appendicitis may last for a few days or a week or two, then gradually disappear. But in gangrenous appendicitis the symptoms are all aggravated. The fever is very high and death may come suddenly if the affected organ is not removed.

The treatment of a mild case is simple. Keep the patient on a light diet, preferably liquid, and apply a hot water bag to the site of the pain. Be sure to clear up the constipation, but do not give strong cathartics. Your doctor will advise the treatment best suited to the particular case.

Some surgeons advise that the appendix be removed as soon as the trouble has been diagnosed, but usually it is thought best to clear up the acute symptoms before operating. However, if there is any reason to suspect an abscess formation, immediate removal of the organ is necessary.

Thousands of cases of appendicitis have disappeared without operative procedure. The profession is making progress in the control of this ailment and perhaps in the majority of cases will not advise surgery.

I say this because many persons hesitate to call a doctor "for fear he will say an operation is needed." This is foolishness. You must set your fears aside and have the physical relief you what is essential to your welfare.

Answers to Health Queries

A READER. Q.—What can I do to keep my hands in better condition? They are in water every day.

2—What should a girl of 17, 5 ft. 3 in. tall, weigh?

A—Try using a good cold cream every night upon retiring and be sure to dry thoroughly at all times. Try to use a good pure soap.

2—You should weigh about 118 pounds.

* * *

L. M. S. Q.—If the heart itself is normal, what would account for pains in this region? Is a condition of this kind serious? Would nursing be apt to cause trouble of this nature?

A.—The trouble may be due to indigestion or neuralgia. Correct the diet and avoid indigestion and over-fatigue. Not necessarily but the cause should be determined and cleared up. I doubt that this will be a contributing factor.

What's in Fashion?

The "Dress Look" in Coats

Directed by AMOS PARRISH

NEW YORK, Sept. 18—Of course, you've noticed it—this "dress" look that fall coats have. It's one of the reason's why everybody's finding fall 1930 coats so much more becoming and flattering than 1929 coats were.

All you need do is look at coat fabrics and silhouettes to know what is meant by "dress" look. Though there are countless little details that make it even more noticeable.

You've noticed, haven't you, that fall 1930 coats aren't as bulky as coats used to be? That folks look less like bundles and more like human figures now?

One reason is because coat fabrics, while still sufficiently heavy for warmth, are softer, finer in their weaves. They can be cut and seamed more like dress fabrics . . . and fit the figure in a less bulky, more dress-like way.

So the fall coat is cut to give a long, graceful sweep of line, just as dresses do.

Wide Wrap-Overs

But Fashion doesn't stop at fabric and silhouette. You've seen the wide wrap-over that most coats have this season. (Incidentally, that helps make the coat warmer, of course.)

Well—the wide wrap-over makes the skirt section of the coat look almost the same as the skirt section of a dress. As you can see in both the front-view sketches.

There's a new idea in coat seamings this fall—the same idea that you find in dresses

No longer are seamings used only for decoration (though of course they do help the decorative effect). They're used now as the French designer Vionnet uses them —to give slightly fitted effects at the waistline. And you can see this in the sketch at the left.

Draped Collars

Many coat collars have changed to look more like dress collars—even when they're of fur. They are apt now to be crushed or draped in soft, becoming effects—just as so many of the most interesting dress collars are.

The large fur collar in the sketch at the right gives this effect. So does the scarf collar of the coat at the center. In fact, this tweed coat might easily be mistaken for one of the new fall wool dresses.

Belts that buckle or button are found on coats as well as dresses And groups of buttons, such as shown in the sketch above, are used for both practical closing and decorative purposes.

Bloused Backs

There's another dress feature making coats more becoming . . . the bloused back. When hips are large or the figure "sway-backed"—as thousands of hips and backs are—the bloused back makes an effective disguise at those points.

The bolero back that's found on some coats does the same thing—just as it does on so many dresses. Then you notice sleeve treatments like dress sleeves. A full sleeve caught into a wrist band perhaps—as in the coat at the center. Or interesting bits of decoration, such as the wing effect in the right-hand sketch.

If you look for these details in coats, you're going to see them many times. And many other details that help give the dress-look to coats.

DOUBLING FOR LOVE

Judy Tells Tris She Can Never Love Him, and Regrets Having Been Angry

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

CHAPTER 49

SHE DID not know what to say. With Tris standing there, regarding her gravely, she could think of no words to express all the things she felt. Her warm delight in him never would be love; her joy in the happiness they had together; the ache his absence would leave.

In the end she held out the necklet, said quickly, a catch in her voice: "Here—I have to give this back. Oh, I'm sorry! It couldn't have been anything but 'no,' Tris. Not ever. But I didn't understand till tonight."

"But you're not sure . . . not sure"—

"Oh, I am Yes—oh, yes"——

"Judy, do this," he pleaded. "Wait till we're back in New York. Two more days—not much to be sure of, then. Perhaps you'll feel differently in two days."

She never would feel differently about Tris. No slightest shadow of a doubt about that. Yet it was a small thing he asked of her.

"Tris, dear," she said softly, "you'll not be disappointed if everything is the same as now? Well then—well then—"

He would take the necklet. "Wear it, Judy. Keep it till we land. Makes me happy, to know you have something of mine." He fastened the clasp at her throat, pulled up her scarf and knotted the ends about that. "Beautiful Judith—beautiful sweet—"

"Good-bye till morning, Tris. No—don't come with me. Don't mind too much, dear—my dear cat—"

He swept her in his arms, kissed her with a lingering tenderness He let her go without speaking at all, standing with his head bowed, dark eyes watching her, loving her.

Judy stepped quickly into the passageway, paused a moment to wipe the tears from her eyes. There was a little strip of mirror at an angle of the wall. It gave back to her the end of the corridor where was out of range of her direct vision. She steadied herself against the lurch of the ship—stared into the glass at the reflected figures of Mr. Birke and Kit Camp.

They were loitering in the music room just beyond the passageway, standing there as if waiting.

Nevertheless, when she came around the bend of the wall they were gone, and she found the music room quite empty.

She felt the clutch of hot anger. Spying on her, were they? Because she ventured into Tris' stateroom for a minute—everybody on the ship was in and out of staterooms just as Tris had said . . . Let Birke ask her any more questions, she thought furiously. She wished she never had spoken to Birke, of all snooping thing!

When she found Kit Camp at the head of the companionway obviously waiting for her, her anger

BUSINESS BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN INDUSTRY

This News May Startle Buyers Now Holding Off

Orders Refused for Long-Period Deliveries; Copper Facts

—By B. C. FORBES—

B. C. Forbes

New York, Sept. 18—These statements may startle manufacturers and merchants who have allowed their raw materials and supplies of merchandise to sink to an extremely low level in the expectation of being able to jump into the market at any moment and obtain immediate delivery in any quantity of anything and everything they may run out of.

There is more than one month's unsold copper in the United States and all of it is held by producers perfectly able to carry it. Copper producers will not accept orders at current prices for delivery days at the longest and some don't want to do business even that far ahead.

A very large biscuit company, is covering its various flour requirements for a year and more ahead confident that it will make handsome profits from such cheap raw materials.

Two of the country's largest users of sugar are busy making arrangements for enough to keep them going. I am told, a whole year, notwithstanding our leading sugar refineries' policy of selling only 30 days' requirements.

A gigantic food corporation is stocking up with various commodities, having reasoned that there is less risk in providing for the future at current extremely low prices than in continuing with light inventories and commitments.

Within the last few weeks firm hands have become less willing to do business for any considerable period ahead, whereas many hitherto nervous buyers have become more willing to place future contracts on the basis of current price levels.

That opening statement about copper, so totally different from the general assumption throughout the country had better be explained. Let a leading producer do it:

"Published statistics indicate that copper stocks in aggregate almost 500,000 tons. The facts are that, while it is true that there is that amount of copper in sight, 75 per cent of it has actually been sold—and this 75 per cent is not to be delivered by market requirements. There is probably not to exceed 100,000 tons unsold. This unsold copper belongs to the large producers able to carry it without any difficulty. Recent price-cutting originated with minor producers, not with important producers."

"Are you willing to make contracts for six months or nine months or a year ahead?" I asked.

"If I were, I should have my head examined," he instantly replied. "Any producer willing to commit himself to furnish copper at that distance ahead at the lowest prices in a quarter of a century would be crazy. We are willing to supply our customers with normal amounts for not more than three months requirements at the most."

A business man in a position to be thoroughly familiar with the facts, after indorsing some of the statements recently made in this column, said:

"All the year the large department stores have held off buying, and the manufacturers have spent the same time liquidating their stocks and clearing the shelves of distressed merchandise. It is generally conceded that that process is pretty well over, and the stores are now beginning to place orders.

"While it is true the orders are small and the merchants expect to reorder, it appears to the writer, and is also the opinion of many others, that the stores are going to be caught without sufficient merchandise to take care of their customers towards the holidays.

"If your column will point this out, a service may be rendered many merchants who do not seem to be alive to the actual situation —or, at least, they pretend not to be alive to it."

Respectfully submitted.

STOCK MARKET 'TO STIMULATE BUSINESS'

By FRANK H. MELOON

One big brokerage house comes out with the prediction that public psychology is shortly to undergo a favorable change. The declaration is made that the stock market will be marked up, with the result that various lines of industry will be stimulated. Probably that would be the result if the market behaved in generally approved fashion. A too rapid advance would be feared and frowned by most leaders. Few will disagree with the proposition that a continued decline in the stock market discourages business and hurts the public psychology aforementioned.

"Bear" propaganda in Wall and State Streets would cheer an interesting study by itself. For example, one day this week the demolition, its circulation a rumor which declared war was imminent between two of the larger European nations. The idea declared that financial support of de Pont interests had been withdrawn from a utility issue. As if that were not enough, they circulated word that the New England Investing had committed suicide by shooting.

Another bit of history not likely to be put into book form is a recent attempt of the Coast Guard to serve a court summons on a Boston broker, who was believed to be aboard his private yacht off the New England coast. The yacht was spectacularly combed from stem to stern, but no trace of the broker was discovered.

Further proof, if any is needed, that the effects of the 1930 drouth in New England were not generally serious is afforded by the announcement that about 60 per cent more fruit and vegetables were trucked into Boston in August than in the preceding August. This is according to figures secured by the Division of Markets, State Department of Agriculture. Prices were naturally correspondingly low for wholesale and for retail prices were lower than last year. The records showed that farmers and market gardeners came to Boston trucked in the equivalent of 1,280 carloads of principal vegetables and fruit during the month as compared with 935 the preceding August. A similar situation existed in other cities in Massachusetts.

We are told that Nathan L. Amster, prominent Boston and New York financial chairman of the Manhattan Elevated Railway Stock, holders' Protective Committee, will not accept nomination of present directors of Manhattan to represent them on the Interborough Rapid Transit board if nominated by them, as has been pre-supposed.

It is the intention of the protective committee to wait until the stockholders' meeting of the Manhattan is held November 12, when it expects to control a majority of the stock and elect an entirely new board for Manhattan, who favor unification.

If the committee is successful in electing its board, it will then name a man for the Interborough board, and most likely the designation will be Mr. Amster. If the present management meantime nominates a man to represent them on Interborough Rapid Transit, he will be expected to resign if the committee is victorious at the annual meeting.

Chicago & Alton Committee Formed

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—A committee has been formed to protect the interests of holders of 4 per cent non-cumulative preferred stock of the Chicago & Alton railroad. With a view in vesting ownership with the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, Kuhn, Loeb & Co. recently purchased large amounts of C. & A. 3½ and 4 per cent bonds, the object being to reorganize the road under foreclosure proceedings. No provision for stockholders has been made.

Hiram M. Bissit, president of the Associated Bond & Share Corp., is chairman of the committee.

Typewriter Co. Is Reducing Payment

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Directors of the L. C. Smith and Corona Typewriter Co. have reduced the annual dividend rate on the common stock to $1 from $3 by declaring a quarterly dividend of 25 cents. The regular quarterly disbursement of $1.75 on the preferred was authorized, both dividends payable Oct. 1, to stock of record Sept. 30.

Today's News of Live Stocks in Wall Street

Yesterday's stock market, the Irving Fisher Service points out, closed 0.15 per cent higher for the day, exactly what it had lost the preceding session.

Statistical studies are being extended more and more every year it is possible that eventually we may have hour-by-hour comparisons of the market fluctuations. Many chartists would no doubt regard them as valuable.

There are many who believe charting is being overdone as a result of the larger amount of spare time by dull markets in the hands of those inclined to use pencils in this way.

Gillette Merger Terms Revised

A last minute revision in plans for the consolidation of Gillette Safety Razor with Autostrop has been made, Wall st. hears. This revision involves the formation of a new holding company which will acquire control of the two safety razor concerns through the exchange of its own stock for securities of both Gillette and Autostrop. The consolidation, in all probability will be effected on a share for share basis.

In addition, holders of Autostrop will be offered convertible preferred stock in the holding company. The new company also is expected to be formed for the licensing of convertible preferred stock after the merger of Autostrop and Gillette is consummated. The merger of the two companies, naturally, will automatically settle the litigation between them concerning patents on the new razor blades introduced by both companies early in the year.

Fruit Earnings Reported Good

Earnings of United Fruit during the current quarter are said to be making a favorable comparison with the same period last year.

Coca-Cola Heavy Buyer of Sugar

Recent activity in Coca-Cola is based on the knowledge that the management of the company has taken advantage of the current depression in the raw sugar market to lay in a large reserve supply of that commodity. It is understood that the company has purchased a sufficient quantity of sugar to supply its requirements for the balance of the current year as well as for most of 1931.

In view of the fact that operations of the company have been profitable during periods when sugar sold at much higher prices, it is felt that benefits accruing from the present sugar prices should be further reflected in its income. Furthermore, buying of this character, inspired by reports that the directors will split Coca-Cola on a two for one or four for one basis later in 1930 or early next year.

Danforth Said to Be Selling Again

"Bad Bill Danforth" is selling em again, it is reported. Danforth is said to be concentrating his selling campaign on the better grade stocks, principally "Steel." Meantime, however, banking interests continue to support that stock.

Commodities in Greater Demand

Indications that a number of commodities, notably copper and rubber, were definitely scraping bottom are responsible for the increased demand which has stirred recently. A representative of one of the largest consumers of these two commodities told this writer that his company was beginning the lay in large inventories of both copper and rubber.

He stated that both of these commodities were far cheaper now and it is only a question of time before an improvement sets in." The executive also stated that he discerned definite signs of an improvement in industry. The first indication of this was apparently only vaguely noticeable two or three weeks ago, but since then they have become slightly more pronounced.

Standard Gas Group Active

Sponsors of Standard Gas & Electric are showing more aggressiveness coincident with rumors that the company planned to consolidate with another important utility group. It may be stated, however, that no important plans are under consideration at the present time. Nevertheless, properties embraced in the Standard Gas system occupy a strategic position in the mid-west, a rapidly developing and should assume a prominent position in the event that any mergers or realignment of utility properties are undertaken in the distant future. At the present time, however, the company is concentrating upon the development of present properties than in the acquisition of new units.

Shubert Takes Cheerful View

Shubert Theater Corp. and subsidiaries report for year ended June 30, 1930, net profit of $89,203, which depreciation and interest charges turned into a net loss of $1,134,108. The loss, being the greater part—nearly 80 per cent —fell in the first half of the fiscal year. Some 20 per cent was incurred in the second half as conditions improved. In the year ended June 30, 1929, operating profit was $2,025,423 and net income after depreciation, interest and federal taxes was $1,076,377, equal to $3.05 a share on the 213,180 shares outstanding on June 20, 1929.

The Shubert management is not pessimistic. The results of talkie competition are becoming defined and the spoken stage is returning to popular favor. Measures are being taken to improve the quality of entertainments, to reduce box office prices and to discourage ticket speculation. Current bookings in Shubert theaters are ahead of what they were a year ago.

Norfolk & Western Splitup Discussed

More talk is being heard of a probable split up of Norfolk & Western common on a four-for-one basis. Part of the discussion is due to the stock remaining above 200 for the last ten months despite the erratic fluctuations in the general market. Railroad officials have admitted that split-ups of high-priced shares popularize such issues, and any such action logically would be taken before the public again becomes interested in securities on a large scale.

New Sponsorship for Montgomery Ward?

Rumors have been heard recently that a plan whereby ownership was being arranged for Montgomery Ward in the near future. The reports lacked confirmation, but they have been persistent and it is now said that accumulation has been in progress. When it is completed, according to the rumors, the market for the stock will be under the direction of Lehman Brothers, a factor who was credited with being decidedly successful on the short side of the market just about a year ago when the fall break was under way.

Kresge May Be Chain Store Leader

First definite improvement in business normally shown during the merchandising lines. In that connection chain stores are in a position to feel the betterment before many of the basic industries. Speculative interest in chain-store issues has resulted in conservative buying of Kresge, which might become a leader when that group moves ahead. The common stock is on a regular $1.60 a year dividend basis. Distributions have been paid without interruption since 1919 and there have been numerous stock dividends and splits up in the interim.

Natural Gas Lines for Pacific Gas

Two lines for the transmission of natural gas from the San Joaquin valley to San Francisco recently were completed by the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. Interests in the area are looking for material expansion in this field in the course of time that should affect earnings favorably. Estimates indicate that the company may show $4 a share on the common stock this year and with the long-term output considered, directors of the Pacific Coast interests have shown a tendency to pick up the stock during reactions. Little favorable information has been given the stock as far as has been learned.

Reynolds Tobacco Depression Proof

Considerable has been heard recently regarding stocks that are considered depression proof. Attention has been attracted to the tendency toward firmness which has shown on several occasions lately by Reynolds Tobacco. This has been pointed out that in 1921 when total income of all corporations reporting to the Bureau of Internal Revenue recorded a decrease of 47.6 per cent from the preceding year, Reynolds actually showed a gain of 52 per cent. Similar favorable comparisons were made in periods of business recession since that year. For that reason there was some conservative accumulation in the stock at times.

CURB MARKET SELLS OFF IN FINAL HOUR

New York, Sept. 18—The Curb market once more followed a declining price trend today, with a resumption of heavy selling in the final hour causing sharp recessions all along the line.

Utilities bore the brunt of the late drive, with practically all sections of the list sinking to new lows on the movement.

Among the weak spots were Electric Bond & Share, down over 2; American Gas & Electric, off 2; American & Foreign Power warrants, off 1¾, and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, off 2-51.

Losses up to a point were the rule in the run of less volatile performances.

Cities Service was well taken on a scale down, with buying influenced by report of new peak earnings for the company. It eased off fractionally.

Oils were easier, although with the exception of a 1-point decline in Camden, losses were of fractional proportions.

Beet Sugar Men in Advisory Body

Washington, Sept. 18—Co-operative representatives of sugar beet growers, cane growers and on the suggestion of Federal Farm Board have established an advisory commodity committee. Among its members are Stephen H. Love, Salt Lake City, president of the United States Beet Sugar Manufacturers Association, Ralph Clark, Eaton, Colo., president of National Beet Growers Association, and Percy A. Lemann of Donaldsonville, La., vice-president of American Sugar Cane League.

3 Companies Buy Manganese Assets

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Brunswick Terminal & Railway Securities Co. has closed a contract with Palmer & Co., and E. J. Sino & Co., of Philadelphia, whereby the three companies will cooperate to purchase the manganese properties of the Georgia Manganese & Iron Co., at a foreclosure sale for $1,500,000 of bonds which Brunswick Terminal holds.

Bond Market New Offerings Smaller

New York Sept 18 -The investment section of the bond market was firm today but stock privilege issues followed the trend of shares. The best demand centered in utility and railroad issues of the highest grade. The volume of new offerings was much smaller than in the first half of the week, consisting solely of municipal issues, the largest of which was the $1,000,000 4 per cent loan of the City of Cincinnati.

Autoists to Fight Large Bond Issue

New York, Sept. 18—The American Automobile Association of New Jersey went on record as opposed to $100,000,000 bond issue which will come before the voters of New Jersey in November. Declared bond issue would cost each motorist more than $210 for each motor vehicle owned and that that amount of the amount would actually be used for roads.

Closing Is Steady in Cotton Market

New York, Sept. 18—Cotton futures today closed steady, 1 point higher to 1 point lower; October 10.94; December 11.16-17; January 11.25-26. New contracts: October 10.92; December 11.10-11; January 11.18; March 11.37; May 11.54; July 11.72-73. Spot steady; middling 11.

Steel Stocks Studied

Index of Steels and Iron Stocks on the New York Exchange. 1926 Equals 100

By HARLOW PETERS
(Irving Fisher Service)

Although the steel industry has not as yet felt any noticeable betterment in business, the steel stocks already have begun an upward move of some strength in anticipation of forthcoming orders.

Steel is accounted the barometer of the stock market, and the slight rise in shares again exhibiting favorable action adds much to the slowly increasing confidence in the whole business situation.

One of the chief users of steel is the motor industry. The tremendous falling off in the production of automobiles has, of course, put a dent of large proportions in steel orders, but the piling up of building and other specifications is expected to bring activity back with a rush.

Of course, it must be understood that a rush in 1930 is a bit slower than a rush in 1929.

STATE STREET SIDELIGHTS

A recent statement by a leading statistical organization that the rails were selling at an average of 15 times earnings as compared with a low of eight times in 1921 has caused a great deal of comment in State st. as to whether or not this is the best way to compute values.

* * *

One observer identified with a Boston house that specializes in rails points out that they use a five-year average when appraising these securities. In some cases allowance must be made for a change of operating conditions, as in New Haven, whose true earning power was not apparent until 1927.

	Times 1930 5-year av. earn gs (est)	earn'gs
Atchison	13	11
Chesap'ke & Ohio	8	8
Del. & Hudson	12	13
New York Central	14	12
New Haven	10	13

* * *

The same source maintains that while rails may not be purchased at these levels too much emphasis should not be placed on current statements, as many classes of securities report abnormally low earnings and the carriers are sure to profit equally in any pickup in business.

Local brokers feel that Boston & Maine will more than cover dividend requirements with 1930 earnings of about $4.50.

* * *

Purchase of rails at nine times the average of five-year earnings is the advice of one Boston house.

* * *

Because of their compliance with President Hoover's building program in the first six months of the current year, it is generally believed, some carriers will show a better ratio between net and gross in the final half than in the first, as they did not increase budgets, but consolidated expenditures into the first half. State St. belief is that greater efficiency should result and be reflected in reduced cost of operations.

Kelly-Springfield Suit Is Dismissed

New York, Sept. 18—Vice-Chancellor Fallon has dismissed on its merits the suit brought by Jesse A. Kelly, common stockholder, for a receivership of Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, it was announced yesterday.

Permission was asked to refile from the suit by the plaintiff's counsel because of information provided by Judge Haight and other counsels for the company, which caused him to change his views. The counsel for the company likewise requested dismissal of the counter suit. Vice-Chancellor Fallon instructed the counsel for the company to draw up an order of dismissal of the suit, which he would take under consideration before signing.

Pres. Miller Notes Upturn in Sales of Auto Trade

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—President L. A. Miller of the Willys-Overland Co. said that the 30 per cent increase in the August business of the company over July indicated a "definite and encouraging upturn."

He added that other statistics indicated an improvement in purchasing power, production and sales.

SPECTATOR'S FAVORITES

By SPECTATOR

No sudden spurt in business or in security buying is anticipated, but business leaders as a rule are confident that a recovery in basic lines is under way.

Secondary Stock Favorites

The experience of investors in the volatile market movements of the pivotal favorites in the past has caused a gradual shift of attention to that group of stocks which rank just behind the leaders. This is taken to indicate a demand on the part of investors to get the most for their money rather than a step they are becoming lax in selections. The ranking leaders generally rule so high in popular favor, both with investors and investment trusts, they are today commanding a premium in price.

A selection of highgrade second line issues made by a leading brokerage house consists of the following American Smelting and Refining, Rest & Co., Brooklyn Manhattan Transit, Chesapeake & Ohio, Continental Can, General Refractories, International Cement, Jewel Tea, Kreuger & Toll, Liquid Carbonic, Loews, McKeesport Tin Plate, Paramount, Texas Gulf Sulphur and U. S. Pipe & Foundry.

American Chain

American Chain is another of the select group of companies receiving favorable attention because of earnings improvement over last year. Net earnings for the six months ended June 30 equaled $3.29 per share against $2.69 for the same period of 1929. This is sufficient to cover a full year's dividend requirements of $3 per share. While it is hardly likely earnings for the entire year will equal the $10.12 per share reported in 1929, estimates assure results but slightly below that figure.

Draw Buenos Aires Bonds for Payment

Chase National Bank and The Bank of America N. A., fiscal agents, announces that $106,400 principal amount Province of Buenos Aires, Argentine Republic, external 7½ per cent secured sinking fund gold bonds, due November 1, 1947, have been drawn by lot for redemption at par and accrued interest on November 1, 1930.

Drawn bonds, together with coupons maturing after the redemption date, should be presented and surrendered at the principal office of either bank, where they will be paid and redeemed on and after November 1, next.

Peoples Light Gross Up 13.49 Per Cent

Peoples Light & Power Corporation, a subsidiary of Tri-Utilities Corporation, reports that consolidated gross revenues of constituent companies amounted to $8,117,564 for the year ended July 31, as compared with $7,151,764 for the preceding 12 months, an increase of $965,800, or 13.49 per cent.

Operating expenses, maintenance and taxes totaled $4,332,677, as against $3,677,041, an increase of $6,5,637, or 17.83 per cent. Gross corporate income before deducting bond interest and preferred dividends was $3,784,566, representing a gain of $309,843, or 8.91 per cent over the year ended July 31, 1929.

Brazilian Bonds Default Interest

State of Santa Catharina, Brazil, has defaulted August 1 interest on its 25-year 8 per cent external sinking funds gold bonds. There are $4,621,500 of bonds outstanding. No steps taken yet to bring about readjustment of this obligation which has been defaulted several times and rearranged.

Portugal Facing Shortage of Wheat

Washington, Sept. 18—Millers of Portugal, in anticipation of a wheat shortage, recently petitioned the government for authority to import 50,000 tons (1,837,000 bushels) of wheat, the Department of Commerce is informed in a report from Richard C. Long, American commercial attache in Lisbon.

PRICES MOVE LOWER IN BOSTON

Prices moved slightly lower in trading on the Boston Stock Exchange today. Changes were confined to a narrow range. Fractional losses were shown by Boston Personal Property, Anaconda, Eastern Gas & Fuel, Massachusetts Utilities, New Haven and Utility Equities preferred.

American Telephone rallied from its low for the day. Boston Elevated second preferred dipped a point, as did Chicago Junction preferred.

First National Stores, selling ex dividend, added a fraction. Utilities, United Shoe, Credit Alliance and Eastern Gas & Fuel preferred each showed minor gains.

Effective with Tercentenary parade Wednesday were shown in total transactions for the day which amounted to 3075 shares. This was the smallest five-hour session on the Boston board since June 9, 1922, when 2907 shares exchanged hands. In the high markets of last October trading exceeded the 100,000-share level on many occasions, with a record total of 209,340 shares attained on Oct 24.

Directors of American Agricultural Chemical Co. have adopted a reorganization plan whereby there will be issued in exchange for the present preferred and common stocks of American Agricultural Chemical of Connecticut 317,875 shares of new par common of American Agricultural Chemical Co. of Delaware.

Of this, 264,552 shares will be issued to present preferred stockholders on share-for-share basis, and 33,323 shares to present common stockholders on the basis of one-tenth of a share of new stock for each present common share.

The action is expected to bring dividends for "Aggie's" stockholders earlier.

Due to enrichment of its ground at great depth, Quincy's yield per ton in the Copper Range copper content obtained in the earliest years of the mine. The August return of 1,256 pounds per ton is 10 pounds better than that of 10 to 12 consecutive years in which the company paid dividends.

With 10 miles of new openings and the opening each month of new ground than is mined, Quincy is in position largely to increase production when warranted by metal demand. Some stretches are of unusual richness, 100 pounds per inch is evidence, and the mine as a whole is of good average grade.

Mill improvements are proceeding apace, however, and 60 pounds per ton, will be further reduced.

BINGHAM DAM WORK RUSHED

With the objective of having initial unit ready to furnish power by end of the year, night and day shifts are in effect on the new Wyman Dam at Bingham, Me. Production schedules call for completion of the unit which will provide 100,000 horse power, early next spring. The dam is being constructed by the Kennebec Water Power Co., a division of New England Public Service Co.

Meanwhile workmen are building a mile a day of transmission line to connect the dam with Buckspot, Me., where Bucksport Paper Co.'s new paper plant is building. It is expected that this 110,000-volt line will be completed and ready for operation about the time the first unit of the dam is ready to supply power.

Central Maine Power recently sold over 1,000,000 kilowatt hours of electric energy on a single dark, foggy day.

Another record set up by the company was the sale of 1,348 electric kilowatts in 23 days, an average of nearly 60 a day. A second campaign, featuring a low-priced ($2) iron, is now under way.

Oil Refineries in Hamburg Have Gains

Washington, Sept. 18—During the current year the oil refineries in Hamburg, Germany, had considerably increased their output, according to report received in the Department of Commerce from Consul W. Talbot Smith at Hamburg. Production from the treatment of foreign oils during the first 6 months of 1930 reached 1,307,137 barrels, compared with 1,-000,700 barrels and 1,437,450 barrels in the corresponding periods of 1928 and 1929, respectively.

The production of gasoline alone has risen from 40 per cent, by comparison with the first half of 1929. The refining activity has been accompanied by a heavy increase in German imports of crude oil, which have doubled between 1927 and 1929, and more than quadrupled in the first half of 1930 by comparison with the first half of 1929.

American Zinc Lead & Smelting Co.

The directors have today declared a dividend of $1.50 per share on the preferred capital stock payable October 1, 1930, to preferred stockholders of record at the close of business September 22, 1930.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Today's Complete Prices and Dividends

TRENDS CHANGE QUICKLY IN WALL STREET TRADING

New York, Sept. 18—Trends changed quickly in Wall St. trading today. Spotty rallies were checked soon after they had halted weeks of professional selling during most of the session. Dullness also served as a brake on most of the actual trading time into the final hour was taken up by selling.

NEW SHORT SELLING

The mediocre rally yesterday led tearish professionals to believe that the best prospects for immediate profits were still on the short side land selling was resumed throughout the list.

Utilities encountered considerable forenoon realising, but pressure also was applied to the merchandising shares and to miscellaneous industrials. Activity increased somewhat in comparison with the Wednesday trading, yet the turnover remained small.

A mild mid-afternoon rally reduced or eliminated the moderate losses in the active issues, but the market turned heavy again in the more active trading later, partly in sympathy with easiness of grain prices.

American Can, U. S. Steel, Westinghouse Electric, American Tel & Tel, Sears Roebuck, General Electric, American & Foreign Power, General Motors, United Corp., Safeway Stores and Radio agged 1 to 3 or more points. There were large losses in Eastman Kodak, Worthington Pump and Auburn Auto.

The close was weak. Sales approximated 1,400,000 shares.

In order to make much progress in either direction the market appeared to need more definite news of one sort or the other, than has been forthcoming.

Reports of better inquiry for some of the commodities, notably steel and pigiron and copper, injected a belief on the part of important consumers that prices have scraped bottom, but in the absence of a rally in quotations on these materials improvement is regarded as rather theoretical.

BULLS ARE SATISFIED

Professional bears have capitalized the sluggish response made by business in a period when seasonal gains are normal. On the other hand, more cheerful speculative circles profess to be satisfied with the situation and seem willing to allow the recovery plenty of time.

The weekly construction figures for the Eastern East, of the Rockies revealed that the daily rate of new awards for September was running slightly behind August's, although the figures for residential building showed improvement.

From circles came reports that business in the cotton mills was reviving and that the New York city department industries unusually busy, indicating that fall buying had started. The president of an automobile company noted a 20 per cent increase in his concern's August business over July, characterizing the gain as "a definite and encouraging upturn."

Announcement of the terms of American Agricultural Chemical Company's reorganization brought flurries of activity in the company's stocks.

The preferred, which is to be exchangeable share for share for stock in the Delaware corporation soon, soared half a dozen points to a new high, but the common, on which the exchange offer is one-tenth of a share of new for one of the present stocks, slumped to a new low.

COPPER IS CUT

Money was easy and so abundant that the unofficial rate held at 1½ per cent against the call loan renewal rate of 2 per cent.

Leading producers today reduced the domestic price of copper to 10¼ cents a pound delivered, a reduction of a quarter of a cent a pound from the level at which the producers had been holding the metal.

The new price meets the reduction in the 16¾ cents made by at least one custom smelter early in the week, which established the lowest price for copper in approximately 30 years.

When that reduction was made by the custom smelter, the leading producers set the price for the metal from 11 cents to 10¾ cents a pound.

Big Soap Merger Plan Is Completed

New York, Sept. 18—The Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co. is to acquire from Kirkman & Son, Brooklyn soap manufacturer, all its assets excepting cash and securities not exceeding $670,000 subject to liabilities as disclosed on June 30 balance sheet, except patents and franchise taxes. Colgate will issue 31,700 additional shares of its 6 per cent preferred stock, valued in connection with the transaction less amount of cash and securities retained by Kirkman & Son.

Colgate has applied to New York Stock Exchange for permission to add the shares of its preferred 6 per cent preferred stock of which 40,000 shares will be sold from time to time for cash and balance used in Kirkman transaction.

$203,000,000 for B. M. T. Reported

New York, Sept. 18—A compromise probably will be reached on the price New York City will pay for Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Corporation at a figure around $203,000,000, it is said in usually well-informed quarters.

Grains Are Lower in Chicago Market

Chicago, Sept. 18—Grains closed lower today. Wheat was off ⅝ to ⅞c, corn ⅜ to ⅝c and oats ¼ to ⅜c. Rye finished ½ to ⅝c off.

WALES WINNER OF GOLF CUP

Universal Service Special Cable
La Touquet, France, Sept. 18—The Prince of Wales won a golf championship yesterday, thus paying incidental tribute to the tutelage of Walter Hagen and Bobby Jones. However, there was a handicap involved.

Thanks to a 24-stroke allowance, the prince now holds the cup that goes with the junior handicap of the Prix Du Casino.

Wales' score totalled 165 for 36 holes, but his handicap gave him a net score of 141, which enabled him to win the cup without difficulty.

The youthful American, S. Shefter, who has frequently paired with the prince in private matches, took the scratch prize with a score of 147, while the senior handicap prize went to Jacques Herschet.

Childs to Speak

Ex-Mayor Edwin O. Childs of Newton, will be principal speaker at the third annual banquet of the Watertown Twilight League, Monday, September 22, at Watertown high school.

OIL REFINERY WORKING UP

New York, Sept. 18—Operations at oil refineries reporting to American Petroleum Institute increased last week, although gasoline stocks recorded another substantial decline. Crude oil runs to stills by 95.6 per cent of refining capacity averaged 2,446,300 barrels daily in week ended September 13, an increase of 83,900 over the week preceding. These refineries were operated at 69.4 per cent of capacity, against 67 per cent in week ended September 6, while in corresponding week last year oil plants were on an operating basis of 83.5 per cent.

There was a decline of 741,000 barrels in gasoline storage at refineries reporting last week, against a drop of 242,000 the week preceding. At close of last week the latter field 37,832,000 barrels of gasoline, the lowest this year, although this was still substantially in excess of storage at this time last year, when 93.9 per cent of refining capacity reported gasoline stocks of 31,714,000 barrels.

Lucky Girl

matter . . . nothing mattered, now that Gordon was back here . . . She could even give him up. She wanted to tell him that, but the others kept coming nearer, calling "Hello!—where are you . . . sing out, will you?"

Confesses Love

She stood on tiptoes and put her hands on Gordon's shoulders. There was so much to say, and no time, no time. . . .

"I love you so," she whispered. "So much—so much!"

She felt his hands gripping her shoulders again, and broke away. Down the muddy path she ran, slipping and sliding, calling:

"Here I am, Alfred, here I am!" wiping her eyes as she ran.

The elder Moores were waiting, sitting before the roaring fire in the cottage. David and her husband helped her slip off her wraps. Farnsworth touched her damp hair, "taming it nicely in the firelight.

"You look like a different girl," he said. "Why, you're rosy-cheeked and blooming!"

"It's the good mountain air and the exercise," the blind old aunt said sweetly, touching Cathie's coldly, tingling cheek with a delicate hand.

"Yes—the exercise. A hard climb!"

Gordon Missing

"And did you climb to the top?"

"Oh, no!" Cathie murmured. But she hardly heard what they were saying to her. She was looking, listening, expecting every nerve, waiting for Gordon. Why didn't he come. What made him stay away like that? Now that she loved each other couldn't they be friends even if she was married, even if it must end right there, without even another kiss?

"Well, I must be getting to my bed," old Andrew Moore said.

"Tomorrow's another day," said the blind woman.

"Yes, tomorrow's another day." Gordon's brother David echoed, and he looked at Cathie. Did she intend to sit up all night?

"Oh, is it late?" Cathie asked brightly. Much too brightly. Her eyes sought the door again. He hadn't come. He wasn't going to to come.

She walked to the guest cottage with Farnsworth. The altitude and the incline made him puff a little. Sometimes his slowness, his difficult br- thing irritated her, but tonight her heart was full of gentleness and pity. She ached to make him happy—she loved him—her mother, Eddie—everybody! Oh, what a gorgeous, glorious mountain night! "Isn't it heavenly?" she cried, squeezing his arm, laying her cheek against his, in one of her sudden rare caresses. "Did you ever see such a wonderful night?"

"It's pretty foggy and cold," he said judiciously, but she laughed, and skipped along beside him, drinking it in.

Food for Thought

At the door of her small neat room, with the camp-cot with the thick woolly comforters, and the small chest of drawers painted green, Farnsworth stopped to say goodnight. Usually she gave him a little kiss, dutiful, affectionate, daughterly. Tonight she lifted her flushed, happy face and kissed him full on the lips.

Long after she was asleep he lay in his narrow camp cot, thinking about it. He couldn't like Cathie. . . .

BRONCHITIS

Mrs. Bessie Conrad, 27 Howard Ave., Malden, Mass., writes: "I was relieved from Bronchitis for a year. I had a cough, but is all gone now. I feel fine; breathing. I lost weight rapidly and was very nervous. I took 3 bottles of S. S. S. a month and carried a temperature. My appetite and appetite were poor. Three doctors failed to relieve my condition. Your treatment and S. S. S. have put me all right. My sister, Mrs. Mary Walsh, also took S. S. S. Walsh told me of Dr. Walsh; how he had cured others here in Malden. Numerous physicians had failed to give her any relief. Then her condemnation I had to Dr. Walsh treat me and he was equally successful in my case. I owe all I have to Dr. Walsh I weighed 33¾ lbs. Now I weigh 103 lbs.—more than I ever weighed before. I eat well and sleep well. I consent to the publication of this testimonial in the hope of helping others who suffer as I did."

Auto Insurance Rates Need Thorough Probing

Load Becoming Excessive

His patience exhausted, Governor Allen denounces the unjust exactions of the compulsory insurance system which imposes an arbitrary assessment of $20,000,000 annually upon the automobile owners of Massachusetts and now threatens an increase of an additional million dollars.

The Governor says what is lamentably and obviously true —that the system opens up all the temptations to graft, extravagance and conpiracy.

He sees physicians and lawyers, of the ambulance-chasing type, conspiring to collect fake claims for patients and clients neither seriously injured nor injured at all.

He sees the private insurance companies accommodating those claims without protest because it is not the insurance companies which pay them in the last analysis. It is the automobilist—the man and the woman who drive with careful regard for the safety of their neighbors—who pays for the conspiracy of the faker and the negligence and the recklessness of the speed maniacs who mow down our people on the highways.

The Governor pauses, however, before he gets to the root of the matter. It is this:

The good people of Massachusetts accepted the compulsory liability insurance system because they were convinced there should be a guarantee of compensation for innocent persons injured in body or in property. They agreed that the State might farm out this lucrative insurance business to private companies because the rates would be low and just. It promised well. It has not kept that promise.

As has been pointed out in these columns, the ever-mounting insurance rates, together with license, registration fees and other forms of arbitrary taxes, all but engulf the autoist now. Automobile owning is to be made a burden, which few can bear, instead of a necessity, which all should enjoy. These taxes and imposts, piled on by the State officials and the private insurance companies with the relentless rapacity of the taxgatherers of ancient Rome, now exceed in five years the price which the automobilist actually pays for his car.

This insurance business came to the private corporations like manna from heaven. Every autoist must insure with them before he can achieve his right to operate his car upon the highways which he built by his taxes. There is no expensive solicitation required. Nobody must be converted to the need of his insurance; the need is forced upon him and he must comply with it.

Is there any wonder that new insurance companies grew up in this State like mushrooms? Where there were thirty, there are now eighty of them. And a large part of this duplication of cost and overhead expenses falls directly back upon the overburdened autoist.

Governor Allen and his Insurance Commissioner, no matter how good their intentions may be, can never establish rates of exact justice under the system as it now exists, until they have investigated the financial structure and the practices of the insurance companies. If this system has induced extravagances and financial piracies such as were revealed by the Armstrong and Brandeis investigations, let us know about it before they can pyramid themselves beyond repair and recovery.

Saving on Scrubwomen

The Government's Master Stroke

From Washington, seat of all wisdom, comes an order to cut the pay of scrubwomen in the Federal buildings here $1.25 a week.

Washington has also been urging the rest of the country, and particularly the country's business men, to keep wages UP.

What's good for business is evidently bad for Uncle Sam.

Incidentally, it is also bad for the scrubwomen.

The reduction of the scrubwomen's pay is merely one part of the rigid economy program instituted by the great minds at the capital. The postal service, the army, the navy, and all other Federal departments have also been subjected to the pruning knife.

It will save the Government a little money—to be spent, probably, on prohibition enforcement or a commission to investigate social trends among the Yaqui Indians or some other matter of equal importance.

And it is certainly a great example to set the nation—this business of telling everybody to keep wages up, while subtracting $1.25 a week from its scrubwomen's pay envelopes.

Can you beat it?

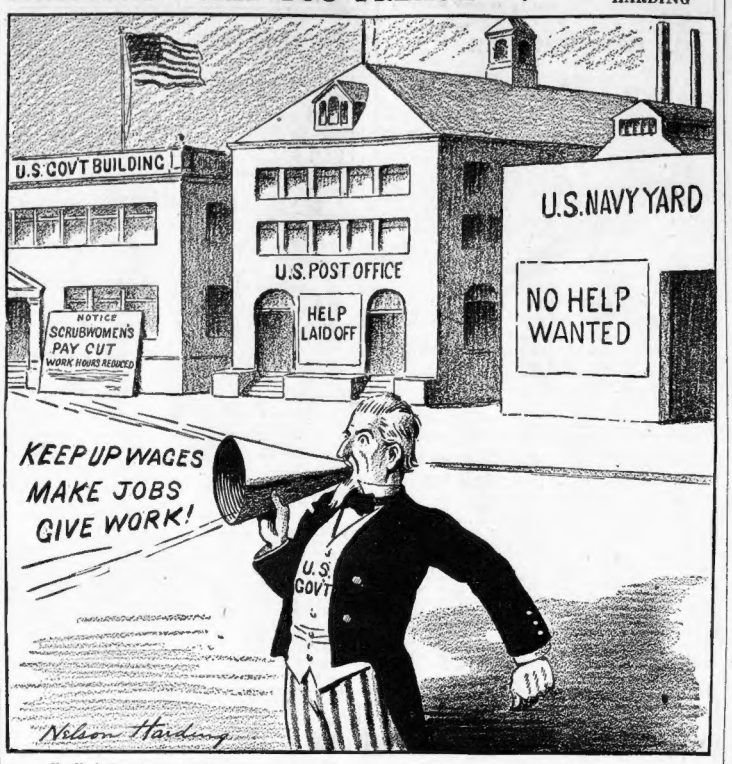
No, you can't beat it.

Boston's Great Day

Boston's Tercentenary parade of yesterday was a marvelous spectacle and a worthy commemoration of the nation's founding in the wilderness on Massachusetts Bay 300 years ago. All who had a part in its planning and in its presentation are deserving of the highest praise. This is true particularly of Mayor Curley, John F. Fitzgerald and Lieut.-Gen. Edward L. Logan.

For the manner in which they handled a crowd, unprecedented in size and enthusiasm, Police Commissioner Hultman and the members of his department are to be congratulated. It was a great day.

PRACTICE WHAT YOU PREACH -:- By NELSON HARDING



Has Uncle Sam become a man
Who tells in urgent speeches
What he expects, and then neglects
To practice what he preaches?

"Let wages fall? Why, not at all,"
Says he, "and keep jobs going."
These things to do he's telling you,
But they're not what he's doing!

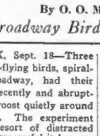
New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

Broadway Birds Are Clipped

NEW YORK, Sept. 18—Three young rich high-flying birds, spiraling about Broadway, had their wings clipped recently and abruptly. They now roost quietly around family firesides. The experiment was the last resort of distracted parents and so successful it became the theme of a Broadway play.

The lads were on a prolonged bust, buying out speakeasies and night clubs and entertaining baby-talkers galore. Jay cures, Park avenue [illegible]nitariums and personal pleas were tested to no avail. In the extremity a hard-boiled ex-marine and football coach was given the "kill or cure" job.



One by one the stayouts were turned over to him carte-blanche to use his own methods. Always rough, he was at times brutal. He acted as their trainer and they had to obey or else. In the beginning all were belligerent, bloated with booze and hang-overish resentment.

He met defiance with a clip to the jaw that often "snapped out the lights." That is after he had inveigled them to his isolated camp in the Adirondacks. There he baited, bullied and in emergencies beat them but had his code of meeting squareness more than half way.

* * *

They could not drink, smoke or leave the camp to "go girling." They were routed at dawn to tramp, chop trees, ride horseback and be abed by 8 p. m. It was the Muldoon idea applied individually instead of collectively and with a far greater gusto.

In each case regeneration required about three months. The first being one of terrific discipline with no quarter given. The second was a sort of thawing out lightened by a touch of the honor system. And at the end of the third trainer and "pupil" were invariably pals.

* * *

The boys returned toughened and whetted to a robust vitality. There has been no backsliding. Not one has taken a single drink and only one has gone back to smoking. Each is shunning Broadway. In every case the trainer was not only given a salary but a grateful bonus.

New York savings banks have fortunes in dormant unclaimed accounts. Many law firms trace the heirs for a percentage. It all proves people once had money.

* * *

Among Broadway grifters drifting in these epic Autumn days are "Monday guys." They are circus trailers who "clean up" on Monday wash days in the briar patches. While a household was out front watching the parade they strip back yard clothes lines. Loot is sold to members of the circus or carried to the next town to pawn.

* * *

Smaller circuses or wagon shows, I am told, had yeggs in the old days who actually had the safe blowing privileges in towns they visited.

Private tutors paying personal visits are cutting into language school receipts. These instructors drop in at home or office for a half hour at $2 a visit. They speak only the language taught the pupil. Many are able to make ten visits a day.

* * *

Some are unable to master French even after years of living in France. They are able to understand but pronunciation is impossible. Arthur Moss has been living in Paris eight years, understands perfectly, reads and writes the language, but cannot speak it. And he's no dumbell.

A disconsolate but merry ge...t—that is life, heigh ho, a sob and a chuckle—writes me he has stopped drinking as result of experimenting with a raw egg in a glass of alcohol on his desk each morning. He watches the alcohol sizzle the egg. "You have no idea," he moans, "what alcohol can do to a good egg."

My work bench is in the modernistic manner, clear glass, and reveals my feet underneath. So far I am unable to keep from looking at them and here I am most of the time—stuck with a big pair of feet and no ideas.

* * *

"You have written," writes Tom K., Jasper, Ind., "about New York for 16 years. And what has it got you?"

It got me out of Jasper, Ind., for one thing.

Listen, World!.- Scorn Aid

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Many People Prefer Poverty

THERE ARE many poor people who don't want to be helped. If you told them this, however, they would deny it indignantly. Each one would say:

"Of course I want to be helped! I'm sick of living like this. I hate this ramshackle house — this poor food— these shabby clothes. It's terrible to live like this, hopeless, discouraged, not amounting to anything. I'd give anything to live in a decent house with everything nice. If I could only get the breaks I'd show you."

Elsie Robinson

That's what every poor person on earth would say if you told them that they didn't want to be helped. And they would probably add bitter words about capital keeping them down—and envious words about the superior luck of other people.

You know, for you've heard them say those very things, haven't you? And the chances are that you've believed them and hustled around to help. Particularly if, as often happens, they happen to be your own relations. You've found jobs for Dad and Sis—you've bought Junior a new school suit—you've given Ma a new stove and a set of aluminum ware. Perhaps you've even moved the whole gang into nicer quarters, with pretty, new furniture and a pantry filled with groceries. And then what happened? Then, may be, you were rewarded by seeing them make good, as they had said they would.

Sometimes it happens. Let's hope it happened to you. BUT IT'S DOLLARS TO DOUGHNUTS IT DIDN'T! For the chances are that, before second rent day came around, you found out that the first line of this article was true:

They DIDN'T want to be helped! In spite of their pitiful pleas and proud boasts, they really preferred their original estates—and you weren't doing them any favor by thrusting that new deal upon them!

Dad threw up his job after 10 days and Sis was fired in a couple of weeks. They weren't "going to let anyone work 'em like dogs." Within a month, the new furniture looked like a fire sale. Ma wasn't going to "slave her life away over a kitchen stove and spend her days shut up in a stuffy apartment." In fact, by this time, Ma had probably acquired a grouch because you hadn't supplied her with a maid and a town car. And the new clothes—they were ready for the rag picker. For neither Ma nor Sis were ever "any hand with a needle."

In short, though they wanted the advantages of the new deal, they didn't want the responsibility and restraint that went with those advantages. They liked pretty clothes, regular meals, but they liked far, far better, the luxury of their old idleness and laziness and irresponsibility. They wanted the status of respectable members of the community. They were mad and sore because they didn't have it. But when it came to acquiring those habits of industry, promptness, system, tidiness, orderliness and reliability upon which social respect is found—THEY PREFERRED TO BE GYPSIES.

Why are so many lives down at the heels? Because, in spite of what they say—THAT'S THE LIFE THEY LIKE.

Children That Play Chess

What Effect Has It on Their Minds

CHESS PLAYING CHILDREN IN THE HARTZ MOUNTAINS

In the little village of Stobeck, in the depths of the beautiful Harts Mountains, there is just one amusement, one interest in hours of leisure and that is the ancient game of chess.

Old men and women play it, waiting for death to call them. And little children play almost from infancy, other children crowding around with intense interest, understanding every move, watching and waiting for the thrilling words "Checkmate."

In parts there actually exists a "chess problem." Men that devote their time to chess so completely so as to neglect business and their families.

With some human beings, chess becomes a mania, engrossing and controlling them almost as completely as does the taking of drugs.

In this country we have no such problem, with so many other things to think about.

Moving pictures, radio, baseball, golf, full grown and miniature, tennis and a thousand other things divide our interest.

You could not possibly imagine a group of American children settling down to the solemn, intricate, mind-fatiguing game of chess.

The question is, "What does chess do to the human mind, what, if any, does it do FOR the human mind?

Some very brilliant men have been good chess players.

And some great conquerors, like Genghis Khan, have played the game assiduously, although Napoleon, the greatest of conquerors, paid no attention to it.

No really great chess player of the highest rank has ever amounted to much in any other line of human effort.

Will the faces of these intelligent, eager children and the minds back of those young foreheads, become brighter, MORE INTELLIGENT, as they play chess, year after year, or will they grow dull?

Should their attention be concentrated on chess problems that have nothing to do with real life, and can bring no substantial rewards, no matter how well you solve them?

Does chess DEVELOP the mind, or does it keep the mind from developing?

Devoted chess players say it develops the mind, and some of them think it cannot be overdone.

Others say it injures the mind, but among them are some that probably would not have the mental power to concentrate on chess.

The truth probably is that effort, mental or physical, which produces no useful results should be, at most, an amusing relaxation from real work. Real, earnest concentration of the mind should be devoted only to effort productive, constructive and useful.

For RELAXATION, do what you please—from hard struggling with chess problems, to the light batting of the ping pong ball. For your earnest work, do something useful.

H. G. Wells Writes

ON "THE SCIENCE OF LIFE"

AS IN its youth, connections were established between nerve cells, paths of association were set up and the main substratum of the mental existence was established.

On this fresh associations and persuasions are being perpetually built but there is no going back to childhood and youth to reconstruct those foundations. The brain has the framework of its time and circumstances set up for once and all.

As life goes on it becomes more and more difficult for the brain to accept new fundamental ideas. And not only ideas but feelings and affections become fixed. How much of an old brain must be occupied by tender thoughts and perhaps hostile thoughts, rivalries, considerations, loyalties, about the dead?

H. G. Wells

For the values of ten thousand things it goes back to the dear old home and to the beloved school that time has long since swept away. The brains of many ageing people must be like cemeteries at evening time. They are overcharged with past things, and no sort of hormone will ever alter that.

It is interesting and plausible to argue that the individual life of the larger animals, the soma, is a sacrifice of physical immortality in exchange for power and achievement. The individual has, so to speak, made a bargain.

For the individual comes out of the germ-plasm and does and lives and at length dies for the sake of life. It is a bit of the germ-plasm which has arisen and broken away, in order to see and feel life instead of just blindly and mechanically multiplying.

Like Faust it has sold its immortality in order to live more abundantly. A bacterium, as we have shown, is all germ-plasm, all reproductive material, and there is no soma to die. But its activities are very limited.

In a man what remains of the immortal germ-plasm is a mere scrap of material hidden in his body. It has been, so to speak, thrust out of the way, so that he can grow; so that he can use hands, feet, eyes and brain; so that he can run, swim, climb, fly and fight his obstinate battle against the universe. He sees, he hears, he thinks, he puts things on record, stores resources, marks dangers and prepares a path for his sons.

But he subordinates the germ-plasm only in order that he may serve it, willingly or not. He uses himself up, but gloriously. Until the dawn of greater capacity and the onset of greater tasks, his eighty-year life seems to be enough for what he has to do.

Much more, and his brain, clogged with its own private memories and conclusions, would clumber the progressive and impatient germ-plasm. For the individual there is a time for work, there is a time for rest, there is a time to go.
